WARY DRIVERS SLOW TRAFFIC

From the top of Puerto Suello Hill in San Rafael heavy commute traffic could be seen backed up this morning as far north as Lucas Valley. California Highway Patrol officers blamed the slowdown on cautious motorists who cut their speed on Highway 101 apparently because of the dampness from yesterday's drizzles. No accident was reported, officers said, but the commute jam, which usually lasts until about 9 a.m. wasn't clear until about 45 minutes later. Northbound travelers, as usual, enjoyed light traffic.

Teacher Blodgett Can Go To Work

Fight In Court At End

A former Redwood High School physical education teacher —once called a "living hypocrisy" of her profession because of her weight — has won a three-year battle to be reinstated.

The state Supreme Court refused Wednesday to hear an appeal by the Tamalpais High School District, thereby requiring the district to rehire Elizabeth R. Blodgett, 45, of Marshall, according to Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino.

Miss Blodgett, who weighed 228 pounds when she was dismissed in 1968, was fired because school officials thought her size made her unfit to teach physical education.

The district had appealed a September ruling by the state Court of Appeals which said that despite her weight, she was an "exceptionally competent" teacher and the district must rehire her at once.

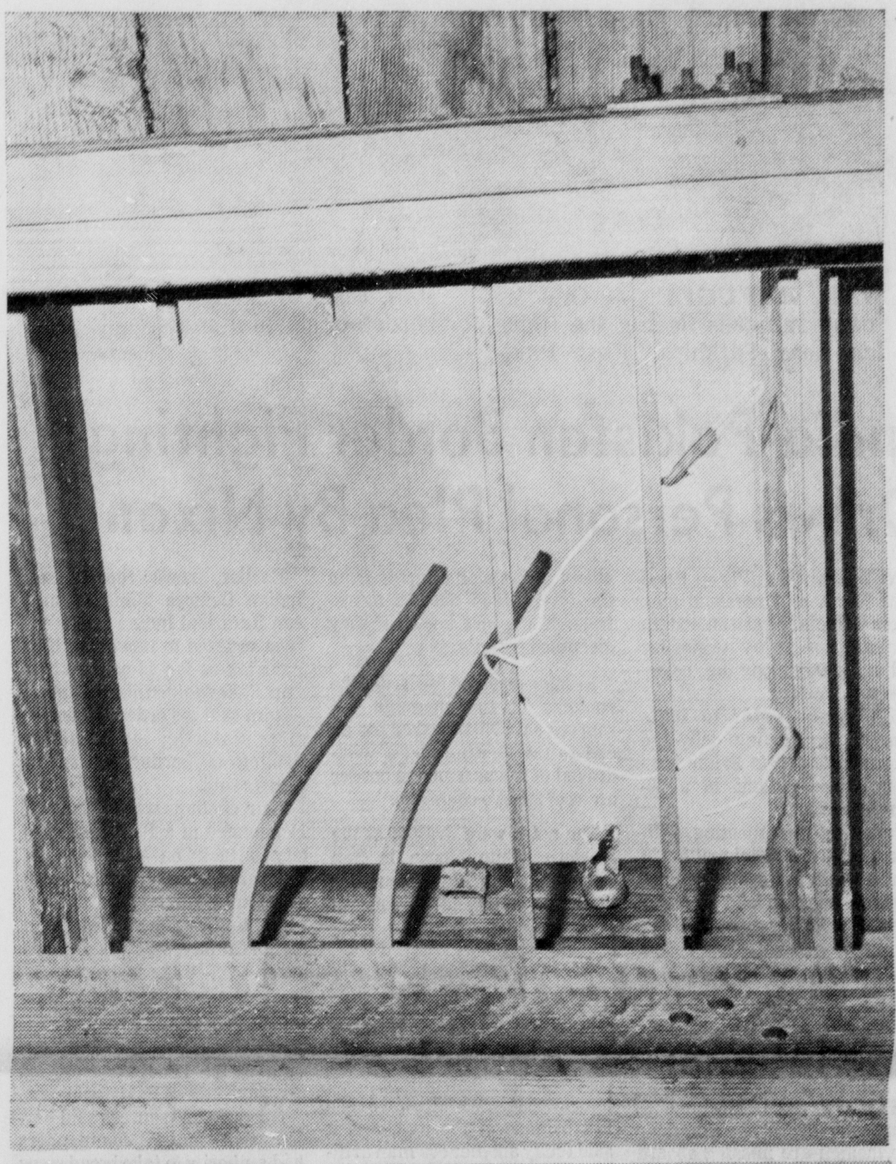
Godino said the supreme court's refusal to hear the district appeal makes the rehiring order final.

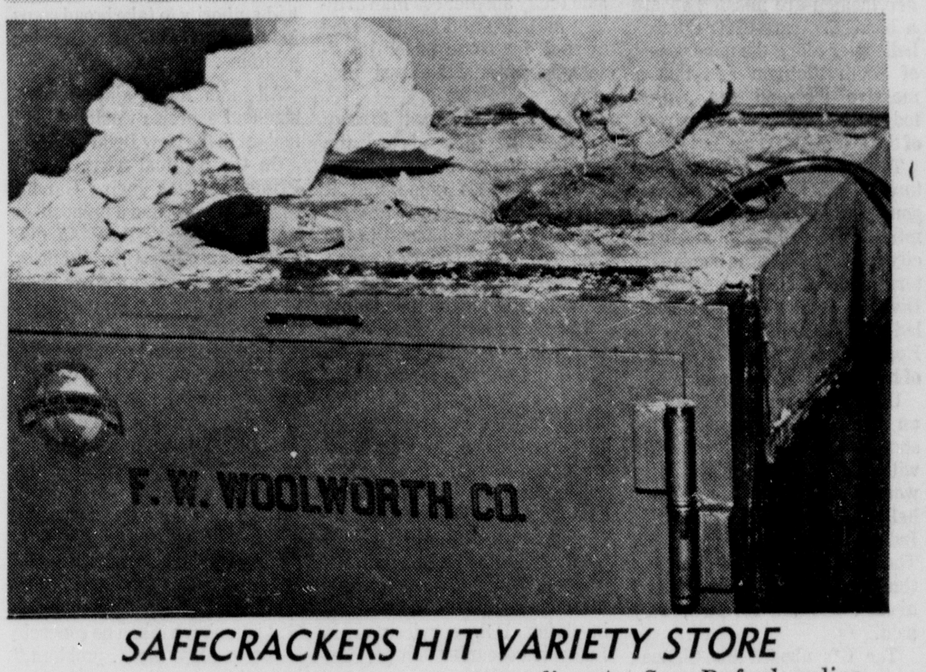
Miss Blodgett was not rehired in the spring of 1968 because Redwood High School Principal Donald E. Kreps said her weight presented the wrong image for a physical education teacher.

A hearing officer from the state Department of Education conducted a hearing and upheld the district in releasing her.

The teacher then appealed that decision to Marin Superior Court, where Judge Joseph G. Wilson expressed sympathy for Miss Blodgett but ruled that the district had acted legally.

After the Court of Appeals reversed Judge Wilson's decision, the district sought a rehearing but that was turned down last month.





SAFECRACKERS HIT VARIETY STORE

Bars on a ventilation opening (top photo) of the F. W. Woolworth store at 1009 Fourth Street, San Rafael, were cut either last night or early today by burglars who made off with between $1,500 and $2,000. A safe (bottom photo) was entered through a six-inch hole burned into the top of it, according to San Rafael police. Officers said the safecrackers apparently climbed a fire escape of a neighboring building and scaled two 10-foot walls to get to the roof of Woolworth's. The crime was discovered by employees arriving for work at 7:15 a.m. today.

Slain Arab Premier Buried

AMMAN (UPI) — Jordanian Premier Wasfi Tel, assassinated Sunday in Cairo by four Palestinian guerrillas, was buried today to the sound of a 21 gun salute. King Hussein named a moderate to succeed him but brought in a tough line official as his national security adviser.

Tel, 51, hated by the guerrillas for ordering the Jordanian army to crush their revolt last summer, was killed by four bullets as he stepped from his car at a Cairo hotel on the banks of the Nile following a luncheon with Abdel Khalek Hassuna, secretary general of the Arab League.

Munzi Soleiman Khalifa, 28, leader of the four man death squad, told UPI correspondent Maurice Guindi in Cairo that Tel's death was only the first of a series of murders intended to eliminate everyone who has opposed the cause of the Palestine guerrillas in the Arab world.

Khalifa raised his hand in the V for Victory sign and said, "We have taken our revenge on a traitor." He said he had drunk Tel's blood after the shooting to emphasize his hatred of the man.

Hussein named Deputy Premier Ahmed al-Lawzi, 50, as Prime Minister to succeed Tel and gave him the portfolio of Defense Minister, a job also held by Tel. Political sources said Al-Lawzi was considered unbiased and neutral on Palestinian guerrilla matters.

The sources said Al-Lawzi was not known for his strong character and suggested his new cabinet may be merely a caretaker one. Like Tel, AlLawzi is a Bedouin. He had served as chief of protocol at the King's court and was chief of the court.

Hussein named former Interior Minister Mohammed Rasoul Al-Kilani as his adviser on national security affairs. Al-Kilani has the reputation of being tough toward the guerrillas, a suggestion that Hussein's own tough stand would not change.

Anis Moasher, Minister of Transport, took over Al-Lawzi's post as Minister of Finance.

The leader of the gang that killed Tel said the Prime Minister was murdered to avenge the death of a Palestinian guerrilla captain in Jordan, police sources said.

Tel was hated by the Palestinian guerrillas for ordering the army to crush their revolt this summer. He died trying to get his own gun out to fight back.

Second Rock Concert Audience Small, Promoter Said In Red

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Saturday night's rock concert — feared by some as an invitation for a repeat performance of the damage caused Wednesday during the first such affair held at the new veterans auditorium — drew only a small audience which left the building much as it found it.

While the show was a "success" in that the building sustained no additional damage, it proved a disaster for the promoter who reportedly went $8,000 in the red when only 500 persons braved heavy rain to attend.

According to Leon G. Kalimos, the audience was the smallest to attend a show at the $3.5 million Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

The concert — featuring Delaney, Bonnie and Friends — was in marked contrast to Wednesday's rock show which drew the auditorium's largest crowd — between 2,200 and 2,300 persons.

At that concert, put on as a benefit for the Marin Open House drug abuse center, patrons spilled wine and ground out cigarettes on the powder blue seats and carpets. Damage was estimated at $5,000.

But Saturday's concert was as calm as the other was turbulant; as fastidious as the other was sloppy.

"It's a completely different scene," Kalimos said as he watched youthful patrons enter the auditorium. "I haven't seen too many acidheads here tonight. These are cuter kids."

The difference, he said, stemmed from the groups performing.

"The groups playing tonight appeal to a different audience. This is an older audience... much better behaved," he said.

The concert, however, turned out to be less than expected for several hundred patrons who paid $3.50 and $4.50 each to attend the second performance at 10:30 p.m.

Due to the small audience attending the first performance at 7 p.m., the promoter, William Spencer of San Rafael, changed the schedule shortly after the first group began to play and decided to give one long performance.

Those who purchased tickets for the 7 p.m. performance got a longer show than expected, while those who purchased tickets for 10:30 p.m. saw only an

Nixon Would Veto Own Tax Bill — Senate Version Has 'Flaws'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon will veto his own tax bill if it contains either a provision to finance presidential campaigns with tax money or billions of dollars in tax cuts he did not seek, the White House said today.

Clark MacGregor, Nixon's chief congressional lobbyist, said Nixon favored a bill passed by the House, but said the Senate version contained "fatal flaws" that Nixon would not accept.

MacGregor said the Justice Department has been instructed to review the constitutionality of permitting individuals to earmark $1 of their income tax payment for presidential campaigns. But he indicated Nixon has decided to veto the bill rather than challenge it in court.

Nixon met for more than three hours with MacGregor and members of his staff to discuss the tax bill. MacGregor relayed the President's thinking to newsmen less than an hour and a half before House and Senate conferees arranged to meet to start discussions on a compromise measure.

The House approved tax cuts totaling $15.4 billion for 1971 through 1973 —close to what Nixon asked. The Senate boosted the total to more than $27 billion besides adding the controversial campaign provision to allow taxpayers to authorize

India-Pakistan Border Fighting Draws Personal Plea By Nixon

NEW DELHI (UPI) — President Nixon sent personal messages to India, Pakistan and the Soviet Union today urging an end to fighting along the Indian-Pakistan border.

U.S. Ambassador to India Kenneth B. Keating delivered Nixon's message to Prime Minister Indira Gandhi in a 30-minute meeting.

Following the meeting with Keating, Mrs. Gandhi met for 20 minutes with her senior cabinet advisers. She also held a second meeting with her armed forces chiefs and senior officials from the foreign and defense ministries. It was not known if they discussed Nixon's note.

Keating declined to discuss the contents of the message but sources said Nixon asked for an end to the fighting and a withdrawal of troops from the border areas of the two countries.

The notes were drafted at the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif., by Nixon over the holiday weekend, the sources said.

Earlier, news reports said Indian Defense Minister Jagjivan Ram said Indian troops had been ordered to move into East Pakistan as far as necessary to stop Pakistani artillery attacks.

Ram said the order was issued after Pakistan increased its shelling of border areas, the reports said.

Four civilians were killed and 14 wounded in a Pakistani artillery attack on the town of Balurghat, about 180 miles north of Calcutta, Sunday.

Fighting, which started in the area Saturday, still was going on today.

India, claiming Pakistan troops threatened their defensive positions, moved into Pakistan in the Dinajpur area and destroyed three Pakistani tanks.

Government sources said earlier that Indian commanders had authority to take broad steps in protecting their defensive positions.

On the political front, Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi reportedly rejected a proposal to bring the Indian-Pakistan dispute before the U.N. Security Council — the 15-member body in charge of peacekeeping duties for the world body.

The Press Trust of India (PTI) new agency quoted Mrs. Gandhi as saying the organization should use its influence on Pakistan. "We have been attacked three or four times. Did the Security Council ever state clearly who the agressor was?" PTI quoted her as saying.

"It is not as if India has not been patient, but the world must note that the military rulers of Pakistan have taken no concrete steps to solve the ... problem," she said.

Mrs. Gandhi has said India is being involved in what basically is a civil war in East Pakistan. The two Pakistans are divided by 1,000 miles of Indian territory and millions of refugees from the East Pakistani civil war have fled into India, taxing the country's resources.

Big U.S. 'Copter Missing In Vietnam; 33 Aboard

SAIGON (UPI) —The U.S. Command said 33 American servicemen are missing aboard a big U.S. Army CH47 Chinook helicopter along the upper coast of South Vietnam and that a massive air and sea search today had failed to find any trace of the aircraft.

The search for the big twinrotored Chinook, believed to have gone down at sea Sunday on a 40 mile flight from the northern city of Da Nang to the headquarters of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division at Phu Bai, was being led by a Navy destroyer, the USS Epperson, and included dozens of helicopters and planes.

U.S. spokesmen also reported an American A37 Dragonfly jet shot down in Cambodia today with its American pilot lightly wounded, and said four other helicopters had been lost in Indochina in the last four days. The toll stood at 36 missing, three dead and seven injured aboard the six aircraft, they said.

The GIs aboard the Chinook came from a division that is in the process of pulling out of Vietnam. The command has announced the withdrawal of one full brigade of the unit, and it said today another 600-man artillery battalion had been ordered to pack for home under President Nixon's withdrawal program.

Spokesmen declined to say whether the men aboard the Chinook were among those scheduled to go home, but it seemed likelier they were replacement troops headed to the Phui Bai headquarters to man the two brigades that are remaining here for the time being.

The last time as many as 33 Americans were killed or missing in Indochina was when that many members of the 23rd (Americal) Division were killed during an attack at Fire Base Mary Ann on March 28.

The worst U.S. helicopter accident of the Indochina war occurred Jan. 8, 1968, when a CH53 "Super Jolly Green Giant" crashed, killing 41 Americans.

The worst non-combat crash involving U.S. servicemen in Indochina occurred Jan. 25, 1966, when a C123 Provider crashed near An Khe, 240 miles north of Saigon, killing 46 Americans.

In addition to the missing Chinook, the U.S. command said three Americans were killed, two injured and one is missing in the crash of a U.S. Air Force CH53 helicopter during bad weather Thursday into the Nha Be River 12 miles southeast of Saigon.

Underground Blast Recorded

UPPSALA, Sweden (UPI)— The seismological institute in Uppsala today registered an underground explosion in the Siberian Platinsk nuclear test area, Prof. Markus Baath said.

The detonation, which took place at 7:03 a.m. (1:03 a.m. EST), measured 5.9 on the international Richter scale.

Baath said the last time the Soviets performed an underground explosion in the area was Oct. 9 when the registered magnitude was 5.7.

Hijacker Hunt In Its Fifth Day

WOODLAND, Wash. (UPI)— If "D. B. Cooper," the skydiving hijacker is alive and well in the woods near here, it's a safe bet to say he's holding 10,000 soggy $20 bills.

Rain came to this area Sunday in buckets. During the day the storm clouds broke for a moment and Woodland's police chief-pilot, Joe May, was able to make one flight up the Lewis River gorge to check out another in a series of falsa leads, a "parachute" in a tree turned out to be a tin roof on a hillside.

The FBI agent in charge of field work here, Tom Manning, took his radio off the hook and spent Sunday dodging reporters and doing old fashioned leg work—checking leads, stopping at airports and interviewing resident after resident in the area of the search, which enters its fifth day today.

A Northwest Airlines 727 jetliner was hijacked between Portland, Ore., and Seattle Wednesday night. Saying he had a bomb, a soft-spoken, middle-aged hijacker forced the plane to land in Seattle where he let the passengers off, collected $200,000 ransom and four parachutes and said he wanted to go to Mexico.

Somewhere between Seattle and Reno, Nev., whera the plane was to refuel, "D. B. Cooper" bailed out with the money.

Skyjackers Admitted Slaying, Says Crew

MIAMI (UPI) — Crewmembers of a Trans World Airlines jetliner hijacked to Cuba returned to the United States Sunday and said the three young blacks who seized the plane freely admitted that one of them had killed a New Mexico state trooper.

The hijackers, who identified themselves as members of a black militant group known as the Republic of New Africa, also threatened to kill one of the 43 passengers aboard the Boeing 727 to prove they meant business.

"We've already committed murder and another one won't make that much difference," the hijackers told stewardesses Elizabeth Caubre and Shirley Ann Harrell, both of Kansas City.

"They said they'd been hiding for two days in the sand dunes around the (Albuquerque, N.M.) airport waiting for a chance to hijack a plane," Miss Caubre said.

They are wanted in the shooting death of a New Mexico state policeman, Robert Rosenbloom, on Nov. 8. Rosenbloom was gunned down after he stopped a car with three men along Interstate 40, eight miles west of Albuquerque, for a traffic violation.

The hijackers told Miss Caubre they felt the shooting was in self-defense since Rosenbloom was "the enemy" and they were wanted for draft evasion and interstate transportation of explosives and firearms.

"They told us the youngest one, Michael, had killed the trooper," Miss Caubre said, "But they called him Mancha. They said that was his African name and they had all dropped their 'slave names.'

"The leader said his name was Antoine Raul. They said they hoped to get to Africa and find new freedom."

Deodorant Ingredient Is Attacked By Nader

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Hexachlorophene, an active ingredient in deodorants and other hygiene products, should be banned for nonprescription use because of possible harmful effects, according to Ralph Nader.

The consumer advocate proposed the ban Sunday in a letter to Dr. Charles C. Edwards, commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

There have been rumors that the FDA would prohibit nonprescription use of hexachlorophene following tests in which rats suffered brain damage when exposed to certain levels.

The chemical is readily absorbed through the skin, Nader said, and its effects on human beings are uncertain. Nader cited tests in which infants bathed in hexachlorophene products showed concentrations of the toxic chemical in their blood streams.

Brain damage to rats resulted when the amount of hexachlorophene in the blood reached a range of 1 part per million.

The infants showed levels of .65 ppm, while some adults who used hexachlorophene products in bathing had levels of .38 ppm, Nader said.

Butane Gas Kills Youth

ABILENE, Tex. (UPI)—A young man filling a camper truck with butane gas fell unconscious onto the tank during the weekend and was frozen by the escaping gas.

The official cause of death of Johnnie Aaro Allen, 19, was ruled freezing, not asphyxiation. Allen had gone into the country to feed cattle and fill the butane tank in the camper Saturday. He was found hours later, his head and one arm completely frozen.

Justice of the Peace Silas Clark said the fumes overcame him and he passed out, falling with his face next to the valve which was spewing the subfreezing gas. Clark said he would not have been overcome if he had filled the tank in the open, instead of inside the camper.

Red Craft In Mars Approach

MOSCOW (UPI) —One Soviet spacecraft approached Mars today on a mission seeking possible life, but there was no word on the fate of its sister ship already due at the Red Planet.

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said Sunday the unmanned Mars 3 was "approaching Mars" at the end of its six-month journey from Earth. But it said nothing about Mars 2, which blasted off nine days ahead of Mars 3.

(In Manchester, England, scientists at the Jodrell Bank Observatory said Sunday one of the two ships had arrived and was orbiting Mars, but they did not know which one.

("We are assuming it is Mars 2," a Jodrell spokesman said. "But it could be the other one. There's no firm indication.")

Sunday's Pravda report caught the interest of Western space experts because, previously, the few Soviet progress reports always treated them as a joint mission and mentioned both ships.

At that point, the Western analysts said they were hesitant to speculate whether the Mars 2 mission had gone wrong because it was possible the ship had landed or was in orbit.

The Soviets often delay reports on space missions until they are confident all is well. In addition, the U.S. Mariner 9 Mars probe has been watching a global dust storm that could have caused postponement of Soviet arrival plans.

Mars 2 and Mars 3 are the biggest unmanned spaceships in history, five tons each. They blasted off May 19 and May 28 respectively on the 290 million mile flights.

In Pasadena, Mariner 9 scientists, who got the best pictures ever taken of another planet's moon with shots of the Martian satellite Deimos, set out today to photograph its big brother Phobos.

The scientists were heartened by the success of the difficult maneuver required to get the Deimos picture Friday, and not discouraged by the failure of an attempt to photograph Phobos Saturday. A spokesman called it "a tricky business."

Radio commands must be sent to the Mariner 9 as it orbits Mars more than 84 million miles away, and the Mariner must then seek out the moonlets, which are hard to find because they are so tiny and their orbits are not precisely known.

Hepburn III

BOSTON (UPI) —Actress Katherine Hepburn was under treatment today at Massachusetts General Hospital for an undisclosed illness, but a spokesman said "there's nothing serious."

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Wallace's Choices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Alabama Gov. George Wallace has selected several persons he would like on his cabinet if he is elected president, but has yet to pick a running mate, Newsweek Magazine reported Sunday.

Wallace said he would want William J. Porter, chief U.S. negotiator to the Paris peace talks or G. McMurtrie Godley, ambassador to Laos for his secretary of state.

Wallace said his other cabinet choices included Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., or economist Milton Friedman for treasury secretary and Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., as secretary of defense.

His choice for agriculture secretary was Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., and for labor secretary either AFL-CIO President George Meany or United Auto Workers chief Leonard Woodcock.

'Likes Power'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary John B. Connally would serve either major political party because he "likes to exercise power," according to two Texas congressmen and a newspaper editor.

Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., compared Connally to Coriolanus, a Roman military leader who lived 2,500 years ago. "You know Coriolanus fought for Rome and when they didn't give enough recognition, why he fought for the enemies of Rome."

Rep. J. J. Pickle, D-Tex., called Connally "a fierce competitor," who must succeed in anything he undertakes. Ronnie Dugger, editor-at-large of the weekly Texas Observer, was more critical, charging that "Connally is serving big banks, big oil, big corporations."

Eckhardt, Pickle and Dugger were interviewed on CBS-TV's "60 Minutes" yesterday.

Meany Resting

A union aide said Meany was "elated" over the Redskins' 20-13 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles. The aide also reported that the 77-year-old labor chief was doing "just fine."

Yorty's Poll

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) — A poll commissioned by Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, showed him leading in the Manchester area of New Hampshire, site of the first presidential primary.

Published in the New Hampshire Sunday News, the telephone survey of 609 persons showed 46 per cent favoring Yorty, 44 per cent for Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and 10 per cent for Sen George S. McGovern, D-S.D.

Progress In Talks

BERLIN (UPI) — East German Premier Willi Stoph said today the east-west German talks to implement the Big Four accord on Berlin have made good progress and an agreement is possible soon.

"It is necessary and possible to conclude the negotiations soon" he told the East German parliament in a statement on his new government's policy. Stoph was reelected to a four-year term by the parliament last week.

Stoph spoke to the People's Chamber Volkskammer as East German and West Berlin officials met in the House of Ministries in East Berlin to discuss opening the wall to allow West Berliners to visit East Berlin.

It was their 14th meeting since the Big Four ambassadors signed their Berlin agreement on Sept. 3.

Supporting The Line

VIENNA (UPI) — The Czechoslovak Communist party said today the 99.8 per cent majority it rolled up in one-party elections proved the "overwhelming majority of the people" support the party's pro-Soviet line.

Czech emigrant sources said the voters knew they would be punished for a "no" vote or an absentation. But Rude Pravo, the Communist party's leading newspaper, hailed the 99.8 per cent result — identical to the vote in Czechoslovakia's last parliamentary election in 1964.

"The Communist party is again the leading force of society," Rude Pravo said.

Errol Flynn Estate Declared Insolvent

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The estimated $2.5 million estate of actor Errol Flynn was declared insolvent Friday and the last asset, a lot overlooking Sunset Boulevard, was sold to pay back taxes.

The probate case, which began upon the actor's death in 1959, was terminated by a superior court commissioner with the disposition of Flynn's last holding. The swashbuckling 1930's star reportedly earned $10 million in his career.

Guards Surprise Convicts, End 6-Man Prison Revolt

RAIFORD, Fla. (UPI) — Guards removed the hinges from a locked door Sunday and surprised six prisoners who were holed up in the Raiford State Prison hospital with four hostages and threatening to throw a "Molotov cocktail" into highly flammable oxygen tanks.

The inmates surrendered without resistance and the hostages were released unharmed, according to Superintendent L.E. Dugger.

The prisoners, four of them serving long terms for murder, manslaughter or robbery, had overpowered guard M. R. Galloway and prison medical technician Paul McBridge and fled toward the fences of the maximum security prison housing 3,000 inmates.

However, the guard and technician, who had been locked in the hospital, shouted to other guards who warned the prison control room. Guards were dispatched to the fence to intercept the escapers, who retreated to the hospital and overpowered two more guards — A.D. Griffin and Dale Winstead.

Locking themselves in the hospital, the inmates said Dugger would have to agree to five demands before the hostages would be released. The conditions were better medical treatment, no reprisals, access to newsmen, immediate contact with their families and a talk with the prison psychiatrist, Dr. Manuel W. Guerrero.

It was while Dugger was discussing the demands with the prisoners that a group of guards removed the hinges from the doors of the hospital and captured the inmates.

Dugger said the inmates had lighted the "Molotov cocktail," a device fashioned with ligher fluid and a paper wick in a glass container, but did not throw it when rushed by guards. The prisoners had threatened to blow up the prison by throwing the flaming liquid into the hospital's oxygen tanks.

The inmates were Michael Stoupt, 31, of Volusia County, serving 32 years for robbery and escape; Jimmy Ross Freeman, 22, of Broward County, serving life for first degree murder; Calvin Arnold, 24, of Orange County, serving life for second degree murder; Joseph Troncoso, 27, serving 20 years for manslaughter and escape in Polk and Union counties; Alan Shaffer, 23, of Broward County, serving 19 months for possession of LSD; and Stephen Smith, 22, of St. Lucie County, serving three years for possession of narcotics.

On Feb. 12, Raiford was hit by a prisoner uprising that left 64 inmates injured, all but one wounded by gunfire from guards. The U.S. House Committee on Crime opened hearings in Washington today into charges that guards used excessive force in that uprising.

On Nov. 13, two inmates broke into the prison furniture factory and fashioned a "tack" by enclosing a fork-lift truck in armor plating of 10-gauge sheet metal. They rammed their way through two prison gates under a hail of gunfire and escaped into nearby woods. The men still are at large.

ASK FARES, DATES

Shoppers Inspect The New Buses

Most of the visitors agreed the air-conditioned, brightly colored vehicles with reclining seats and capacious racks for commuters' briefcases were "pretty nice."

But they were more interested in when the buses would take over from the Greyhound buses, and how much the fare would be.

Driver Rick Sullivan patiently explained over and over that the magic date for commuters will be Jan. 3, and the fares would be less than Greyhound passengers pay now. He handed out schedules for the intra-county runs, which will replace the private Marin Transit System buses Dec. 13 for midday riders traveling east-west and north-south within Marin.

A veteran commuter leaned back, looked around, and declared, "I hope they'll wake me up when I get to San Francisco."

Despite the chill and the overcast skies Saturday, he remembered his summertime rides with no fondness, and said he looked forward to the air conditioned ride.

"I've gotten off work in the city feeling fine, and by the time I got home on those hot buses, life wasn't worth living," he said.

"The fares will be less — you're putting me on," said another commuter. "They want to get your car off the bridge, and you into the bus," Sullivan explained.

Sullivan, a longtime Greyhound driver himself, was one of the "pioneers" in switching to the Golden Gate Bridge bus fleet. He said that transferees' pension problems have been worked out, and 130 more drivers will "change from grey shirts to white shirts" on Jan. 3, when they switch bosses — and buses.

New Census Will Check Americans' Buying Habits

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Census takers will fan out across the country again in January, this time checking where and what people are buying instead of just counting noses.

The Census Bureau, it was disclosed in congressional testimony released today, will survey the buying habits of 17,000 families —and will resurvey them three more times during 1972.

The checkup will be done by census takers for the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), the statisticians who put together the monthly consumer and wholesale price indices which are the chief barometers of the cost of living.

The survey is intended, according to the testimony before the House Appropriations Committee, to put together a new market basket of goods and services for the new cost of living index. The last such massive survey was made in 1960-1961, but included only one follow-up interview.

Although the purpose of the survey is to get a new idea of what Americans are buying, and where they are buying their goods and services, the quarterly reports could give President Nixon an up-to-date guide on whether his antiinflation program is working.

Bay Catholic School Strike Talks Break

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Negotiations have been broken off until later this week in the two-week teachers strike against seven Bay Area Catholic high schools — including Marin Catholic in Kentfield — despite the intervention of Mayor Joseph L. Alioto.

Striking teachers met with Alioto yesterday and asked his intervention because "an impasse was reached on key matters" during a session Saturday conducted by federal mediator Gene Barry, according to James Gallagher, chief negotiator for the teachers.

However, Rev. Bernard Cummins, superintendent of schools for the Archdiocese of San Francisco, rejected the mediation role proposed for Alioto and in a press conference today said, "The archdiocese will continue to rely strictly and exclusively upon federal mediation as long as it is available."

He said Barry adjourned negotiations until an undetermined date later this week. Barry could not be reached for comment.

While Father Cummins was holding his press conference this morning, conditions reportedly were normal at Marin Catholic. Father Francis A. Lacey, the school's principal, said seven to nine pickets marhed in front of the school, but student absences were about normal.

The striking union, Secondary Teachers Association Local 2240, scheduled picketing beginning at 11 a.m. today of the home of Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken.

"The key issue preventing agreement is the STA demand for an immediate increase above the normal 4 per cent to 6 per cent being paid to all lay teachers this year," Father Cummins said.

He said any further raise would require a tuition increase which is not allowed by Phase II of the federal wage-price control effort.

However, he said the Archdiocese is willing to negotiate raises for 1972 to 1974 as part of a three-year contract.

He said other unresolved issues are class size, adjustments in supplementary salary and substitute teaching.

Meanwhile in New York, a strike by Catholic lay teachers entered its second week with both sides reportedly far apart on raises.

A 21-gun salute was fired as Tel's coffin was lowered into the grave. His widow stood nearby, dressed in a black ankle-length dress. Only a few feet away was the grave of Hussein's grandfather, King Abdullah, who was assassinated in 1951.

After a 30-minute private service at the Royal Palace Mosque, Tel's coffin, draped in the black, red, white and green Jordanian flag, was carried on a gun carriage to the hilltop cemetery.

Amman was quiet in the aftermath of the assassination Government offices were closed but private businesses opened as usual.

Police arrested four men and charged them with the murder The semiofficial Middle East News Agency identified them as Khalifa; Ezzat Ahmyed Rabah, 27; Ziad Mahmoud Bacran, 27; and Jawad Khalil Baghdadi, 25.

Tate Denied Attorney Move

Willie Tate, one of six San Quentin Prison convicts accused of murder and conspiracy in the Aug. 21 uprising, was denied the right to represent himself this morning.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court denied Tate's request "without prejudice" which means that Tate can still serve as his own lawyer if he can prove his competency. In court this morning, Tate objected to the hearing itself and refused to answer any questions.

Howard K. Morehouse of San Rafael is still Tate's attorney of record, although both he and Tate want him to withdraw from the case.

All six convicts indicted in the case are scheduled to enter their pleas on Dec. 13.

CONCERT

hour's performance of the featured group — Delaney, Bonnie and Friends.

When the auditorium lights came on at midnight, many of the late comers sat in their seats expecting to see the other groups.

Many appeared disgruntled when told that the groups had performed earlier.

"We've been had," one youth told his date as they left the building.

Why the decision was made to change the schedule was not clear today.

Promoter Spencer could not be reached. The telephone company said his San Rafael phone had been disconnected during the weekend.

The question of permitting future rock concerts at the new building is expected to be a main topic of discussion before the county board of supervisors tomorrow.

The board, over the objection of Kalimos, permitted Wednesday's concert under urging by Marin Open House, American Civil Liberties Union attorneys, the County human rights department, Bella Aaron of the police-community relations panel and other county agencies.

Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella today declined to say what the county staff planned to recommend to the board tomorrow.

UC Therapists Will Go To Work

BERKELEY (UPI) —Ten therapists who were suspended from the University of California's Cowell psychiatric clinic for students said Sunday they would return to their jobs after being ordered to show up for work or be fired.

The therapists said in a statement they would return to the clinic Monday on the assumption that the university administration had persuaded the clinic's director, Dr. Harvey Powelson, to "alter the intolerable practices" to which they objected.

A dispute between Powelson and the therapists over the clinic's policies led to suspension of the therapists and also to the resignation of five of the clinic's top professionals.

Davis Transfer Bid Denied

The attorney for Angela Davis tried unsuccessfully today to prevent her transfer to Santa Clara County this week.

Howard Moore Jr. of Berkeley met with Judge Richard E. Arnason and reported the judge had refused his request for a delay beyond 5 p.m. Thursday.

Moore said he will immediately file an appeal with the district court of appeals in San Francisco to prevent the transfer of both Miss Davis and her case to Santa Clara County.

The attorney said Miss Davis was ill last week with some kind of virus and has lost 20 pounds in the last 60 or 70 days. "She is down to 135 to 139 pounds, while her usual weight is about 150 to 160 pounds," said Moore.

TAXES

use of $1 of their income taxes for presidential campaigning.

MacGregor said Nixon remains committed to passage of a tax cut bill that would "properly stimulate the economy."

MacGregor said if Nixon vetoed the tax bill he would urge Congress to pass a suitable substitute before adjourning for the year.

"In my opinion, the Congress will not go home for Christmas without passing a suitable tax bill," MacGregor said.

MacGregor contended that Nixon's opposition to the tax checkoff plan, which could provide up to $20.4 million each to the Democratic and Republican presidential candidates in 1972, was made on constitutional and philosophical —not political — grounds.

Republicans in the Senate voted almost unanimously against the provision which would provide needed funds to financially strapped Democrats whereas the GOP anticipates no trouble raising money for a Nixon re-election campaign.

MacGregor contended that the campaign financing plan would permit major political contributors to concentrate on primary elections, thus multiplying their impact on the selection of presidential nominees.

He said it also would reduce public control over the political process and could "produce a proliferation of political parties" because funds would go to minor party candidates based on the percentage of the vote they could win.

Among the "budget-busting" amendments added by the Senate, MacGregor cited:

—A measure to permit a tax deduction for the cost of college tuition which he said would cost $2.4 billion annually.

—An increase from 7 per cent to 10 per cent in the investment tax credit for firms operating in inner city slums or rural areas which he said would cost $750 million.

—An increase in the personal exemption to $800 on 1972 income, which he said would cost up to $2 billion.

An issue touching all taxpayers is the size of the personal exemption to be claimed for taxes paid on income earned in 1972 and thereafter.

The House bill would provide a $750 exemption, to be taken by each taxpayer for himself and each dependent. The Senate bill would provide for an $800 exemption —a difference to the government of $1.9 billion a year in its revenues.

Both bills agree on a $675 exemption for income earned in 1971 —$25 more than taxpayers could claim under existing law.

The house delegation, led by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., is expected to accept a Senate provision under which each taxpayer could earmark $1 of his taxes to pay the campaign expenses of the presidential candidate of the party of his choice.

This device would provide each major party with $20.4 million for the 1972 campaign, but the GOP says it would not take public funding, using privately contributed gifts instead.

Republicans bitterly assail the taxpayer contribution provision and predict it may cause President Nixon to veto the bill. Democrats say this would jeopardize both Nixon's program to restore health to the economy and his own reelection chances.

A costly Senate amendment not expected to survive the conference would permit parents to take a tax deduction of up to $325 per child sent to college to help defray tuition costs. It would cost the government $2.4 billion a year in tax revenues. Conferees in the past have defeated similar proposals adopted by the Senate.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and leader of the Senate delegation, was expected to press for a Senate provision which would allow couples with children under 15 to take an income tax deduction of $4,800 a year if they must send their youngsters to a day care center or hire a maid so both parents can work.

DUCK PLUCKER — Joseph Eberhart pushes a duck through his automatic duck plucking machine, an imaginative device which the 16-year-old San Anselmo youth has turned into a lucrative business. Hunters who don't want to defeather their own birds bring them to the youth who cleans, plucks and bags each bird for 50 cents.

IT'S JUST DUCKY

Teen-Ager Cashes In On The Season With A Feather Plucker

By PAT ANGLE

A San Anselmo teen-ager has learned that if you happen to have a better duck plucker the world — or, at least part of it — will beat a path to your door.

Joseph H. Eberhart's unusual business venture began about a year ago when he saw a home-made device for plucking wild-fowl while he was hunting in Colusa County and decided there might be gold in those flying feathers.

The 16-year-old youth, an avid hunter, was intrigued by the idea that a machine could do the messy task which most hunters would dearly love to avoid. A small search revealed that a Colusa firm had recently begun to manufacture an electrically powered automatic plucker at a cost of $350.

With a loan from his older brother, John, co-owner of Western Sport Shop in San Rafael, Eberhart purchased the "Duck-A-Minit" machine in mid-December last year and installed it in a small garden shed in the front yard of his home at 115 Sunnyside Avenue.

In the best entrepreneurial fashion he also had attractive business cards printed advertising his service. These he placed strategically at the sport shop and in a used car lot (owned by another brother) in Mill Valley. His four older brothers, all hunting enthusiasts and duck club members, passed some of the cards out to their friends.

Before long, according to the youth, business was off and flying. By the time duck hunting season ended Jan. 9 he had paid off the cost of the original investment and had money to spare.

Eberhart is understandably enthusiastic about the success of his first business enterprises. Since duck season began last month he has cleaned approximately 1,000 birds (sometimes as many as 70 in one night) and netted about $500. "It sure beats mowing lawns," he said with a grin.

The Sir Francis Drake High School junior cheerfully demonstrated the machine which will defeather a duck in about two minutes and can do a similar job on other wild birds such as geese.

The device consists of a drum from which rows of rubber finger-like structures project. As the drum turns, the "fingers" brush the feathers from the bird, according to Eberhart. He said some feathers — including those near the feet and under the wing — must still be removed by hand.

Not only does the mechanized plucker do a more thorough job on the birds, but it shortens the job by several minutes. Most important, he said, it saves wear and tear on the fingers which take the greatest beating in the plucking process.

Eberhart charges 50 cents for cleaning, plucking and bagging each bird. At that price he has been able to save enough to purchase a car and a re-loader for his shotgun.

When business is really heavy, he invites several friends over to help out. In an emergency, his girlfriend, Terri Sherseth, will assist in pulling out the pin feathers although she wants very little to do with the whole business "because the ducks stink."

The plucking operation has created only a few small problems for Eberhart, who is thinking about a career as a forest ranger when he finishes high school.

The dilemma of where to store the ducks in various stages of processing has been solved, thanks to the patience of his mother, Alberta, who allows him to hang the fowl in the family's regular refrigerator when space is at a premium.

He still doesn't know what to do about friends who complain they can never reach him by phone because he is "always out in the duck house."

With an eye to utilizing all the by-products of the business, Eberhart has collected all the feathers produced by his seasonal work. He now has more than 40 plastic bags (each containing 30 gallons) of feathers which he hopes to sell to a pillow factory in San Francisco.

Concealed Weapon Charge Is Lodged

Remains Found At Crash Site

UKIAH (UPI) —The remains of millionaire lumberman William Crawford, missing in his light plane since last April, were found Friday by sheriff's deputies investigating a wreckage site about four miles west of Laytonville in Mendocino County.

Meat Firm Price Hike Rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Enforcing its ban on price increases that boost recent profit margins, the Price Commission rejected today a request by a big meat packer, Oscar Mayer Co., for a 1.31 per cent price hike.

It was only the second price increase request that the commission rejected since it began administering controls Nov. 14.

The guideline for Phase II prices forbids increases that would boost a firm's margin of profit on sales from exceeding the average margin in the best two of the last three years. The commission said Oscar Mayer's margin already is higher in 1971 than the base period.

The commission also announced it had received 70 more price increase applications from 49 firms, including two more from Oscar Mayer — for boosts of 27.8 and 12.7 per cent on different products.

The new requests included more from mining firms — Freeman Coal Mining Corp. seeking an 8 per cent price increase; United Electric Coal, seeking 7.3 per cent, and Kennecott Copper, Peabody Coal, asking 1.9 per cent average increases in three applications.

The commission received more than half a dozen coal price increase requests last week after the Pay Board approved a 15 per cent, first-year wage increase for coal miners.

The seven-member price commission resumed meetings today after a holiday weekend recess, with the coal issue high on its list of unfinished business.

The only hint of what might be coming on coal was a statement by the commission chairman, C. Jackson Grayson, that the panel may not "pass through" the entire increased pay cost to higher prices.

Bordaberry Near Victory

MONTEVIDEO (UPI)— AntiCommunist government candidate Juan Maria Bordaberry swept to victory in Montevideo today, and mounting official returns from Sunday's presidential elections showed voters had rejected a leftist coalition's bid for power.

The 43-year-old Bordaberry, President Jorge Pacheco Areco's hand-picked nominee, also was running in front in the interior and his victory in the 11-man presidential race nationwide seemed assured.

Urugaay's 2.8 million population is almost evenly divided between Montevideo and the interior.

To reach the market you have to thread the needle

For big or small-space advertisers, knowing this can help you build more profitable volume

Every store wants to reach as many customers as it can. But how many customers "reach" the store to buy—and when—is something else again.

For new findings in retailing show that at any one time only a small percentage of the market is ready to buy. The "market" then, is not what many a businessman thinks it is.

It is not a huge, faceless mass of people just waiting for the store ad to trigger it into buying action. Rather, it is a small set of people on any given day, with the set changing on Friday, for example, from what it was on Tuesday, or Wednesday.

Another finding shows an enormous shift, one week to another, in those "planning to buy" and those who didn't plan to buy but ended up doing most of the buying! Example: 61% of actual buyers of women's shoes in a given week were not even planning to buy just the week before! New people, new decisions.

This buying behavior goes for everything from women's dresses to refrigerators, tires to cameras. (The only general exception is drug/sundries and food. . .items of necessity).

The point is: if your store wants to capture the business, you must be in the market consistently with your advertising. This keeps you up in the forefront of buying decisions—at the time they're made. And they're being made by different people on different days for different reasons.

Since you can't know who is going to buy, only advertising can keep you in the market with changing groups of buyers.

And in Marin County, only the Independent-Journal can keep your advertising before the total market. Gets your message into 70% of all households. Gets you real readership. Gets you immediate sales.

That's what we mean by "threading the needle." Sews up the business.

AUTO CLIMBS GUY WIRE

San Rafael Police Sgt. Henry Ingwersen puzzles over how safely to remove an auto perched on a guy wire on Woodland Avenue at Auburn Street. The freak accident happened at 1 p.m. Friday, when the car driven by Frank Howard Waters, 19, of 300 Mountain View Avenue, San Rafael, spun out on slick pavement and skidded backwards 10 feet up the wire supporting a power pole. Homes in the Woodland area and in Greenbrae were blacked out briefly as a result of the mishap, but no one was injured.

Spock Heads Ticket For 'People's Party'

DALLAS (UPI)—The peoples' party, a coalition of peace and civil rights groups, chose Dr. Benjamin Spock as its 1972 presidential candidate Sunday. A black, Julius Hobson, a Washington, D.C., economist was named as a running mate.

The two nominations were intended as only tentative, however, with the possibility some better known liberals will be available to head up the party after the 1972 Democratic National Convention.

Hobson is the founder of the D.C. Statehood Party and unsuccessful candidate for the District of Columbia's nonvoting delegate in the House of Representatives.

Spock, 68, accepted the presidential nomination with a clenched-fist salute.

"There are millions of Americans out there who are not only disgusted with the present situation but who are really in despair that our country is sliding toward disaster. Our only job is to make ourselves known to those millions of people."

Earlier in the convention a delegate read a telegram sent by Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia, which was interrupted time and again by laughter in the hall.

"You socialist, leftist, communists and haters of America having housing and meeting space problems, you can look to Peking or Moscow for facilities," the telegram said.

Delegates chose Spock on a second-ballot vote of 47 to 43. Many delegates abstained, some arguing no nomination should be made until after the Democratic convention. Spock defeated Jack Hampton, founder of the California Peace and Freedom Party.

Spock has said he would eventually like to see the party's nomination go to Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., who is at present seeking the Democratic nomination. Another possible candidate the group indicated it may seek is former Sen. Eugene McCarthy.

Man Hurt On Beached Boat

An Albany man was injured Saturday night when a cabin cruiser ran aground on Canal Street, in San Rafael, Coast Guard officers said today.

The Coast Guard said Hicks and another unidentified man were aboard a 30-foot Chris Craft when the boat ran aground in about one foot of water. Hicks apparently fell, striking his knee on a bunk, officers said.

Credibility Questioned — Young Kissinger Angered

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Ten-year-old David Kissinger, who revealed that President Nixon would make his historic trip to Peking next March, is mad at White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler for questioning his credibility.

His father, presidential security adviser Henry Kissinger, told reporters Sunday night that David has been reading his press notices ever since he said what his father and Ziegler had apparently been keeping a secret.

Kissinger said his blond, curly-haired son came stomping into his bedroom at San Clemente, Calif., after the incident, incensed by a newspaper report that Ziegler had told reporters to "disregard him."

Kissinger told reporters aboard the "Spirit of '76" returning to Washington Sunday night that David felt Ziegler had "undermined his credibility" —at least as far as his classmates were concerned.

David was not on board the plane for the return trip. But Ziegler insisted he had not been barred —only that he had to get back to school in Boston right after Thanksgiving.

Kissinger was then asked again about the date for the China visit. He laughed and replied "David already told you on the last trip."

REA Seeks Funding Support From Cities

The president of the Redwood Empire Association has written officials of five Marin County cities and Petaluma in an effort to get financial support.

In a letter being mailed to mayors, councilmen and city managers, James A. Nealis asks that a portion of the cities' transient occupancy tax income be given annually to the association.

Nealis said in the letter that the association has been a "front-runner in the promotion, publicity and advertising to invite visitors to spend money throughout the area."

He said the association's annual budget of $150,000 is currently raised by appropriations from the nine counties in the area, the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District and four cities, none of which are in Marin or Sonoma Counties.

Nealis asked the cities to consider a donation of $250 a year or 10 per cent or more of the annual transient occupancy tax.

The Marin communities being approached are Sausalito, Tiburon, Novato, Corte Madera and Mill Valley.

An association spokesman said San Rafael was not included because such support would be in violation of the city's charter.

"This is our first overt expression seeking the wider support of more of our Redwood Empire communities," Nealis said in the letter.

3 Arrested In Larkspur Car Theft

Three Larkspur youths, warned about reckless driving Saturday, were arrested yesterday on suspicion of stealing the car they were driving, according to Larkspur police.

Police said Andrew C. Cookson, 18, Ian A. Stewart, 18, and Harry C. Harris, 17, were arrested separately between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. yesterday after James W. Hodges reported his Volkswagen sedan was stolen after 9 p.m. Saturday from his home at 476 Cane Street.

Police said the three had been stopped in Hodges's car at 11:55 p.m. Saturday in the parking lot of Redwood High School and warned about reckless driving. The car was found wrecked on Glenwood Avenue in Ross at 1:30 a.m. yesterday.

Cookson of 25 Cedar Avenue and Stewart of 116 William Avenue were booked into Marin County Jail in lieu of $1,200 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today. Harris, who lives at 5 Monte Vista Avenue, was booked into Marin Juvenile Hall, police said.

Record Session May Be Adjourned Late In Week

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislators hope to adjourn their record length session late this week after drawing up new districts for themselves and enacting a $550 million payroll witholding tax bill.

Lawmakers returned today from a long Thanksgiving holiday after shuttling both reapportionment and the tax measure off to conference committees.

The panels will work out differences between the Senate and Assembly versions of the proposals.

The tax bill would close a $310 million revenue gap in the state's $6.8 billion budget, raising a total of $550 million.

About $200 million would be used for building construction with $23 million going for business inventory tax relief.

Assembly Republican Leader Robert T. Monagan of Tracy said, "This program is only a pale shadow of the sweeping reform packages discussed earlier in the year, but it does promise some needed relief while balancing the budget, and I'm afraid that is the best we can hope for this year."

Assembly Democrats are pressing for it to contain more property tax relief for senior citizens but the bill's author, Republican Assemblyman William T. Bagley of San Rafael is opposed to that change.

On reapportionment, leaders of both parties in the Senate want to separate the redistricting plans of the Assembly and Senate, now combined in one bill.

The Senate proposal has bipartisan support but the Assembly plan is bitterly opposed by the Republicans. Gov. Ronald Reagan has threatened to veto it, and it almost certainly faces a court test if passed in its present form.

The lower house plan is aimed at increasing the Democratic majority in the Assembly from 42-38 to 44-36. In the Senate, the current Democratic majority of 21-19 would be maintained.

Both houses intend to adjourn Thursday after 332 calendar days in session.

Reagan has attacked the legislature as "disgraceful" because of the length of its session.

INVESTING

Building Boom Is Helpful

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have held Kirsch Co. shares (NYSE) since 1967. I have a 200 per cent or 50 per cent annual gain, but now wonder if growth is slowing sown. What is your opinion? — W.W.

A. As the leading producer of drapery hardware, Kirsch has compiled an excellend record. Earnings have grown 13.3 per cent compounded annually in the past five years. Nonetheless, there has been a consistent attrition in profit margins from 8.6 per cent in 1966 to 5.6 per cent in 1970. Rising expenses, introduction of new product lines and a sluggish market were factors in reducing profit take-down last year. The retrenching paid off, however, in expanding Kirsch's sales base. Bath accessories, a line of wood shelving, kitchen accessories and bedroom drapes and spreads have been added to the product line.

In the September quarter, first period of the current fiscal year, Kirsch was able to boost its profit margin to 6.7 per cent; and earnings on a fully diluted basis were equal to 73 cents a share, up from 43 cents. New products, Canadian and European operations and a surge in building boosted sales for the quarter 31 per cent over the comparable 1970 period. A recently announced 3-for-2 stock split, payable Jan. 3, will be accompained by a small, 2½ cents annual dividend increase. Continued growth, perhaps at a somewhat more subdued rate, is anticipated.

Q. Is Allis-Chalmers a good investment for someone who can spare the money and is not interested in income?— C.B.

A. If the dealings of institutional investors are any indication, then Allis could prove to be a worthwhile speculation. In June, some 1.3 million shares where held in fund portfolios. Most recent statistics show 2.1 million shares held by funds anticipating a cyclical recovery for this machinery maker.

In the first nine months sales were up 2.3 per cent while earnings fell to 47 cents a share from $1.12 in 1970. Three divisions, which account for more than 43 per cent of sales, have been operating at a deficit. Shares, trading about 63 per cent below book value, should move ahead in response to an economic recovery.

Business Christmas Giving Drop Forecast

NEW YORK (UPI)—Business Christmas giving will drop off this year for the first time in a decade, according to Incentive Marketing, a trade magazine that has kept tabs on Yule giving for almost 20 years.

The drop probably will be about 2 per cent from last year's $395 million. In 1953, when Incentive Marketing started keeping score, it estimated the gifts at $250 million. There have been increases every year since then except in the 1956 and 1958 recessions.

Christmas bonus and gifts by employers to workers apparently will follow much the same pattern as last year, says Prentice-Hall, Inc., the publisher of business and labor information services. The company recently surveyed 182 firms and found that about half will give either cash bonuses or gifts to workers at Christmas with cash bonuses the more popular.

The bonuses will range from a $5 bill up to a full month's salary for workers with more than five years' service with the company.

Among the more popular gifts from the boss to employees will be turkeys and hams and gift certificates drawn on a department store. Gifts and bonuses to workers are subject to Federal wage controls whereas ordinary Christmas giving is not.

The actual number of business gifts to customers, suppliers and other associates has increased greatly in recent years even though companies have cut down somewhat on the proportion of their profits devoted to such gifts. The variety of the gifts also has grown.

This diversification caused a little dispute this year. For example, Bachman Foods, Inc., of Reading, Pa., which dispenses Pennsylvania Dutch foods, claimed recently that bottles of liquor are "out" this year and foods and other useful gifts are "in."

Durante said the Christmas decanter has lost favor, though." People who want a decanter prefer genuine cut glass to the distillers' imitation," he said, "so this year the distillers simply are wrapping the standard bottle in a gift package. After the holidays, the liquor store clerk will shuck off the Christmas wrapping and stick the bottle on the stock shelf."

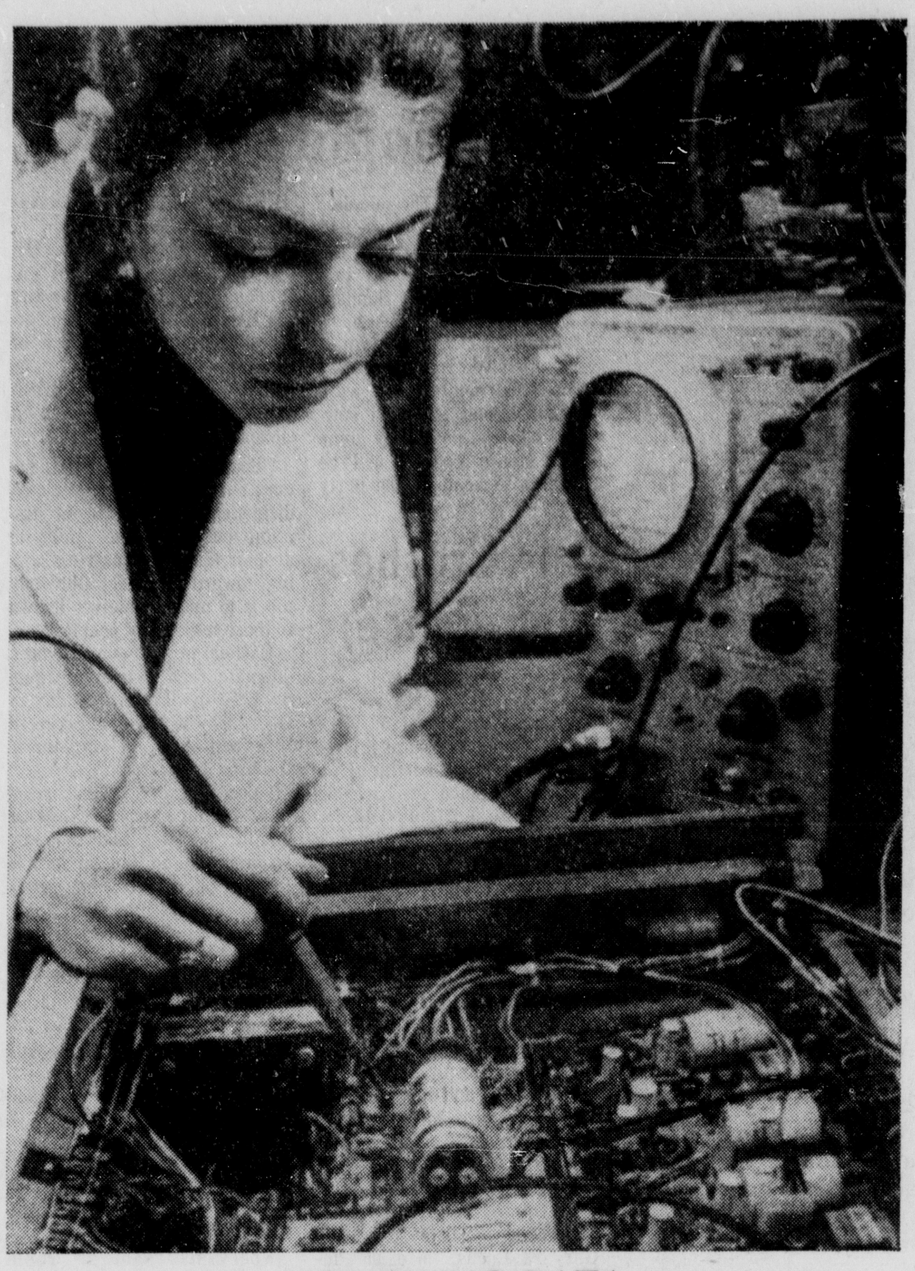
Autos Account For 20 Pct. Steel Use

DETROIT (UPI) — Automobiles account for about 20 per cent of the nation's steel consumption and approximately 65 per cent of the rubber, reports the Automobile manufacturers association.

Of the nation's total businesses, about 823,000 are related to automobiles and trucks. Automotive retailers had sales of $89 million in 1970.



COMPILING DATA

SMART CHART

by Stansbury

Market Shows Gain, Then Falls A Little

The gain was partially attributed to more cheering economic news and hopes that the big 10 western industrial countries will be able to hammer out an agreement to put an end to the international monetary crisis. They will begin a two-day meeting in Rome Tuesday.

Of the 1,572 issues crossing the tape, 1,201 advanced, while 156 declined. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index climbed 1.27 at 93.21. Prices also forged ahead across a broad front on the American Stock Exchange.

Another item which might have appealed to investors was federal court order forcing longshoremen at major Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports back on the docks today. It ended a 58-day walkout.

Chemicals and electronics were the brightest spots on the Big Board, ranging to more than 2 points higher.

Motors, rails, airlines and aircrafts also were firm. Steels tacked on fractions, but gold mining stocks were mixed.

Du Pont, Monsanto, Burroughs, Loews Corp., and Wrigley rose 2 or better. Walt Disney gained 3 3-4, and Corning Glass 3.

Industrial Meat Packers On Climb

NEW YORK (UPI) —Because of a sharp boost in consumption of red meats in high income countries, small firms are being replaced with large industrial packers.

This trend is creating a demand for dehairers, cutting machines, rendering systems and process meat formers, reports the Bureau of International Commerce.

Safeway Retirement

OAKLAND (BW) — Safeway Stores Inc. has announced that Canada Safeway Ltd. has declared that Walter J. Kraft will retire from his position of regional manager and chairman of the board at the end of the year, but will remain a member of the board.

GIFTS ON NATURE'S ALTAR?

Poet Reginald Heber's hymn proclaimed that "every prospect pleases, and only man is vile," a sentiment that this view of the works of nature and of man seems to bear out. Independent-Journal photographer Alfred M. Arn, facing east, captured this blending of splendor and squalor in San Rafael's Black Canyon area last weekend. The drift of cloud vapor turned hilltops into islands in the sky, but failed to cloak the littered vantage point.

Yule Shopping Picking Up

The Christmas shopping season in Marin has gotten off to a mixed start, described as "fantastic" by some merchants, "pretty good" by others and only "fair" by a couple more.

Merchants at the major shopping areas agreed that business Friday and Saturday — traditional opening days of the Christmas shopping season following Thanksgiving — was better than the same two days a year ago.

But Marin had heavy rains those two days last year, making the comparison less than fair.

Police departments in Mill Valley and Novato reported increased traffic in downtown shopping areas, although traffic in downtown San Rafael Friday and Saturday was far short of police expectations.

Daniel Knott, manager of the J. C. Penney Co. store on Fourth Street in San Rafael, reported sales at the store Friday were up 15 per cent over sales the day after Thanksgiving a year ago. Will Dolman, department manager at Penney's in the Corte Madera Shopping Center, did not have figures, but said his store's sales Friday represented a "substantial" gain over the same day last year.

However, Ray Peterson, operating manager of the Montgomery Ward store at Corte Madera, reported business Friday and Saturday was "not quite as good as last year, but still good."

Business at the Emporium at Northgate was "fantastic," according to manager Robert G. McGushin, while Walter E. Zurcher of the San Rafael Toy Shop, 933 Fourth Street, San Rafael, said the opening two days were "nothing fantastic."

Zucker said, however, that business was "pretty good and ahead of last year."

San Rafael police said traffic at the Northgate complex was "really heavy." Parking lots were filled, but traffic was moving well despite the crowds, police said.

Adalene Horowitz of the Mother to Be Maternity Shop, president of the Northgate Mall Merchants Association, said business at her store was "up" and that appeared to be the case, she said, around the rest of the shopping center.

A State Of Sexual Confusion In Japan

By JEFF PENBERTHY
Toronto Telegram Syndicate

TOKYO — With no room for privacy, the Japanese home is a place of complete physical frankness. The people are less inhibited about nudity than elsewhere in the world.

Despite this, young people are taught a strict moral code, and remained shy and unworldly —until they heard about "the sexual revolution."

A white paper released by the prime minister's office showed that 61 per cent of the young — aged 15 to 24 — want to be "freed from traditional restrictions on sex."

It was the first documented proof of something everyone here has known since Yoko Ono leapt into the cot for a public honeymoon with John Lennon.

The waves of the permissive society have swept over a sea wall that the government has been trying to build up for eight years.

The country where mixed public bathing was once a normal family affair, now has a huge customs warehouse in Yokohama where scores of touch-up artists are kept at work brushing over the private parts of bare bunny girls portrayed in Playboy magazine.

A double twist to the paradox is that most of these part-time censors are high school and university students, whom the government seeks to "protect."

They have been running head-on into the "sexual revolution" since then.

This summer, politician Hideji Kawasaki's Sauna group tried to start Japan's first nudist colony, on a tiny island near Osaka. Local police ordered the sunlovers to wear bathing suits.

Officials objected to the camp on the grounds that the nudists would be "bound to romp around with no clothes."

A Tokyo police squad is kept busy raiding bookstores, but the thousands of adult comics and pulp magazines are becoming increasingly torrid in tone.

Any day, scores of young people can be seen on the subway trains reading them. Many stations provide special boxes — too tall for children to reach —for the disposal of these.

The tragedy is that the "sexual revolution" seems to be having some reverse effects on the long-liberal Japanese. The once-proud Japanese film industry, which produced such black-and-white masterpieces as "Rashomon" and "Seven Samurai," is now grinding out cheap full-color sex.

While the great director Akira Kurosawa retires to the mountains to communicate with the muse, the industry is busy making or distributing foreign blue movies (actually they call them "pink" movies, because "blue" means happiness here). Billboards in the Tokyo entertainment districts of the Ginza, Shinjuku and Ikebukuro, have the same seamy quality as New York's 42nd Street.

Psychologists fear that Japan is also importing western "hang-ups."

Of course, Japan's tradition of public broad-mindedness goes back for centuries. The difference is that modern affluence is turning it into a vast consumer market.

Prostitution was outlawed on April Fool's Day, 1958 — an appropriate day, since on current estimates, half a million women are employed in the 150,000 bars, clubs and coffee shops which make up the booming nightlife here.

A survey conducted by the Mitsubishi Trust Bank revealed that Tokyo men consider sex one of the most important things worth living for. (It was ranked third. Work, and children, were listed first and second respectively).

The reasons go back in antiquity. The core of Japan's native religion, shintoism, is fertility. This is still celebrated in phallically symbolic "fertility festivals" throughout the year.

In the most bizarre, people carry a 30-foot totem pole, replica of the male "chimbo" through the streets of Kumamoto, on the southern island of Kyushu. Children under the age of seven invade the homes of childless couples and chant to the wife "get pregnant."

With a generation of these youngsters coming of age, the "sexual revolution" can have hardly failed to catch on.

There remains, however, a basic difference between the Japanese attitude towards sex at home and in public. In their homes the people are modest, humble, and seemingly well adjusted.

Mixed public bathing was banned by the American occupation authorities and — although it survives in some country areas — men and women now seem to prefer bathing apart.

Outside the home, the right of Japanese men to engage in extra-marital activities has been tolerated since feudal times. The survey by the prime minister's office showed that the young people are also likely to be tolerant. In it, 84 per cent were against taboos on sex.

LAW IN ACTION
From the State Bar Of California

The Bartender Responsible

For years it had been the common law rule that a bartender was not responsible for the acts of a drunken patron. In a recent case the California Supreme Court ruled that the bartender had a responsibility not to serve drinks to a patron who was drunk. Not only could his liquor license be suspended or revoked, but he would be liable for any injuries to a third party.

In this case the bartender continued to serve a customer who was already drunk. The drunken man then got into a car and ran over Mrs. Flat. He had no driver's license, no insurance, and very few assets. Mrs. Flat sued the bar owner. He served drinks in violation of the alcoholic beverage rules. The bartender should have anticipated that his drunken patron might cause harm to others. The only route from the bar back to the patron's house was over a narrow road.

True, a bartender merely furnished the liquor; a patron must himself drink it to become drunk. But where the bartender can reasonably anticipate dangerous consequences, he is liable if that eventuality does happen.

The court did not rule on responsibilities of the social host who furnished liquor free to a party guest who later drives home. The social host violates no alcoholic beverage laws, but he still might have a duty to others should injury result.

Nor did the court say that a host or bartender was liable to the person who injures himself, say, by falling down and cracking his head from overdrinking.

The basis of liability depends on the facts. Is there a legal duty to the injured person by the furnisher of the liquor? And is the injury a "foreseeable event" resulting from the furnishing?

The bartender who violates a duty imposed by law is negligent. If his negligence can reasonably result in harm, he is liable.

(Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.)

Review Board Proposal On Plans Agenda

A proposal to establish a review board to handle routine zoning and planning matters will be considered by the Sausalito Planning Commission at 8 p.m. Wednesday in city hall.

The zoning board, originally proposed by City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr in October, 1970, is designed to give the city council and planning commission more time to consider long-range planning and other far-reaching city concerns.

On Oct. 12, the council referred the proposal back to planners who had rejected the idea last year. The review board would handle such matters as variances, routine conditional use permits, plan approvals, encroachment permits and interpretations of city zoning ordinances.

The planning commission will also discuss its views on exactly what powers the city's community appearances advisory board should have.

Kettenhofen Is Sued By His Partner

Former Marin County Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen has been sued for $750,000 damages by Alan M. Kay, his partner in the Anchorage apartment business in Sausalito.

Through his attorney, Stephen H. Kaufmann, Kay filed the suit Friday in Marin Superior Court, asking that their partnership be dissolved. Kay also seeks $200,000 general damages and $500,000 punitive damages.

Kay asserted that Kettenhofen put the Anchorage apartments in a state of insolvency by executing a promissory note to himself in the amount of $240,000. Kay contended that Kettenhofen mismanaged the business, causing business to suffer substantial loses.

Hiker's Leg Broken In Jump

A San Franciscan who suffered a broken right leg when he jumped off a ledge while hiking on Mount Tamalpais Thanksgiving Day was reported in good condition today in Franklin Hospital in San Francisco.

Sheriff's deputies said Henry Lew, 20, was hiking with about a dozen fellow students from San Francisco City College when he apparently jumped off a ledge about 15 feet above Ridgecrest Road.

Instead of landing on the road, he hit a hump on the way down and tumbled to the road. He suffered facial bruises as well as the broken leg.

Three Armed Men Arrested In Robbery

Three men armed with a loaded carbine rifle and wearing nylon stockings on their heads were caught crouching behind La Camembert restaurant at 200 Shoreline Highway in Tamalpais Valley about 12:30 a.m. today.

Jailed on suspicion of attempted armed robbery were Larry David Adams, 22, of 99 Cole Drive, Marin City; Bernard Jerome Stringer, 25, of 210 Page Street, San Francisco; and Keith James Jackson, 19, of 708 Hacienda Court, San Rafael.

Stringer and Jackson were also booked on suspicion of possessing marijuana. Deputies said they found match boxes and a plastic bag with what appeared to be marijuana in their pockets. Jackson also had a bone pipe with traces of what appeared to be hashish.

Jackson and Stringer were held in lieu of $3,000 bail each, and Adams in lieu of $1,500 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Deputies spotted a car about 100 yards away from the restaurant, became suspicious, and found the three men crouching behind the restaurant building among a pile of boxes. On top of one of the boxes lay a carbine, with a clip containing 15 rounds of ammunition.

Bagley To Talk In Corte Madera

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, will discuss the Legislature's 1971 session on Thursday before the Leagues of Women Voters of Central and Southern Marin.

Bagley will speak at 10 a.m. at the Fondue Pot in Corte Madera at the leagues' annual "lunch with the state legislators." Marin's other state legislator, Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, will not be able to attend because he is taking a vacation in Tahiti.

Luch will follow at noon.

Tow-Line Snaps, Kite Flier Dies

TRACY (UPI) —A Concord kite-flier was killed during the weekend when the tow-line attached to his big kite snapped and he plummeted 150 feet to an airport runway.

Patrick William Ball, 31, was being pulled aloft by a car speeding down the runway of a cropdusting airstrip near this San Jooaquin County town when the cable broke Saturday.

Witnesses told sheriff's deputies the big kite—similar to those used in water-skiing shows—shuddered before the tow line parted and Ball plunged to the pavement.

Kite enthuisasts have used the airstrip for the past four years for the flights, which sometimes take them as high as 1,000 feet in the air.

Father, Son Catch Thief In The Act

A Marinwood youth, according to sheriff's deputies, was caught yesterday trying to steal radio equipment from a car parked at a Marinwood home.

William Lindley Swenning, 18, of 600 Blackberry Drive, was booked on suspicion of burglary and felonious assault and held in lieu of $1,500 bail to appear in municipal court today.

Charles Kenneth Rhodes Jr. of 555 Pinewood Drive told officers he was wakened by his wife at about 5 a.m. because someone had broken into the car owned by their 20-year-old son, Charles Kenneth Rhodes III.

The elder Rhodes said he notified his son, then ran out to the driveway and found Swenning with his leg sticking out of the car, working away at the car's stereo set. He grabbed the youth by his coat collar, and the younger Rhodes joined the tussle. The father noticed Swenning had a knife in his hands and told his son to let go so that he would not get hurt.

Swenning dashed off but was later arrested at his home, according to deputies.

Some men live in the cages of routine, others fly in the open skies of the spirit. Puzzled by the contrasts we see in our lives, we ask the question "Why?" Why poverty in a land of plenty? Why loneliness in a world that would join hands? Why war when the impulse of the heart is to love? The aching chasm between the real and the ideal everywhere provokes the question...

WHY?

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Don't Play Baseball On A Golf Course

For many years, starting soon after World War II, Marin's taxpayers paid a special tax to construct a Veterans Memorial Building — enough to provide $48,000 per year toward construction.

The fund this created was tapped by borrowings on several occasions for other construction, such as juvenile hall. But each time it was restored the following year, through taxation.

As construction cost increases outran the accumulation, and as plans for the building changed, the annual amount was hiked considerably in the few years preceding actual construction. All in all, the county's taxpayers contributed steadily — and largely uncomplainingly — for many years to provide a building memorializing veterans and including a much-needed and long-talked-about auditorium large enough for major entertainment and cultural events.

THIS YEAR, the long effort finally came to fruition. The Marin Veterans Memorial Building opened with a symphony concert.

It is an impressive building. There have been many jokes about its placement with the "silos" on the stage end facing Highway 101. There have been complaints about failure to locate the Doughboy statue near its entrance. But there has been general acclaim for the building's beautiful interior, its comfort, its acoustics.

Marinites were proud that the long effort, the longtime dream had resulted in such a fine auditorium.

They showed their pride by their behavior. The no-smoking rule was carefully observed. The powder blue seats and carpets remained unspotted through three months of use, during which large crowds turned out for events ranging from symphony concerts to vaudeville entertainment.

THEN, LAST WEDNESDAY night, the auditorium was used for a rock concert, ostensibly to raise funds to fight drug abuse.

Twenty-two hundred attended. They ignored the no-smoking rule, and what they smoked in many cases was not tobacco. They carried their wine and booze into the auditorium, despite ineffectual checks by volunteer "security guards" from Marin Open House.

When the concert was over, the beautiful seats and carpeting were pocked with burned holes, slashed in some places, stained from spilled liquor and wine — and vomit.

"It's not new any more," said one of the 13 custodians who faced a day of overtime work to clean up the damage enough so that the auditorium could be used again.

Long years of effort . . . a prideful result . . . and then one night's rock concert!

The sponsor, Fred Mayer, was required to take out $50,000 damage insurance and put up $2,000 cash bond. From these, the county may recover the cost of replacing the damaged seats and carpeting.

BUT THE WHOLE THING need not have happened if the county board of supervisors had listened to Leon G. Kalimos, the man they hired to manage the building.

Kalimos, who has had experience putting on rock concerts, warned that such "music" leads to damage — "turns on" its hearers, many of whom use drugs and alcohol to heighten the effect they want from the music.

The supervisors, who had no experience, paid him no heed. They permitted the use.

"There is a place for everything," said Kalimos after surveying the damage. "The place for a rock concert is in a flat-floored, plain auditorium where the audience can get up and dance if they want to, and won't do much damage.

'Reverend Sadie' In Johannesberg

We received a letter from a San Franciscan traveling in Johannesberg, South Africa. He wrote that he picked up a copy of the International Herald Tribune of Paris, France to read the I-J story of Hilltop House Church and "Minister" Sadie Thurber.

We are pleased that we made international news due to the work of the I-J. Thanks.

Much Yet To Be Done On Bike Registration

The Citizens Committee on Bicycle Safety and Registration of Marin County wishes to thank the I-J for its endorsement for a county-wide bicycle registration program.

It should be pointed out, however, that the committee is now one of developing procedures and statistics from all of Marin for the implementation of a county ordinance which will not be a reality until some time in the future.

The public should know that provisions are being made for existing licenses to remain valid and that the program of the Peter Pan Chapter of the Children's Home Society (Bike I.D.) is providing valuable statistical information and will continue to do so as is the information and services from each of the cities, i.e., Novato, whose program has been active since 1961.

Anyone should feel free to contact any member of the committee. The committee is making their efforts all inclusive of everyones needs for safety, protection, and enjoyment.

Dog Was Lucky To Be Picked Up

In response to Mrs. Alla DePanioti's letter regarding the Nov. 17 incident with a Marin County Humane Society officer, it would seem to me that the reason this particular dog was picked up in front of the Red Cart Supermarket in Mill Valley was because the animal and its owner were in violation of the law.

The animal control officer (not "dog catcher" as she called them — there is no such thing in Marin County) was clearly doing his job. And when one of these officers picks up an animal, with a license on, he usually tries to take it to the registered owner's house, and instead of impounding the dog issues the owner a citation, which is just like a traffic ticket. I think this particular dog was lucky to have been picked up instead of being splattered along the roadside.

WASHINGTON REPORT

Waldie Makes New Enemy In Defeating Timber Bill

By BENJAMIN SHORE

WASHINGTON — Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, the Democrat from Antioch, wants to be elected governor of California in 1974, a goal he publicly announced early this year.

In a state where gubernatorial candidates traditionally try not to alienate big economic interests (with the recent exception of Jesse Unruh), Waldie has become known, especially among ecologically aware citizens, for his dogged opposition to the California Water Project. His fight against the Peripheral Canal, in particular, has become his trademark.

Waldie's outspoken opposition to the massive statewide water delivery system has put him at odds with major developing interests in Southern California, where more water means more growth. Waldie argues that more growth is exactly what Southern California does not need.

THIS MONTH, Waldie has added the state's $1.5 billion timber industry to his list of likely non-supporters in his quest of the governor's job. The 46-year-old legislator single-handedly engineered at the last moment the defeat of a special bill that would have provided Arcata Lumber Co. a $10 million tax break that it could not get under existing tax laws.

The bill, reported favorably by the influential House Ways and Means Committee, seemed at first to be assured of passage, just like many tax-break bills introduced by congressmen for hometown industries.

Arcata's story began in 1968 when Congress voted funds to buy some choice remaining stands of redwood to create Redwood National Park. Under existing tax laws, a company whose property is involuntarily purchased for public use may reinvest the income in "like property" and not pay any tax on the capital gains.

There were four companies involved: Georgia-Pacific, Miller-Rellim, Simpson, and Arcata. All but Arcata have taken advantage of a government ruling that because the availability of redwood forests to buy is virtually zero, the four companies could sink their proceeds into other timber lands in the affected counties (Del Norte and Humboldt).

BUT ARCATA WAS NOT willing to accept this. Arcata has accepted the Interior Department's offer of $40 million worth of federally owned timber land, but it has refused the offer of $22 million more in cash for a total $62 million settlement. Instead, Arcata last month filed suit for $63.8 million in cash in addition to the $40 million in land, adding up to a $103.8 million settlement.

Meanwhile, Arcata had high hopes for HR 11080, which would amend existing tax law to define "like property" as any business interest of the affected company prior to the involuntary sale of property to the government. Then, during closed deliberations by the powerful Ways and Means Committee, the bill's chief sponsor, Democratic Rep. Al Ullman of Oregon (a major timber state), successfully amended the bill to further tailor the legislation at Arcata's request.

The amendment would release companies from the requirement of having to reinvest the forced-sale proceeds in the same area. It was reported that Arcata wanted to pump some of the cash into a paper plant it owned in the Palo Alto area.

THIS AMENDMENT escaped the attention of one of the bill's co-sponsors, Rep. Don. H. Clausen, the Republican who represents the North Coast counties. Clausen proudly supported the bill not only because timber is his district's second largest industry, but also because he thought the cash would be reinvested in the two high-unemployment counties. Unworried about the bill's fate, Clausen took off for a long swing through Central and South America and was not around for Waldie's one-man stand.

Waldie first announced his opposition in a letter Oct. 14 to Rep. Wilbur Mills, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. This formality automatically removed the bill from the consent calendar, where it would have been passed without even a vote, and placed it on the suspension calendar. Bills considered in this manner do not have to go before the Rules Committee, but they need a two-thirds vote on the floor to pass.

At this point, Waldie's battle was half won. In the brief debate Nov. 15, Waldie convinced his colleagues in simple terms that HR 11080 was "a special interest bill . . . a unique response to a common situation." When the roll call vote was finished, it was Arcata 148, Waldie 203.

Montreal Provides Circus To Quash Revolution

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

MONTREAL, Can. — Between them, the late Charles de Gaulle and a few underground kidnapers and bombardiers have given the world the impression that separation of French Quebec from the rest of Canada is a total preoccupation here. But if Montrealers are hostages of violence, they sure don't show it.

True, a 26-year-old man named Jean Marc Brunet was nearly killed and brobably blinded the other evening when a pipe-bomb he apparently was rigging exploded and sprayed him with homemade schrapnel. True, there had been sporadic bombings of buildings and mailboxes here ever since 1963. True, last year the Front de Liberation du Quebec kidnaped the British trade commissioner and other officials, and martial law was declared and the Quebec labor minister was slain before the celebrated "October crisis" was over.

But the only underground most Canadians here have connections with is the new subway, and the tremendous city below the downtown pavement where hundreds of shops and even movie houses are casually open and protected from the below-zero winters.

THEIR ONLY PREOCCUPATION visible to the outsider is swinging, in a series of nightspots and restaurants that put the city in a class with New Orleans and San Francisco. Not long ago it was Expo, the world's fair that brought so much new construction and tourist money to the city, and now attention is turned forward to the 1976 Olympics, which will be held here largely because of the facilities that grew up around Expo.

In a sense, of course, all this is misleading. Not all Quebecers are well-dressed, bilingual, citoyens of downtown Montreal. The province is the biggest in Canada, but its per capita income is among the lowest. The French majority (82 per cent) is concentrated in the labor force.

The federal government, trying to take away the bitterness and isolate the violent separatist revolutionaries, has made both languages official for government business wherever it is conducted. A new language-training operation for civil servants can produce nearly 10,000 bilingual bureaucrats a year.

THAT IS ONE LEVEL of government action. Another is the modernizaiton and propaganda buildup of downtown Montreal, which may be a mere distraction away from more fundamental problems, but is tangible enough to set an example for cities south of the border. And everyone here, even his political enemies, gives credit for that development to an irrepressible booster named Jean Drapeau.

Like so many builders of monuments and advocates of on-time trains, Mayor Drapeau has tyrannical qualities. Nevertheless, also like them, he has been re-elected repeatedly, and would be again if not for the flamboyant bankruptcy case involving a typically Drapeauvian restaurant enterprise of his.

AS FOR THE RESTAURANT, Frank Lowe of the Montreal Star described possible reasons for its failure. The mayor himself played headwaiter and took reservations. The feature attraction was a symphony orchestra at the center of the room. Because the host demanded attention to the music, guests ordered their meals in writing rather than by speaking to the waiters. And when the conductor noticed a diner irreverently conversing during a performance, he rapped his baton and pointed to the ingrate for silence.

Not many guests bothered to come back. The restaurant failed. But everything else Drapeau has touched gleams like gold. He ramrodded Expo; he brought the Olympics; the splendid new hotels, the Metro and the underground city might well be called Drapeauville. The federal government and other agencies are trying by slow, unspectacular means to provide some bread and education for the masses, and the mayor is playing ringmaster of a hell-of-a-nice circus in the meantime. It might even work.

Environmentalist Reagan In Speech To Oil Men

Gov. Ronald Reagan, like other professional politicians, preens his environmental feathers at first sight of a crowd of voters. But the image changes in front of a crowd of oilmen.

Likening conservationists to "those groups who on occasion take to a hilltop to await the end of the world," Reagan declared at the recent San Francisco convention of the American Petroleum Institute that opposition to the nuclear test in Alaska was "another example of something that might be called the doomsday syndrome so prevalent in our country in recent years."

The governor quickly linked the conservation movement with communism: "To listen to those who would lead a technological retreat would be to turn backward to disease, famine and mass unemployment. You know better than anyone else that business — the free enterprise system — is under attack for the second time in this century."

AS FOR TIGHTER government controls over environmental abuse, Reagan used the same scare: "The next time you are told how much better government can make things if only government had a little more power and resources, refer them to that great nation which has practiced government control without interference for more than a half a century."

Reagan acknowledged his regret that "prophets of doom and gloom" now shared his advantage to spread their view because of television.

Enthusiastically defending his administration's record, he assured the oilmen that "our own state has led the nation, indeed the world, in effort to protect the environment against everything from smog to offshore oil spills."

Reagan, praising the oil industry for displaying "the kind of constructive attitude it has demonstrated during environmental problems of the past," said that firms involved in the massive blow-out two years ago from wells off Santa Barbara "did not wait for government order. Without hesitation, they started to clean up the beaches."

A SERIOUS CHALLENGE to the political future of Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, apparently will come from Ronald Pelosi, incoming president of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors. The young, politically potent Democratic supervisor reportedly has shifted his 1972 sights from Congress to Behr's new state Senate district. Pelosi could prove tough to beat.

AN EDUCATOR'S VIEW

Public Indifference Contributes To Deterioration Of Education

By Dr. JOHN W. GILBAUGH
(Professor of Education, San Jose State College)

Indifference is the greatest expediter of the progressive collapse of public education. When the public refuses to respond, after being warned and confronted with evidence that intellectual deterioration has characterized educational activity since World War II, there is little hope that improvement lies just beyond the horizon.

It is not more money which is needed. What is required to avert total educational chaos is an enlightened citizenry that can see through the phony philosophies now rampant in public education rather than be mesmerized by them.

HOW DO LAY CITIZENS keep themselves informed? As a starter they could consider arguments for and against proposed educational innovations before declaring a stance of support or opposition. However, getting all the facts is often not a simple matter, for the advocates of proposed programs are usually well prepared to respond to most questions raised by skeptical parents or other doubters.

Most of the literature available on proposed innovative programs is of a supportive nature. Opposition arguments seldom get into print. Consequently, rather than to expose their lack of familiarity with proposed curricular changes, most school board members feign comprehension by voting approval.

The abundance of material prepared to support various educational innovations is generally subsidized by public funds. Though hard to find, there are some excellent materials available which tend to disprove the claims by proponents of recent educational panaceas introduced into American public education.

THE BLACK PAPERS of British origin, is one source which tends to explode as mythology most of the gains attributed to new approaches in schools at all levels. Because the British Infant and Primary Schools are often looked upon as models by U.S. educators, the writings in the Black Papers should be weighed into the decision-making process by all who care about American public education.

Progressive education; egalitarianism; learning by discovery; abolition of academic standards, grades, and examinations are discussed with objective evidence to back up the editors' charges. The recently published Black Papers One and Two are available at a nominal charge from: the Secretary, the Critical Quarterly Society, 2 Radcliffe Avenue, London, N. W. 10. They are mentioned here, not to promote the publications, but as a public service to those parents, teachers, and school board members who wish to profit by the experiences of others before making their own commitments.

No Longer Is The Attorney Courtroom Fashion Plate

Ten years ago in the old courthouse in San Rafael, you could usually spot the attorney a mile away. He'd be the one in a white shirt and dark tie, neat business suit, well-groomed hair neatly clipped, perhaps slightly balding. He'd stride confidently, almost pompously into the courtroom as if he owned the place, clutching a briefcase in one hand and a bewildered client with the other. The client would be a seedy looking character with a week's growth of beard, umkempt hair, and rumpled clothes.

Now in the Hall of Justice at the Civic Center, the tables are turned. More often than not, the attorney turns out to be an earthy looking character in crumpled corduroy jacket, sporting long matted hair and bushy beard, who ambles into the courtroom as if he didn't care who owned the place. And his client will be a middle-aged business man in suit and tie, neatly shaved and groomed and perhaps slightly balding.

The change may be a reflection of the change in attitude among the students coming out of law school. Take these new applicants who come looking for jobs in the public defender's office or county counsel's office. A few years ago they aspired to jobs with corporations, insurance companies and big business. But now, those traditional aspirations are strictly birdsville. The young and intense law grads want to work for the underprivileged, or with poverty laws, or in the field of civil rights or minority rights.

ONE THING THAT REMAINS unchanged is the unpredictability of jurors. Neither the prosecution nor the defense has been able to devise any scientific approach to jury picking. It's still a hit and miss system with both sides resorting to little more than hunches. And it's just as effective as any system because how a juror will vote is completely unpredictable and sometimes surprising.

Take this example: A week ago, a 12-man jury convicted a burglar, who was subsequently sentenced to San Quentin. After the trial was over, the deputy district attorney learned to his astonishment that one of the jurors had a felony record — he'd been convicted of burglary some years ago. And yet, he had voted unhestitatingly for conviction.

Had the prosecutor known before the trial, he would have promptly ousted the juror. And if he had, the replacement might have voted the other way and hung the jury.

INCIDENTALLY, CONVICTED felons were not allowed to serve on juries until a few years ago when the laws were relaxed. At present, everybody is eligible. In fact, they've got a bank robber on the Marin County list of prospective jurors, although he hasn't been called as yet.

The latest word is that Michael Peevey, one of those mentioned in the supervisorial race in District 4, is not running. This leaves incumbent Louis H. (Bud) Baar against Gary Giacomini, with the possibility of John F. West's being the third man in the contest.

Three Rival Campaign Reform Measures Clash

By ED DOOLEY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House supporters of campaign spending reform are worried about the effect of the furious partisan battle waged in the Senate over using tax funds to finance presidential campaigns. The House next week is to vote on new rules to govern the raising, spending and reporting of campaign money, and without bipartisan action there is little hope of true reform.

The $1 tax checkoff financing plan was backed by nearly all Senate Democrats against the wishes of Republicans and the White House. GOP House members already are working on strategy to scuttle the plan when it comes to the House.

But Democrats, led by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, are expected to back the campaign finance provisions attached by the Senate to the tax bill.

SUCH POLITICAL maneuvering "could not come at a worse time," according to a moderate Republican who has been leading a bipartisan effort to shape true reform out of the three reform bills pending in the House.

The measures each contain different spending limitations — primarily aimed at ending communications media advertising blitzes —but one bill would limit individual contributions which Republicans warn would prompt a presidential veto.

Despite the rhetoric, there has been little pressure in the House by either party for reform. Due to dalliance by both sides, House action was put off until the final weeks of the session.

With momentum building for adjournment, the House now faces a parliamentary quagmire. There are three competing sets of bills which must be reconciled by amendment and compromised with the Senate before Congress goes home for Christmas if final action is not to be delayed until 1972 —an election year.

THE CHIEF FEAR is that House members will override an attempt supported by GOP House leaders to repeal the equal time provision of the Communications Act for presidential and congressional candidates.

Word has been circulated by White House aides that unless the repeal includes House candidates, the reform legislation would be vetoed by President Nixon.

Republicans are backing the Senate-passed bill which repeals the equal time provision for all federal candidates, but the two chief sponsors of the House bills are bitterly opposed to repeal for House members. Rep. Torbert H. Macdonald, D-Mass., argues the provision "gives us the protection of equal broadcast time. If we give that up we would be turning over the country to the broadcasters."

Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, told the House that repeal would make the measure a "television announcer's bill" because they would "turn over to the television broadcasting stations in our districts the right to name the next congressman from that district, which they would do in many instances."

HAYES, MacDONALD and other House members worry that without the equal time provision —which inhibits TV debates —broadcasters could give unlimited free time to candidates they support.

Supporters of repeal for all federal candidates maintain broadcasters would be fair and if the presidential candidates are to be allowed to debate so should House members and senators.

There is hope for a compromise. Representatives Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., and John B. Anderson, R-Ill., plan to seek repeal of equal time for President, vice president and Senate but not House candidates.

Under this plan, which the White House does not support, the Federal Communications Commission would conduct a study and recommend after the 1972 elections whether to include repeal for House candidates.

The vote on the equal time provision could serve as an early indication of the sentiment for campaign reform.

Millionaire Contradicts Billionaire

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Billionaire oilman H.L. Hunt's prediction that America will "fall to the Communists" within three years was contradicted flatly Friday by another wealthy capitalist, W. Clement Stone, head of the Combined Insurance Co. of America.

Stone, 69, whose assets total around $400 million, said a more immediate danger is socialism — communism "doesn't have a chance for many, many years" in this country.

Hunt, one of the world's wealthiest men, said in a news conference here earlier this month that there would be a "Red takeover" in the United States very soon if policies didn't change.

Two Cars Are Reported Stolen

The burglary of an automobile at the parking lot of the Meadow Club, above Fairfax, and another at the parking lot of the Memorial Theater on Mount Tamalpais were reported by the Marin County sheriff's office Saturday.

Deputies said two coats, valued at a total of $220 were taken Nov. 19 or Nov. 20 from a car owned by Constance G. Payne of 260 Ricardo Road while the car was parked at the Meadow Club.

Camera equipment and a purse, valued at a total of $830, were taken Thursday from a car owned by Alfredo Eisenberg of El Cerrito parked on Mount Tamalpais, deputies said.

Reading Problems Probed

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)— Some high school students can hardly read the writing on their diplomas.

Beginning next month, a committee of the legislature will begin a serious effort to determine the causes of reading problems and how to cure them.

Officials said it has been shown there are more than 4 million American adults who cannot even read and understand what is on a driver's license.

Rep. James J. A. Gallagher, chairman of the House Education Committee, said his group will meet in early December and begin a special investigation into the matter.

The group will hold public hearings and employ a national, professional survey, such as the Gallup poll, to determine the extent of reading deficiencies among Pennsylvanians.

A resolution calling for the investigation was approved by the full House on Nov. 9.

"Pupils are passed from grade to grade and manage to graduate from high schools," Gallagher said, "Sometimes without even the basic reading skills associated with the primary grades.

"We feel we need a professional survey outside of the Pennsylvania Department of Education to see how far this practice has gone in Pennsylvania."

Gallagher said the study would be done by an outside firm instead of the state.

"On a critical question like this," he said, "you must have somebody outside the system — not those actually involved. The education department says they have statistics now, but we have never seen them."

Gallagher said he had contacted the Gallup Co., natonally-known pollsters, about conducting the survey. He said the firm quotes a figure "under $100,000" for the job.

Gallagher said a national poll by Lou Harris showed 4.3 million American adults are too illiterate to understand even a third of the items encountered on driver's license, social security, bank loan, medicaid or public assistance applications.

According to the resolution, which Gallagher authored, the figures "reflect a national phenomenon —demonstrated by tests, surveys, prison and employment service files, military induction statistics, and other indicators —which there is no reason to believe Pennsylvania does not share."

Gallagher said the committee would give special attention to phonetic reading, an alternate method to the traditional sight reading technique. It teaches children to read by first recognizing sounds and their relation-

Students Like Drink Over Dope

CHICAGO (UPI)—A survey of the nation's top 23,000 high school students showed they prefer alcohol to marijuana although 76 per cent said they had never smoked it.

They also believed—50 per cent of them—that sex before marriage was all right under certain conditions, but 35 per cent were opposed to it.

The survey was conducted by Merit Publishing Co. The students participating came from 18,000 public, private, and parochial high schools.

The students gave the same top priorities for the nation as they had given in last year's survey. They were:

—End the Southeast Asian war.

—Eliminate pollution.

—Continue the war on poverty.

Of the 24 per cent that said they had tried marijuana, only six per cent said they used it more than once or twice. Sixty per cent opposed its use while 30 per cent approved it.

Krouse said 80 per cent of the students surveyed were seniors, 20 per cent juniors, with 96 per cent college bound.

The students favored Democrats to Republicans with 34 per cent saying they identified "most closely" with the Democrates. Thirty four per cent said they were independents, while only 20 per cent listed themselves Republicans.

It is estimated that one-third of this country's population spends some leisure time with horses; riding them and betting on or watching them.

TALK IS OF SKIING

Arab Daily Life: Little War Signs

BEIRUT (UPI)—Another war in the Middle East might be just around the corner, but it is hard to find any signs of it in the daily life of the Arab world.

In Lebanon, colored Christmas lights are being strung across Beirut's fashionable Rue Hamra, where boutiques called "Vroom," "Capucine" and "Playboy" offer the latest Paris fashions at the lateest Paris prices.

A rash of British-style "pubs" —the latest fashion in trend-conscious Beirut—throb with Lebanese socialites and resident Westerners drinking imported London draught beers at 78 cents a pint.

As for the war, that's Egypt's problem.

UPI correspondent Maurice Guindi reports from Cairo that there is a schizophrenic attitude even there.

Since Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's Nov. 20-21 speeches announcing his potion for battle, there has been a flurry of activity to implement military, civil and popular defense plans to prepare Egypt for a resumption of fighting.

Travelers reaching Beirut report Egyptian troops have been placed on standby alert and leave has been cancelled for the armed forces.

Interior Minister Mamdouh Salem ordered a partial blackout and the Cairo press said all able-bodied students would undergo military training starting in January.

But the capital presents the usual picture of an overcrowded city of five million—suffering from traffic jams, congested sidewalks and all the other problems of 20th century urban life.

Libya and Syria have donned masks of official gravity.

A decree issued in Tripoli set in motion measures for immediate establishment of the "people's resistance forces" to take charge of civil defense and protection of public installations.

In Syria, President Hafez Assad paid two visits in two days to Syrian military camps and a local newspaper said war was inevitable.

But Ali Baba's Restaurant in Damascus continues to sell its speciality—frogs' legs imported from France—and Lebanese and Syrians commute across their joint border like British businessmen travelling to London from Brighton or an American shuttling between New York and Scarsdale.

Jordan is notably unalert, though it has a lengthy frontier facing Israeli occupation forces. King Hussein said in a recent television interview his country would not join in any new Middle East war unless there is "adequate coordination" among the ARab states.

The rulers of Iraq are swelling with self-importance as Sadat turns increasingly to their long-held line that a popular war of liberation is the only answer to Isreli occupation.

Arabs in striped galibeyehs plod down the city's muddy, windswept roads and eat mutton stew from zinc bathtubs in the shadow of grandiose monuments erected by successive Socialist regimes.

The Arabs are a long way from the coming battle, and the average man does not get excited about a cause such as Palestine which he feels has little to

Miracle Coating Replaces House Paint for 15 Years

Los Angeles, Calif.

Another boon of the space age has been accomplished for the home owner . . . an exterior wall coating so tough and durable that it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 15 years. This remarkable textured coating is asbestos KENITEX.

The Atomic Energy Commission has used KENITEX texture Coating for several years at Los Alamos, New Mexico, atomic plant. Thousands of gallons of this remarkable exterior surfacing have been applied to provide weatherproofing and beauty, far outlasting ordinary paint.

Over 1,000,000 KENITEX applications on homes, commercial and industrial buildings throughout the world, 10,000 in Southern California alone, remain in perfect condition after more than 15 years exposure in all weather extremes.

The Veterans' Administration, Sawtelle, in Los Angeles, has applied KENITEX to the exteriors of their buildings. The Kenitex coating is applied in one quick spray application without muss, fuss or odor — at a thickness 20 times that of ordinary paint. It fills holes, cracks and hides building defects, yet does not conceal the original architectural lines.

Homes and Guided Missiles
Unique among KENITEX applications is the use on guided missiles where its insulating properties shield the missile from extreme temperatures. KENITEX obtains these qualities from its basic components of asbestos, mica and perlite, which are noted for their insulation and durability.

Shot From a Gun
KENITEX is guaranteed for 15 years against chipping, flaking or peeling . . . it is extremely flexible and withstands all normal building expansion and contraction. Actually, "Shot from a Gun" KENITEX fuses to the sidewalls in a variety of beautiful decorator colors.

Free Estimates
Local applications of this remarkable coating are made by the Golden Gate Bldr's Inc, licensed and approved applicators. Cost is surprisingly low — convenient terms can be arranged. Home owners can obtain free estimates without obligations, by calling 776-4453 or mail coupon herewith:

TWA's AMBASSADOR SERVICE. IT TOOK A YEAR TO PERFECT IN AMERICA AND NOW WE'RE BRINGING IT TO EUROPE, THE PACIFIC AND THE FAR EAST.

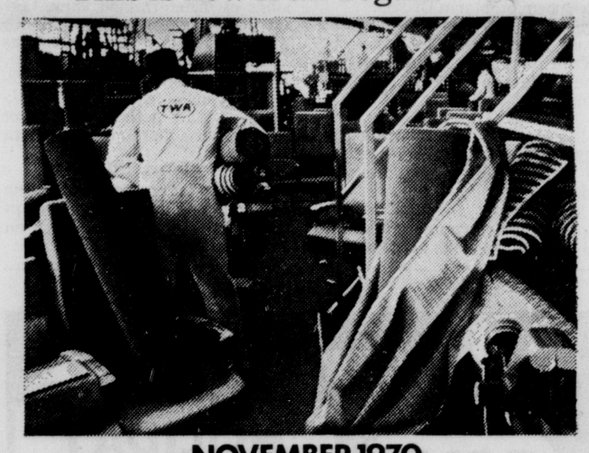
DECEMBER 1ST.
TWA EXPANDS AMBASSADOR SERVICE TO EUROPE AND THE PACIFIC.

After a year of expanding and improving Ambassador Service across the United States, TWA is ready to introduce Ambassador Service to the world.

International travellers will now enjoy new planes, new twin seats, choice of entrees, in short everything that has made Ambassador Service the success it is today.

It all started a year ago, when we put into effect a program designed to give our passengers a whole new way to fly across the United States.

This is how it all began:



NOVEMBER 1970.
TWA INTRODUCES NEW REFURNISHED PLANES.

We ripped out all the interiors of our 707s, and put in new seats, new fabrics, new colors, new carpets, new everything.

CHOICE OF MOVIES[1]...

On all movie flights, only TWA gives you a choice of two first-run movies. One for general audiences. One for mature.

CHOICE OF INTERNATIONAL MEALS...

NEW TWIN SEAT IN COACH...

If the plane's not full, our new Twin Seat can be two across or even a couch.

TWA GROUND AMBASSADOR...

AND CONTAINERIZED BAGGAGE.

Containerized Baggage is the safest, most modern way for your luggage to travel without getting banged around, lost or arriving late.

In fact, passengers found that their luggage travelled in almost as much comfort as they did.

1. Movies and alcoholic beverages available at nominal cost in coach. Movies by Inflight Motion Pictures, Inc.

APRIL 1971.
WHAT TWA DID FOR COACH, TWA DOES FOR FIRST CLASS.

We completely redesigned our first class sections on all 707s. We put in new seats, new carpets, new fabrics, new everything.

JUNE 1971.
NEW HOSTESS UNIFORMS.

SEPTEMBER 1971.
TWA GUARANTEES, "A LOUNGE ON ALL AMBASSADOR FLIGHTS."

Then TWA introduced its smaller, more intimate 707 coach lounge.

OCTOBER 1971.
TWA ISSUES ANOTHER GUARANTEE, "TWA WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD."

While every other airline was promising new low fares all over the place, TWA gave you this guarantee:

"TWA guarantees that no scheduled airline will take you to any TWA city, across the United States or around the world, for less money than TWA.

TWA WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD

"In addition, if you buy your ticket now, and TWA lowers the price of your flight any time before you take off, TWA guarantees to pay you back the difference in full."

When you fly TWA, we guarantee you the lowest prices available to the general public for the same service and routes.

TWA's PRIVATE CUSTOMS.

And of course, when you return, TWA is still one of the few airlines to have U.S.Customs and Immigration facilities in its own terminal Flight Wing #1 at JFK.

DECEMBER 1971.
TWA GIVES AMBASSADOR SERVICE TO THE WORLD.

So now, whether you're going across the United States, across the Atlantic or across the Pacific, take a TWA Ambassador Flight.

No other airline gives you anything like it.

Call your travel agent or TWA.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS BATTLER

She Didn't Intend To Be A Lawyer

By JOAN LISETOR

When Cecilia Lannon was a student at Hastings College of the Law her plan was to do legal work for the poor as a sideline.

Because she spoke Italian she was able to get a job as a clerk in the San Francisco Neighborhood Legal Assistance North Beach office, which opened while she was a student. Her interest in poverty law grew, she says, and she stayed on in the NLA office after graduation and passing the California State Bar examination until a spot opened on the Legal Aid Society of Marin's staff two years ago.

"I didn't consciously choose the position, but I have become a woman's rights lawyer because it is difficult to separate the two in poverty law," says the Texas-born, Millbrae-reared attorney. "Problems of the poor often are the same as problems of women, since 60 per cent of the poor (incomes less than $3,000 per year) are women."

CECILIA SAYS she is a crusader for the weakest group in America, poor, minor women or more specifically, poor, pregnant minors (under 21).

She represents "Alice," a 19-year-old Marin resident who was denied a Medi-Cal card by authorities in Marin and Butte counties, where she attends school, because she was pregnant. Alice is the plaintiff in a caseagainst the California State Department of Social Welfare, which her attorney hopes will strike down a directive that requires that before aid is granted an unwed, pregnant minor, the county must notify the parents to determine if they have financial ability to pay for her needs.

"We are not challenging the abortion laws," explains Cecilia, "because this directive also applies to minor women seeking pre-natal care."

The case, brought on behalf of "Alice and all other similarly situated," has a trial date of Dec. 8 in Sacramento.

"ALICE IS a real fighter," says Cecilia. "She was so confused and teary when she first came to the office. She wanted to have an abortion, couldn't afford it and was afraid of what effect the news would have on her mother because she is not well."

Alice, who had an abortion in March, allowed on a temporary court ruling, will testify at the trial, says her attorney, but she has been promised anonymity.

"If she loses, someone could call her mother and say, 'Your daughter had an abortion, can you pay for it?'"

"Middle class women have resources and know where to turn, but the poor have no expertise," Cecilia says.

"Abortion is just one problem the poor woman must face. Another big one is discrimination in hiring," says the attorney, who says she never set out to be a woman's rights lawyer.

CECILIA LANNON, Legal Aid Society of Marin attorney, says she never set out to be a woman's rights attorney, but the field of poverty law is difficult to separate from women's problems, since 60 per cent of poor persons are women, she says.

Europe Diverse On Marriage

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — European areas showed diverse marriage trends, according to Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The marriage rate for the period between 1960-64 and 1969 or 1970, where available, increased in 10 countries, decreased in 11, and showed little change in Denmark and Yugoslavia. In the Netherlands the newlywed rate of increase is the highest in all of Europe — 18.8 per cent. Bulgaria recorded the lowest rate of increase in all of Europe — 4.8 per cent.

In Romania and Sweden the rate of marriages decreased by 25.8 and 25.4 per cent respectively. Sweden reported the lowest rate of marriage in all Europe last year — 5.3 per 1,000 population compared with an annual average of 7.1 in 1960-64. The Soviet Union's current marriage rate of 9.7 per 1,000 population is the highest of any European nation, but represents only a slight upswing following several years of a downward trend there, the statisticians note.

As for the Middle East and Asia, only Israel and Japan have reported complete marriage statistics for the past 10 years. Israel's rate of increase, the highest of any country reviewed, is 32.9 per cent, while Japan's is a relatively low 3.1 per cent, according to the study.

New Ideas For Wedding Dress Theme

Two leading bridal gown designer firms have come up with some new versions of the traditional dress for spring and summer weddings.

Priscilla of Boston uses themes from the Chinese and Victorian in separate ways. The cap-sleeved white organza is designed with a Mandarin neckline, accented with Venice flowers. The Victorian influence shows in her portrait neckline dresses in tucked lawn and lace.

Priscilla also has a Dolman sleeved capelet dress in English net, embroidered with the traditional Alencon lace.

Her dresses flare gently away from the body and end with court trains.

Spring for Frank Masandrea of Bridal Couture Ltd. means scooped ruffled bodices, V yokes, flounces upon flounces and pinafore fronts. He says they are all inspired by heirloom Victorian dresses, but have an updated style.

JoAnn Schendel Weds In San Anselmo Rite

JoAnn Schendel became the bride of William Burnett of San Rafael in an afternoon ceremony Nov. 20 at St. Anselm's Church in San Anselmo.

Following a wedding trip to Mexico City and Acapulco they will live in San Rafael.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Schendel of San Rafael, JoAnn chose her sister, Mrs. Fred Canney of Novato, as her honor attendant. The bridesmaids were Vicki Lenzi of San Anselmo and Mrs. Craig Piro of Novato.

Robert W. Burnett of Mountain View served his brother as best man. Seating the guests were Robert Prigmore of San Diego and Thomas Anderson of Newport Beach.

The bride is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and she attended College of Marin. William G. Schendel Jr. of Novato is her brother.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Burnett of Newport Beach are William's parents. He was graduated from Newport Harbor High School and Long Beach State College.

Chance To Appear In Film

Another group of 100 Marin women who will get their chance to appear in the film, "The Candidate," are members of the Sunny Hills Bargain Box Auxiliary.

They will be on hand, suited, gloved and hatted, along with the members of the Social Service Auxiliary of Marin, tomorrow morning for a scene with film star Robert Redford at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

Social Service Auxiliary members were having trouble locating hats, and the Bargain Box volunteers have offered to have them come search through the Bargain Box stock, to the benefit of Sunny Hills.

Putting On The Panty Hose

Don't smoke or wear sharp things while you put on your panty hose, advises Betty Curry, fashion director for a hosiery company. Dribbles of cigarette ash, chunky rings and sharp fingernails are responsible for many needless runs.

If you can't remove sharp rings, or your hands are calloused or your finger nails menacing, wear gloves when you touch your panty hose.

Make It Easier

To make things easier, remember that 1/4 pound of cheese will equal one cup when shredded.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

The Tactless Bride Should Just Be Scratched From Your Books

DEAR HELEN:

I was recently invited to a wedding and sent the bride and bridegroom a lovely wool blanket. We are more business acquaintances than close friends.

Today the blanket was returned to me with a note from the girl saying she uses only electric blankets, but thanks anyway.

The name of the store where I purchased it was clearly on the box. Inasmuch as she could have exchanged my gift for another, but chose not to, am I obligated to buy her another present? — A.B.

DEAR A.:

Absolutely not!

Such tactlessness deserves a write-off in your books. I wouldn't even send them a Christmas card! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

In your letters from wives about "Other Women," every wife seems to think the O.W. is always single and looking for a husband — hers.

Well, I am a married "other woman" and my "other man" is also married. Our relationship is very special. He is a wonderful person and I think the world of him, but I wouldn't leave my husband for him, nor would he leave his wife for me — though he loves me deeply.

Neither of us feels ashamed, or guilty. Our mates are happy with us — and we're able to make our home lives better since we have the added excitement of knowing we are wanted "outside."

Is there anything so wrong with this? — HAPPY O.W.

DEAR HAPPY:

Don't ask me — ask your (legal) mates. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

What's with these people who get so uptight because women want to change their formal title from "Mrs." or "Miss" to "Ms."? Why must we be classified as married or single when all men are "Mr." no matter what their marital status?

Until my husband signs himself "M-Mr." (for "Married Mister") I'll be — MS. SANDRA JONES-SMITH, NOT MRS. TOM SMITH

P.S. Not my real name.

DEAR SANDRA:

You'll always find people who feel threatened by change — but you'll also find a lot of us who think "Ms." is a happy solution. For many years I've been using "Ms." when I wasn't sure whether my business correspondent was a married or single career girl.

Here's a quote from a newspaper editor: "We doubt that there is a newspaper in the land that would not readily adopt the 'Ms.' system, if we could get away with it. It is forever a pain in the journalist's side trying to find out whether Mary Jones, involved in a wreck or some such, is Miss or Mrs. Thus, when time and other factors prevent a check, we've had to resort to such absurd double talk as "The Jones woman was given a citation,' or 'the Jones car's driver was cited,' which not only is awkward but looks as if we are bordering on illiteracy."

Our editor carries equality one step further. He suggests that the formal title "Mrs. John Jones" (on which most newspapers insist) be abandoned in favor of Mary Jones (No Mrs., Miss, or Ms.) and, in second reference, she could simply be referred to as "Jones." Males have no "Mr." in front of their names, he says. Why then are women so special — on the printed page?

Somehow I don't think nonliberated women will go for this suggestion. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

'OUT OF CONTROL'

Child Abuse Problem Grows

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — A father or mother flings an infant against a wall. Child is rushed to hospital, treated and kept there until his fractured skull mends.

What then?

That question is a source of growing concern nationwide as doctors, social workers, judges and others turn their attention to the plight of the battered child.

Dr. John E. Allen, chairman of the American Academy of Pediatrics' subcommittee on child abuse, says the problem of the battered child is "out of control and growing."

Thirty-four battered children have died in New York City since January, according to estimates from the Medical Examiner's office.

NO ONE knows the exact awful toll since many of the battered children's fatal injuries go down as "accidents." Conservatively, authorities estimate that for every million Americans there are 300 battered children in a year. These are reported cases only. For every reported case, authorities estimate there are others.

Mrs. Barbara Blum, assistant administrator of the Human Resources Administration of New York, is among those dealing with the battered child syndrome. Like many in the front lines, she is concerned with what she calls "slippages."

In an interview she defined "slippage" as losing control of the child's destiny once the child is released from the hospital. Red tape in the social welfare agencies and in the courts prevents the children from receiving the protective attnetion they need. Dr. Allen, professor of pediatrics at the Downstate Medical Center of the State University of New York in Brooklyn, also is distressed over "slippage."

When the child is given attention in fits and starts by a multitude of agencies he explained, it is not unusual for that child to be readmitted later to the hospital, in battered condition once more.

AS THE problem grows in intensity, much is happening to help the battered child — and his family. The American Academy of Pediatrics soon will implement a three-point program calling for:

—More unified control of the battered child so slippage does not occur. This would come through diagnostic and treatment centers.

—Hotlines or crisis intervention centers in communities so the uptight parent can reach for a phone and get help instead of venting anger on a child.

—Treatment and rehabiliatation centers for the battering parents. It is hoped that in up to 75 per cent of the cases the child and parents can be reunited.

The trend is to help the family as well as the child. Dr. C. Henry Kempe and Dr. Ray E. Helfer, top authorities on the battered child, discuss programs for helping the families in a book that will be out in January.

In "Helping the Battered Child and His Family" they define the child this way: "Any child who received nonaccidental physical injury or injuries as a result of acts or omissions on the part of his parents or guardians."

Dr. Helfer is associate professor, department of human development, college of human medicine, Michigan State University, East Lansing. Dr. Kempe is chairman, department of pediatrics, University of Coloardo Medical Center, Denver.

THE DOCTORS report that before a parent or parents can have the potential to abuse, there must be an abusive pattern acquired over the years. It is made up of at least four factors:

"The way the parents themselves were reared. Did they receive the mothering imprint — love?

"Have they become very isolated individuals who cannot trust or use others?"

"Do they have a spouse that is so passive he or she cannot give?

"Do they have unrealistic expectations from their child or children?"

The child who is abused must be a special child, according to the two authorities. This is one who is seen differently by his parents, one who fails to respond in the expected manner; or possibly one who really is different retarded, too smart, hyperactive, or has a birth defect.

But all of these factors together don't add up to a battered child. There must be a crisis, something that sets the abusive act into motion.

Dr. Helfer said this may be a minor or major crisis — a washing machine breaking down, a lost job, a husband being drafted, no heat, no food, a mother-in-law's visit. The crisis is the precipitating factor.

All too often, according to the doctors, children and their families find themselves without any meaningful treatment program because of disagreement over whether or not abuse has occurred.

"Our recommendation in this situation is to get off the 'did-it-occur' or 'who-done-it-kick', and get on with helping the child and his troubled family," they said.

"We are rapidly moving toward the point when, by early recognition of the potential to abuse small children, a treatment program can begin even before the child is born — and possibly even before the child is conceived."

SUCCESS IN helping the battered child depends on breaking the cycle of conditions, from generation to generation, that produces parents with a tendency to abuse their children. Poverty is one part of the cycle, although those in the ghetto have no exclusive rights to the battered child.

Dr. Allen said no one knows how extensive the problem is in suburbia but he guesses it's at least as widespread. He said it does not get as much attention because many of the cases are not reported.

Dr. Helfer said among the good things already happening on behalf of the battered child and his family are several programs.

In Los Angeles a group of mothers who have abused their children have formed Mothers Anonymous. It's a group therapy situation organized along the lines of Alcoholics Anonymous and has been in action nearly two years. Dr. Helfer said it will be going nationwide soon.

In Boston there is a day care program for abusive parents. In Denver, there is a parent aid program that gets Foster Grandparents in on the action aimed at helping the troubled parents. In Michigan a program about to start will make use of local mental health programs.

"The large majority of abusive parents can be helped and their homes made safe for their children," said Helfer.

By ROBERT CRABBE

TOKYO (UPI)—Is Communist China embarking on a new kind of cultural revolution by dressing women in femine clothes?

The suggestion that Chinese women may be shedding the drab slacks that have been their hallmark since the 1949 revolution came in two news pictures from China received in Tokyo.

Both showed Chinese women dressed for festive occasions in skirts and blouses, the first pictures of the type seen in Japan in several years.

ONE OF the two photographs was printed in Jimin Hoshi (Peoples Star), newspaper of a new Communist party sponsored in Japan by the Chinese, a party at odds with the regular Japanese Communist party.

The real eyecatchers, however, were the women employes of the refinery who were sent out to greet him. All wore bright colored print skirts and white blouses. The skirts were full and didn't do much for the figures of the wearers, and most of them had hemlines well below the knees.

Most of the women wore flat, Western type shoes with a single strap over the instep. They had white anklets rather than Western stockings. The majority wore their hair in twin braids.

The Communists have played down the feminine mystique in China, except for the lavishly dressed women who appear in some old Chinese operas.

JAPANESE TRAVELERS in Peking usually report seeing women exclusively in slacks, with no cosmetics. Public spooning by lovers is out, and even those on benches in public parks seem to sit at least a foot apart.

Tokyo got one of its few looks at Chinese women after the revolution in 1963 when a small number accompanied a Chinese delegation to Gensuikyo, Japan's leading ban-the-bomb organization. They were dressed in skirts with the hem about halfway between the knee and the ankle. The skirts had slits a few inches long extending up from the hems.

Quant's Designs More Natural

Mary Quant's cut-out designs for spring are softer and more natural than the geometric cut outs of the '60s, according to Women's Wear Daily.

Her designs have bare backs and halter necklines, and she crosses straps across the back for more cut outs. Fronts feature bare midriffs.

Laundering Tip

When laundering wash and wear draperies and curtains, take snap clothes pins and clip the pleats together at the top when you hang them out to dry. They will not separate when dry and will look as though they have been professionally pressed.

Men's Boutique

The Bonwit Teller store in Philadelphia will open a boutique for men employing both men and women as barbers, according to Women's Wear Daily.

Play Day Will Be On Dec. 23

A holiday play day for 5 to 12-year-olds will be held Dec. 23 from noon until 4 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

Sponsored by Marin YWCA, the playday will feature games, pinata breaking, entertainment, refreshments and Christmas ornament making.

The Turtle Tee Look For Slopes

The skier's world includes the T-bar — which helps him get up the slopes. And his and her fashion wardrobe includes something else that starts with a T — the Tee shirt.

Meant for wearing under parkas, the Tee shirts include some in turtle necks. They're called Turtle Tees. They come in polyester prints, geometrics and solids.

Tweed Revived

The fragrance Tweed is being revived by its brand owner, Yardley of London, reports Women's Wear Daily. Tweed, which faded from the perfume scene years ago, will be brought back as a part of the era of fashion nostalgia, the firm has announced.

'Mature' Women's Interest On College Credits Grows

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Labor Department says there is a growing interest on the part of "mature" women in the country to return to college.

For adult women interested in going back to school part time or for evening classes in a wide range of subjects, the Women's Bureau has published a pamphlet listing colleges and schools with special programs for women, state by state.

The brochure —"Continuing Education Programs and Services for Women" —may be purchased from the Government Printing Office in Washington for 70 cents.

The pamphlet says that more and more women want to return to college to "develop their understanding of the complexities of modern life.

"There is widespread realization that additional education can bring deeper personal enrichment as well as job skills useful in the working world," it said.

Colleges throughout the nation are offering refresher courses, as well as new courses to teach job skills in professions where there have been scientific and technological advances.

In 1969 there were 30.5 million women workers 16 or older, compared to 18.4 million in 1950.

The chances of a woman's getting a job can be expected to increase with the level of her formal education, the bureau said.

The courses being offered are not all satisfactory according to the pamphlet. It said that some women with recent experience in university courses were critical of the methodology and content of the classes, feeling they were aimed strictly at teenagers. "Such courses do not satisfy women with considerable life experience," it said.

The most frequent request of the surveyed alumni was for individual counseling.

Broad Assault On Sales Gyps Due

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — A court decision here last week has cleared the way for a broad assault by a promising organization of concerned businessmen known as the Countil of Better Business Bureaus (CBBB) on unethical selling practices.

The court decision involved a CBBB report on chain distribution schemes originally issued two years ago by the national office of the Better Business Bureaus. The CBBB, a consolidation of all BBB groups formed last year, wanted to issue an updated version of the report.

Holiday Magic Inc., the San Rafael based cosmetic firm, sought a court order to bar release of the report. The firm called the report "an attempt to fabricate testimony" in a case brought against the company by the state of Wisconsin.

The CBBB maintained that such a court order would do "irreparable damages to the Council of Better Business Bureaus Inc.'s reporting responsibilities to the public . . ."

The council said the proposed report was in line with the "historic role" of BBBs in issuing warnings to consumers and businessmen whenever the need arises.

It added that there had been a "dramatic increase in the frequency of requests for information about chain distribution activities" since the report was first issued. It said that hundreds of requests for the report added urgency to getting it published.

THE REPORT does not mention any company by name. It simply advises people to be wary of chain distribution schemes offered by some multi-level selling companies.

It describes a typical "opportunity meeting" for a get-rich-quick plan of investing money and recruiting friends and neighbors to do the same. Prospects are told they can quickly recoup their investment.

"If this has been your introduction to a multi-level selling plan," says the CBBB report, "Hold on — you are well on the way to being separated from your money."

Before you withdraw your savings or borrow money to join the plan, says the report, investigate it thoroughly. Such schemes are likened to the old chain letters of the '30s, the pyramid clubs of the '40s and the referral plans of the '50s and '60s.

Concentrating mostly on people of limited business knowledge and limited means, multi-level selling schemes have victimized thousands of people to the tune of many millions of dollars. In one New York scheme, only 79 of the 1,604 investors made more than $5,000 despite claims that all investors could make $100,000 a year.

EARLIER THIS year, the Federal Trade Commission proposed a complaint against Koscot Interplanetary Inc., another multi-level selling plan involving the sale of cosmetics, and Dare-to-be-Great, a self-motivation course based at the same location in Orlando, Fla.

Koscot and Dare-to-be-Great also have been the subjects of legal action by at least 30 state agencies, according to the CBBB.

The CBBB report lists nine guidelines for people thinking of joining door-to-door sales plans. They warn against plans based primarily on recruitment, and praise those based primarily on sales (such as those of Avon, Bestline and Amway). In case you have questions, the BBBs stand ready to answer them. So do federal and state law enforcement agencies.

Earlier this month, the FTC proposed a trade rule which would require firms offering franchises to disclose detailed information of the type not always revealed to prospective buyers of the franchises.

The agency lists 27 specific items of information to be furnished "in a clear, permanent and straight-forward form." They include:

The franchisor's business experience and financial history.

Any civil or criminal actions against the firm.

All fees a franchisee must pay and the average of them during the previous 12 months.

The conditions under which a franchise may be terminated.

If training is offered, the number of instruction hours and biographies of the instructors.

Franchisors would also have to allow a 10-day "cooling-off" period in which a person could cancel the contract and get his money back.

The FTC has issued a call for comments from the public. Deadline for them is Feb. 7. The agency also plans to hold public hearings on the matter at its headquarters in Washington, D.C., Feb. 14, 15 and 16.

FABRIC SECRETS

JOAN CROSSLEY

What cause pilling in some fabrics? During wear, it seems, the fiber ends gradually work up into the surface. With only normal wear, all these little ends seem to roll themselves into tiny hard balls — these are the "pills". These balls, which are of course, still very much attached to the fabric, catch on other surfaces and form more pills. What to do? Careful laundering may help slightly. Above all, remember to turn these garments inside out. This will result in less friction and smoother surfaces. When looking for drapery and upholstery fabric the place to shop is FABRIC LAND, 836 4th Street., where there is always a vast selection of outstanding fabrics to compliment all kinds of furnishings. We also have a shop at home decorating service for your convenience. Hours: 9:30 AM - 5:30 PM Mon-Tues-Thurs-Sat., 9:30 AM - 9 PM Wed-Fri. Noon - 5 PM Sundays.

A LOW SPADE

Bobby Wolff, of the Dallas Aces (winners of the match), opened the five of spades from the West hand. Edgar Kaplan won in the South hand with the ten.

Kaplan led a diamond to dummy and returned a club to finesse with the ten, losing to the queen. This developed a club trick while keeping East out of the lead.

If Wolff made a "safe" club return, Kaplan would discover the bad diamond break and would see the need for two heart tricks. By playing West for K-Q of hearts, South would eventually make his contract.

DARES DECLARER

Foreseeing this, Wolff dared declarer by returning the deuce of hearts. It seemed unlikely to South that West would risk this lead if he had both of the missing high hearts; moreover there were other plays for the contract. Kaplan therefore stepped up with dummy's ace of hearts.

Declarer then took two high diamonds and the rest of the clubs but had to squeeze his own hand on the last club. If South discarded a spade, West would keep A-Q of spades and two high hearts. When Kaplan actually discarded a heart, West kept three hearts and the singleton ace of spades. Down one.

REJECTS PLAY

South rejected a late play for his contract. After putting up the ace of hearts, he might lead a diamond to the queen, discovering the bad break. Now, needing a second heart trick, he cashes ace and king of clubs and leads a low heart toward dummy's jack. West can take the two high hearts, but must then yield a trick to the king of spades or the ten of hearts.

I warned you this called for deep thinking.

Vuillard's World Is A Pleasure To Behold

By LAURA DEVENDORF

SAN FRANCISCO — Having spent a long, lovely afternoon at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor sharing "The Intimate World of Edouard Vuillard," Vuillard's public acceptance as a modern master seems very long overdue.

Always overshadowed by contemporaries such as his good friend Pierre Bonnard, and although he is now eagerly sought by collectors and museums, Vuillard's amusing, decorative and cozy views of French life from the 1880s into the 1900s, have been largely overlooked by the public.

This exhibition at the Legion of Honor should go a long way toward curing that oversight. Organized by the Art Gallery of Ontario, Toronto, and containing 96 paintings, 61 prints and 23 drawings from collections in Europe and North America, this Vuillard retrospective is the most important and comprehensive one ever held in this country.

And unlike many recent exhibitions, this one, with its warm human quality and its unyielding appreciation for the basics in life, makes you feel good inside from the beginning to the end of it.

There's a sort of lived-in clutter around everything Vuillard paints, humanizing his numerous interiors so that you can't help feeling at home with them. Flowers, furniture and bric-a-brac crowd his scenes of childhood making these moments even more tender and real. Ladies gossiping, a manicurist, or the many seamstresses he shows, all seem set in strong silhouette or in riotous patterned contrast against jungle-busy backgrounds.

Even the several expressive studies of the artist's mother, have such down-to-earth and friendly ornamentation that they never dip to mere sentimentality.

This strong decorative bent can be dazzling, as when Vuillard blocks plaid clad figures, ornamental china, paintings, busily patterned rugs, furniture and miscellany against a wall papered in minute flowers and topped with stripes. And part of the intrinsic joy of experiencing a Vuillard comes from the assault on the senses of such decoration.

Another, more subtle strength stems from the theories Vuillard shared with his contemporaries who called themselves "The Nabis," (Nabi is the Hebrew word for prophet.) In the beginning they were devotees of Gauguin and maintained a credo that "a picture — before being a horse, a nude or an anecdote — is essentially a flat surface covered with colors assembled in a certain order."

Vuillard's compositions reflect this statement, architectural in design outdoors and more subtle but with beautifully blocked spaces in his interiors.

Often too, there is a marvelous source of light, perhaps coming from a window, whitening the checks on the shoulders of a seamstress's blouse or, as in "Anna de Noailles," from a lamp, pouring peach-blushed brilliance on all it touches.

Vuillard's sensitive drawings and remarkable lithographs add further pleasures to this memorable retrospective, continuing through January 2 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

2 Inmates Died In Shoot-Out

The Independent-Journal erred Saturday in a story on the forthcoming move of Angela Davis to Santa Clara County in reporting that three San Quentin inmates died in the Aug. 7, 1970, Civic Center shoot-out.

Two inmates — James D. McClain and William Christmas — were killed — along with 17-year-old Jonathan P. Jackson and Marin Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley.

A third inmate, Ruchell, seriously wounded in the shootout, is awaiting trial, as is Miss Davis, in connection with the escape attempt.

Husband-Wife Singers Set Greenbrae Concert

Soprano Marian Marsh and baritone David Wade, husband-wife duo, will present a free public concert Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Tamalpais Residence Center, Greenbrae. James Groves will accompany at the piano.

Both singers have appeared as guest soloists with the College of Marin Concert and Lecture series, the Marin Symphony and the Winifred Baker Chorale.

Groves, who teaches piano and is organist-director at St. Luke's Presbyterian Church, San Rafael, will present his Jubil Handbell Choir at the Tamalpais on Dec. 19.

Saturday, the husband-wife duo will perform works by Purcell, Rossini, Weidlinger and Saint Saens. Songs by Brahms and Reger will be soprano solos and songs by Copland and Gounod baritone solos.

In 1927, at the zenith of their popularity, about 400 traveling tent theater companies in this country visited 16,000 communities and played to 78 million customers.

Raiders Smashed; 49ers Tip Jets To Recapture Lead

John Unitas Directs Colts' 37-14 Victory

OAKLAND (UPI) —John Unitas is back—all the way back—and the Baltimore Colts have their eye on Super Bowl VI.

With unrelenting precision and a dogged defense that intercepted six passes, the Colts routed Oakland 37-14 Sunday to hand the Raiders their worst loss since stumbling 38-7 to San Francisco in the final game last season.

Coaches John Madden of Oakland and Don McCafferty of Baltimore credited Unitas for the impressive victory that kept Baltimore alive in the Eastern Division of the American Football conference, the 38-year-old signal caller, starting his second straight game after missing most of the season with a shredded achilles tendon, ripped apart the Oakland defense with his pinpoint passes and play calling. "John did a marvelous job mixing up the plays, especially on that first march with the opening kickoff," said McCafferty. "It was one of the better games we have ever played.

"We needed the game badly and I am tickled to get it. Those interceptions helped."

"We just got whipped," said Madden. "They are the world champions. Sometime when you lose, you have to give credit to the other team.

Despite the shellacking, Madden said the Raider offense "wasn't as bad as it looked."

"As far as I could see, there was no breakdown in our offense," he added. "Their offense was just the best I've seen this year. And, naturally, their defense is tough.

"Now we have to guard against losing our confidence," said Madden as the Raiders cling to a half-game lead over runnerup Kansas City in the AFC West with a 7-2-2 record compared to the Chiefs' 7-3-1. Oakland closes out the season with games against Atlanta, Kansas City and Denver.

Baltimore is now 8-3 in the AFC East behind Miami, which has an 8-1-1 mark. The Colts hope they can either win the division or at least nail down the best runnerup record in the AFC by winning their remaining three games with Buffalo, Miami and New England.

COMING THROUGH — Baltimore halfback Tom Matte (41) gained 10 yards through a gaping hole in the Oakland defensive line yesterday. The Raiders' Ben Davidson (83) was close enough to get a hand on Matte, but Dan Connors (55), Horace Jones (82) and Tom Gibson (73) could only watch. Baltimore won, 37-14.

Prospectors Survive Namath's Air Circus

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

NEW YORK — Ringo Starr's tune "You Know It Don't Come Easy" could have been written for the San Francisco 49ers.

The Prospectors regained the National Football Conference's Western Division lead with a heartstopping 24-21 win over the host New York Jets Sunday.

But the prospectors needed an interception in the waning moments to preserve a hard earned triumph over the Joe Namath-led Jets. Namath might have had doubts about his first outing of 1971 Sunday, but he might have been the only man who felt that way.

Namath completed 11 of 27 passes for 258 yards, including TD tosses of 57 and 20 yards to Rich Caster and 22 yards to Eddie Bell, and had it not been for a costly fumble by Steve Harkey in the end zone near the close of the first half, the Jets might have won it.

That fumble, which squirted out of Harkey's hands as he reached the goal line and rolled out of the end zone for a touchback, plus key interceptions by Bruce Taylor and Johnny Fuller enabled San Francisco to survive Namath's heroics and take over first place in the NFC's Western Division.

Ray Of Joy Brightens Gloom At Coliseum

By RALPH CHATOIAN

As if Johnny Unitas had called the snap, hundreds of car doors swung open yesterday at 12:45 p.m. in the parking lot of the Oakland Coliseum.

At that moment in time, Lon Simmons' voice had screamed over the radio that Johnny Fuller had intercepted a Joe Namath pass and saved the game for the 49ers, 24-21. It came with only seconds left and put the Niners in first place over the hated Rams.

THE FANS clicked off the car radios and headed for the Coliseum. They went with smiles on their faces. They had just heard a great game on the radio and were full of anticipation for another great game. The good guys, the Oakland Raiders, were to play the world champion Baltimore Colts.

But it wasn't the Raiders' day. Johnny Unitas, wearing his black high top shoes rather than the flashy white low tops that Namath wears, sliced up the Raiders like a surgeon with a scalpel. When the thing was over on this gloomy, cloudy day, the Colts had bombed the Raiders, 37-14.

When the game started there were 54,689 fans in the Coliseum. By the time the fourth quarter started there were 34,000 fans and 187 sea gulls. The gulls seemed to be watching the game more intently than the disgusted fans.

I DON'T make many of the Raiders games because my allegiance with the 49ers goes back too far, and perhaps I put some kind of a jinx on the team. Yesterday's game was the worst beating the Raiders took since the 49ers beat them 38-7 in the last game of the season, last year. That was the last Raider game I attended until yesterday, so that two-year record stands at Raiders 21, opposition 75. That's outrageous because the Raiders have such a fine team. I'd be the last one to knock them.

But watching yesterday's game was no different than seeing all the 49er games this season. Balls were bouncing off Raider hands into the clutching fingers of the Baltimore Colts for interceptions. It happened twice. Another of Daryle Lamonica's passes was intercepted when tight end Ray Chester fell down at the last moment. I felt sorry for Daryle. But the fans didn't. When he was hit hard and grounded in the second quarter the fickle fans in the Coliseum actually cheered while he was lying flat on his back.

THE BIGGEST cheer of the day came when grizzled George Blanda entered the game after Lamonica was helped off the field. Even Blanda couldn't do anything about this game.

But the Raiders are still in first place, one-half game ahead of the Kansas City Chiefs in the American Football Conference west. And San Francisco has a similar lead over the Rams in the National Football Conference west.

Baylor Ousts Bill Beall After Loss In Finale

HOUSTON (UPI) — Bill Beall, who still had two years to go on his five-year head football coaching contract at Baylor University, was fired Saturday while his team was completing a 1-9 season with a loss to the Rice Owls.

Baylor officials and Beall were due to make a joint announcement immediately after the final game in Rice Stadium that .Beall was giving up his first college head coaching reins "by mutual consent."

It has been a foregone conclusion for weeks that Beall's departure was only a matter of time. A special committee was named by the board of trustees several weeks ago to "review the athletic department."

Beall was hired away from an assistant's role at Louisiana State prior to the 1969 season after John Bridgers was fired to end a 10-year tenure.

San Rafael To Receive Cage Test

San Rafael High School is considered a dark-horse threat in Marin County basketball. The question is just how dark, and a clue to the answer may be supplied tomorrow afternoon when the Bulldogs entertain Washington High of San Francisco at 4 p.m.

In other action involving Marin County Athletic League teams, Novato travels to Hogan of Vallejo, 3:30; Redwood hosts Santa Rosa, 4; Drake journeys to Analy of Sebastopol, 6; and Terra Linda entertains Rancho Cotate, 7.

SAN RAFAEL WINS

In the opener last Wednesday, San Rafael annihilated Sonoma, 62-24. "It's hard to pick out any one outstanding player," said coach Mike Diaz. "Just about everybody did well, especially on defense. We substituted quite a bit. Jerry Malinari looked good at a guard for us."

Washington, the 1970 San Francisco City champion, lost a barn-burner to Redwood last Friday, 50-48, and showed enough to impress Diaz, who scouted the game. "By January they will be very tough," he said. "They're all over the floor on defense. Very quick."

San Rafael will have a significant height advantage with 6-foot-5 Wayne Lechner at center and 6-3 Doni Canfield at forward. Canfield scored 13 and Lechner 11 at Sonoma.

WASHINGTON QUICK

"Their strong point is their quickness," said Diaz. " We'll try to cope with that by slowing the ball down."

Redwood will have another rough test in Santa Rosa, which went 20-6 last year and tied Napa for the championship of the North Bay League.

A brother combination which started last year will return for Santa Rosa — Tom Allen, a forward, and Chris, a guard. "Another starter will be forward Tom Walker," said coach Jim Grisham. "Other than that, I really can't say who will start as of now. Nobody has really stood out in practice."

SANTA ROSA OPENER

The game will be Santa Rosa's opener. The Sonoma Countians play a moderately disciplined offense with occasional fast breaks. They will give away a lot of height to Redwood — Walker and Tom Allen are the tallest players at 6-2, while Redwood's all-league center Steve McGee scales 6-7. McGee grabbed 17 rebounds against Washington's nimble pygmies Friday.

Novato lost its first two games, but the Hornets' performance in the 60-57 loss to Montgomery of Santa Rosa Friday was an improvement over their opening effort. The problem was failure to stick with the offensive game plan, said coach Jim Carimica.

Drake, likewise, suffered two opening defeats but looked better the second time out.

SECOND VICTORY

Marin Tars Topple DVC

By RALPH CHATOIAN

If Saturday night's College of Marin basketball game against Diablo Valley College of Concord is any indication of things to come, there's going to be a lot of excitement around the Tars' gymnasium this season.

You wouldn't know it was really a thriller by the final score — Marin 85, Diablo Valley 79 because much of the excitement was botled into the final minute of the game played before about 500 fans in Kentfield.

The score was knotted at 77-77 with less than a minute to go before the Tars made good on four straight free throws and then sealed it up on a play coach John Panagakis said "was right out of junior high school."

Roosevelt Green and freshman Joe DeMaestri had scored a pair of free throws each, giving the Mariners an 81-77 lead with 34 seconds left when Viking guard Dwayne Brown made a 15-footer to bring the score to 81-79.

With 13 seconds left and Marin bringing the ball out under the Diablo Valley basket, the Tars called time to set up a play that was going to be the winner. DeMaestri threw the inbound pass to guard Joe Casteel who was streaking down the court. He caught the Vikings' defense flat-footed, took the ball past the mid-court line and roared to the basket, leaped, and dunked in a two-pointer that iced the game. Ed Herrnberger added another basket just before the buzzer after Diablo Valley threw the ball away.

It was Marin's second victory in as many nights, the Tars defeating College of San Mateo 84-64 Friday night in San Mateo.

Marin carried a 49-44 lead off the court at halftime, thanks to the super work of guard Joe Smith. He scored 26 first half points, including 16 of 16 free throws. He ended up with 32 points and 18 of 18 free throws.

Diablo Valley's scoring punch came from a Mutt and Jeff guard combination — 6-foot-5½ Ken Cobb and 5-7 Brown. Cobb, a product of Kennedy High in Richmond who played in last year's Northern California All-Star basketball game, scored 30 points and Brown, a freshman from Pittsburg High, scored 22.

"We knew they (Diablo Valley) could run," said Panagakis after the game, "but we should not have let them get away on the fast break like that." He was referring to the nine easy baskets Diablo Valley scored on the fast break..

Panagakis also felt the Tar defense bothered Diablo Valley by switching to a zone for the last seven minutes after playing man-to-man the majority of the game.

Diablo Valley had the edge on Marin in rebounding, 45-36. The Tars will be host to Stanislaus State College of Turlock tomorrow night, 8 o'clock.

Individual scoring:
DIABLO VALLEY — Cobb, 12-6-30; Harski, 4-1-9; Brown, 10-2-22; Pavlin, 5-3-13; Sheide, 1-0-1; Lovick, 0-1-1; Johnston, 1-0-2.
Totals — 33-13—79. MARIN — Casteel, 4-5-13; Herrnberger, 4-0-8; Traub, 2-0-4; Smith, 7-18—32; Flynn, 1-1-3; DeMaestri, 2-5-9; Green, 4-4-12; Groshong, 1-2-4. Totals — 25-35—85.

JUMP TO THIRD

Seals Dump Buffalo 5-3; Sheehan Hot

OAKLAND (UPI) —The California Golden Seals are ready to depart on another road trip and again they are in third place in the National Hockey League West division.

The Seals moved into the third spot Sunday night with a 5-3 triumph over Buffalo that put them one point ahead of idle Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, which lost Sunday night. The Seals have 19 points.

California takes a day off today before meeting the Blues Tuesday night in St. Louis. The last road trip was a disastrous one for the Seals.

Sunday's win was paced by a pair of goals apiece by Wayne Carleton and Bobby Sheehan. Carleton got the first goal of the game as the clubs traded scores in the opening period. Carol Vadnais put the Seals temporarily in front in the first period, 2-1, with a slap shot from the point on a power play. But the Sabres tied less than two minutes later on Eddie Shack's goal.

The Seals went ahead to stay on the first of Sheehan's pair at 2:28 of the second period. Sheehan got his 14th of the year exactly three minutes later on a rebound following a shot by defenseman Paul Shmyr.

Carleton's second of the game and sixth of the season came at 49 seconds of the final period.

Warriors, Bucks Go Tomorrow

MILWAUKEE (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors, taking a day off today in their current road trip, are waiting for the return of center Nate Thurmond and a rematch with the Milwaukee Bucks, a team they upset earlier this season in Oakland.

The rematch will come Tuesday night, but Thurmond, who severely cut his hand last Thursday night against Philadelphia, will not be there. Thurmond's absence could make it a long night for the Warriors since they depend on the big center's defensive ability against the Buck's Kareem Jabbar.

Thurmond banged his hand on the rim attempting to block a shot and the cut required 20 stitches between the fourth and fifth fingers.

"I'm supposed to be able to play Saturday against Portland," said Thurmond, who stayed home as the Warriors departed for the road tour. "But I've already been disappointed in my shooting this year, and this layoff and injury won't help."

The Warriors snapped a three-game losing streak in their last outing Saturday night with a 109-91 win over Buffalo. While the Warriors were idle Sunday night, they moved into second place in the National Basketball Association Pacific Division.

'Ragged' Tam Grabs Opener

In other action involving Marin County Athletic League teams, Terra Linda stomped Healdsburg, 72-39, and Marin Catholic downed St. Patrick's at Vallejo, 62-58.

LED THROUGHOUT

Tamalpais led throughout the game by margins of three to nine points, but couldn't put Petaluma away until early in the fourth period, when Johnson hit three baskets in a row. He finished with 15 points.

"It was a very ragged game in the first half," said Tam coach Bernie Schneider. "There were a lot of turnovers and fouls. Petaluma had 20 free throws in the first half and we had 17."

Tam center Will Garner led all scorers with 28 points, hitting 12 of 18 shots from the field. Garner got three fouls fairly early, sat out a stretch and returned to play flawless ball in the second half as the whole Tam team settled down.

"We played good defense, especially in the fourth quarter," said Schneider. Petaluma made only three field goals in the last period and was outscored, 22-11. Star Petaluma guard Kevin Gilmore, who had scored 21 in the first three quarters, got only two more in the fourth.

'EXCEPTIONAL PASSES'

"Jared McFerrin made some exceptional passes for us against Petaluma's press," said Schneider. McFerrin joined Garner and Johnson in double figures with 11.

Terra Linda's John Buckley scored 15 points as the Trojans evened their record at 1-1 with the destruction of Healdsburg. Terra Linda jumped on top early, maintained command and increased the margin at the end.

"We were quite a bit improved over our opener Friday," said coach Bob Corley. "The kids did a lot better job defensively. They stuck to their man-on-man."

DOZEN SCORERS

Twelve different players scored for the Trojans, with nobody except Buckley hitting in double figures. Center Mark Lowey scored nine and did a good rebounding job, according to Corley.

"Healdsburg was a lot smaller, and we were able to dominate the boards," said the coach. Terra Linda also was the benificiary of numerous fouls and converted 26 free throws.

Marin Catholic's full-court press forced key turnovers as the Wildcats went on a 15-point binge starting late in the third quarter against St. Patrick's. The spree gave them a 55-44 lead and they played loose defense the rest of the way to avoid fouling and preserve the victory.

HURLEY HITS

Mickey Hurley led Wildcat scorers with 17 points. Dan Mahoney added 14, Jack Stahl 11 and Jim Sullivan 11. Mahoney and Stahl were key scorers during the surge.

"Hurley did a fine job at both ends," said Marin Catholic interim coach Bill Isetta. "He held their Hank Davis, who had been averaging 17, to six. Sullivan played well defensively until we loosened up at the end, and Carlsen did a good job in the second half." St. Patrick's Bill Tompkins scored 26, but only nine after intermission against Carlsen.

for the Jets, and it's probably lucky for the Forty-Niners that he didn't. Namath got into the game on a rather ironic note with 10:33 left in the second-quarter when Bob Davis, the starting quarterback, was hit after completing a 17-yard pass to caster and was removed from the game with a strained tendon in his right ankle.

"When I saw Davis go down I said 'Oh, bleep.' I said 'Whoa, well you're gonna go, that's all, I talked with Weeb (Ewbank) before the game, and we both felt Davis had been doing a good job and it wouldn't exactly be fair to not let him keep playing," said Namath.

"If the game had gotten out of hand and San Francisco started rolling up the score I would have gone in in the second half. But I didn't know when I'd go in, if at all."

The crowd actually cheered when Davis was helped off the field and broke into bedlam when Namath trotted out. Joe was rusty in his first two series and in his second series had one of his passes picked off by Taylor at midfield, who returned it 47 yards to the Jets' two-yard line. That set up a 25-yard field goal by Bruce Gossett, which eventually turned out to be the winning margin.

But Namath slowly began to get his timing back and moved the Jets from their own 36 to the Forty-Niners' one with 54 seconds left in the half only to have Harkey spoil the drive by fumbling.

The Forty-Niners, sparked by the combined 254 yards rushing of Vic Washington and Ken Willard, twice built a 17-point lead in the second half only to have Namath rally the Jets back into contention with his golden arm.

The Jets, aided by a blocked punt, struck for two touchdowns within a 2:27 span late in the fourth quarter and had a chance to win the game, or at least tie, when they got the Forty-Niners' 19-yard line with 27 seconds left. But on a third-and-10 play with 16 seconds remaining Fuller intercepted a pass intended for Bell in the end zone and ran it out to midfield as the gun sounded.

"I didn't throw well at all," said the 28-year-old quarterback, who had not thrown under game conditions since he was injured in a pre-season game with the Detroit Lions. "The best pass I threw as far as putting something on it and getting good flight was the last play which was intercepted. That's a fact.

"I didn't have my timing together. I've got to improve on my mental state. I've got to feel more at home in the picket. I feel pressure when it might not be there and this can cause you to throw a little early. The biggest problem I had was controlling myself."

Bell, who caught two passes for 45 yards, was in agreement with Namath that he wasn't throwing as well as he can, but the 5-10 flanker said his mere presence on the field was inspirational to the team.

"When Joe came on the field he just lifted the whole club up," said Bell. "Maybe it's not fair to Bob Davis to say this, but when Joe was out there the runners were running better and the linemen were blocking harder. But Namath was only 50 per cent of himself today. That means we get six touchdowns next week."

"He's one of the greatest quarterbacks I've ever seen," said Washington, who had a big day with 125 yards rushing to go with Willard's 129. "I wanted to see him play but I didn't want him to do well and I didn't want him to get hurt. He showed me some courage out there when he ran out of the picket to throw a pass. He showed me he really loves the game."

"He really puts a lot of pressure on you," said Fuller. "He probably wasn't as sharp as he can be, but he can really read defenses. On that interception at the end of the game, Rosey Taylor tipped me off that the play would be coming inside and I laid back and it was right in my hands. But it didn't surprise me that he went for the touchdown. That's the way Namath plays it!"

WEST COAST CAGE

Observers Pick UCLA

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Basketball will try to steal a little of the spotlight from football this week as the 1971-72 cage season opens on the West Coast with two familiar names and one new powerhouse tagged as the teams to beat.

UCLA's John Wooden, coach of the NCAA champion Bruins, has said his squad is young and will make mistakes. Bob Boyd of USC, which has been picked in some pre-season polls as the top team in the country, says the Trojans lack depth.

But veteran basketball observers know that when it's time to decide the Pacific-8 conference championship the Bruins and Trojans will be fighting it out the same as last season.

The team to watch on the West Coast, however, is Long Beach State of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association. The 49ers, led by coach Jerry Tarkanian and seven-foot center Nate Stevens, gave the Bruins fits in the NCAA regionals last year, and some publications have predicted they may not lose to anyone this eason.

In the Pac-8 conference, the new season gets underway Wednesday night when Stanford hosts Houston, Montana plays at Oregon, Oregon State travels to Hawaii to play a service team, USC plays at Arizona State, Washington hosts Portland University and Washington State plays at Gonzaga.

California gets Houston on Thursday, and UCLA waits until Friday to open at home against The Citadel. Long Beach State also opens its season at home Friday against Northwest Missouri.

Pac-8 league games begin Jan. 7.

UCLA's Wooden only has one starter back from the team that went 29-1 last year—guard Henry Bibby. But Wooden says the Bruins' chances for a Pac-8 title repeat depend on 6-11 sophomore center Bill Walton.

Boyd's complaint about lack of depth may prove to be the difference between winning and losing for USC. The Trojans have already lost forwards Nash Monroe and Bruce Clare along with guard Joe Kemp for the year because of injuries.

But Boyd still has his two top guards, Paul Westphal and Dan Anderson, center Ron Riley and forward-center Bill Taylor returning from the team that lost only two games—both to UCLA—last year.

If UCLA and USC falter, Oregon State will be waiting. Beaver coach Ralph Miller has a team of size and experience with veterans Freddy Boyd Neal Jurgenson and Sam Whitehead along with sophomore prospect Steve Erickson leading the way.

Washington State, California, Stanford, Oregon and Washington all have young teams to go along with depth problems and will have trouble staying with the top three Pac-8 teams.

Nevada-Las Vegas, which has a tough test in its season opener Saturday against Long Beach State, is picked to win the West Coast Athletic Conference. But Santa Clara, which hosts UC Davis Wednesday in its opener may give the Rebels a run for their money.

out the Raiders, highest scoring team in pro football, for more than 52 minutes and limited them to only one first down in the first half and minus one yard passing.

Oakland finished with 311 net yards but most of it was against Baltimore reserves in the final period. George Blanda, who took over for Daryle Lamonica early in the fourth quarter, hit Fred Biltenikoff with touchdown passes of 18 and 4 yards for the Oakland scoring after Baltimore built a 30-0 lead.

The six pass interceptions produced 18 points for the Colts —a pair of one-yard plunges by Norm Bulaich and Don Nottingham and field goals of 45 and 11 yards by Jim O'Brien.

Bulaich also scored on a three-yard run to cap an 80-yard drive with the opening kickoff, Tom Matte dashed over from the 10 and O'Brien booted a 28-yard field goal for the other Colt scores.

Safety Jerry Logan intercepted two of Lamonica's passes, safety Rich Volk stole another and linebacker Mike Curtis pilfered a fourth. Tom Nowatzke and Newsome intercepted two of Blanda's passes in the final period.

ABA ROUNDUP

Gilmore Giveth But Taketh Away

Artis Gilmore, the Kentucky Colonels' exciting 7-2 rookie, is still young enough to be charitable — but only to a point.

Gilmore handed New York 10 points Sunday night when he was called for goal-tending on five occasions, but he scored 23 points of his own and pulled down 24 rebounds to help the Colonels edge the nets, 108-106, in overtime.

The victory was the 11th in its last 13 games for Kentucky, which increased its first place lead in the Eastern Division of the American Basketball Association to 2½ games over idle Virginia.

Only one other game was played in the ABA Sunday night, and in that one the Dallas Chaparrals beat the Floridians, 106-98.

Dan Issel's basket with two minutes left to play in overtime put Kentucky ahead at 107-106 and Cincy Powell doubled the margin with a foul shot. The nets, who lost their fourth consecutive game, had a chance to tie but Bill Melchionni missed a 10-foot jumper in the closing seconds.

Issel paced Kentucky with 28 points while Billy Paultz led New York with 25 points and 18 rebounds.

Simmie Hill, who played for the Floridians two years ago, scored 24 points for Dallas against this former teammates. Joe Hamilton added 23 points for the Chaps, who led from start to finish, while Warren Jabali paced the Floridians with 22 points.

Irwin Takes Heritage Golf By 1

HILTON HEAD, S.C. (UPI)— Hale Irwin has known pressure on the football field but the former Big Eight safety says it's nothing compared to trying to hang on to a shaky lead in a big-time golf tournament.

Irwin, who starred in football for Colorado back in the mid 60s, won his first professional golf tournament in his four years on the PGA tour Sunday when he beat Bob Lunn by one stroke and Jack Nicklaus and Ralph Beard by two in the Heritage Classic.

"When you are out there on the football field, you know that if you make a mistake that there are 10 other people to take up the slack," said Irwin. "On the golf course, there's just 14 clubs, you and the ball."

The 26-year-old Irwin held a seemingly commanding three stroke lead by the time Sunday's round was only five holes old as he sank birdie putts at Nos. 2, 3 and 5. But that was destined to be his last birdie of the day and bogeys at Nos. 10 and 14 left him in a precarious position for the final four holes.

Nicklaus, who helped design the Harbour Town course, had a last-round 70 and Beard tied him at 281 by shooting a 67— the day's best round. The tie for third was worth $6,515 and closed him to less than $16,000 behind front-running Lee Trevino in the race for this year's money title.

Lee Trevino, who started with a 78 Thursday when he went into the water four times, had a 69 Sunday for a 290 that was good for 12th-place money of $2,310 and raised his record winnings to $229,552.

Arnold Palmer became the third $200,000 winner of the year when he got $4,500 for finishing fifth with a 74-286. Deane Beman, George Knudson and Mac McLendon tied for sixth at 287.

Mays Gets Married; Leaves For Acapulco

MEXICO CITY (UPI) —San Francisco Giants outfielder Willie Mays was married for the third time Sunday in a civil ceremony.

Cavs Turn To Tigers; Tip 76ers

Fitch, who used to mask his team's losses with fast quips, now bears a real victory smile. his Cavaliers won their fourth straight, 124-120, night over the more experienced Philadelphia 76ers behind the 31-point effort of rookie Austin Carr.

CAVS HOT

While The Cavs' winning streak is monumental for the expansion club, Los Angeles took its 14th straight victory in stride as the Lakers downed Seattle 138-121, to equal an all-time Laker winning streak.

Boston regained first place in the Atlantic Division with a 130-108 triumph over Atlanta and Phoenix downed Houston, 116-110, in the only other NBA action.

Carr, playing his third game in as many nights, pumped in 16 of the Cavs' 33 third quarter points to lead Cleveland away from a 65-65 tie with Philadelphia.

"I didn't think I'd make it this morning after we got back from Atlanta, said the former Notre Dame All America who missed a portion of the season because of an injury. "I never played that much in such a short space of time in college. This is a rough league physically and I'm learning to get that ball away fast."

WINNING WONDERFUL

Fitch, wearing the same clothes since last Tuesday when the Cavs beat Baltimore to start the winning skein, said "winning is wonderful. I knew when I drafted Carr that he would be a success. He's a finished player."

GETS 19

Jerry West netted 19 points in the second quarter after a scoreless first period as Los Angeles ran away from the Sonics. He finished the game with 25 points. The victory tied the mark originally set by the club in 1950 when it played out of Minneapolis.

Seattle, led by Spencer Haywood's 29 points, held a 33-29 first quarter lead, but the Lakers scored 44 points in the second quarter for a 73-59 halftime lead.

Jo Jo White scored 25 points, John Havlicek netted 22 and Dave Cowens 21 as Boston displayed a balanced attack against Atlanta. The victory put the Celtics a half-game ahead of New York in the Atlantic sector. Walt Bellamy and Lou Hudson led the Hawks with 15 points apiece.

McDowell Deal 'Likely' —Aspromonte

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—Ken Aspromonte, the new manager of the Cleveland Indians, said today it is "more than likely" star pitcher Sam McDowell will be traded.

"It's more than likely at the moment he will be traded. We need a centerfielder and shortstop, so if the right players come along he'll be traded," said Aspromonte, former manager of the California League Reno Silver Sox.

"I hate to lose a player the caliber of McDowell, but it's part of the game of baseball. If you can better your team you make the trade," he said.

McDowell posted a record of 13 wins and 17 losses last year after winning 20 games in 1970.

Aspromonte said if VcDowell goes, he will probably use mike Paul as his replacement in the starting rotation.

Aspromonte said he doesn't expect any problems with controversial Alex Johnson, received in a trade for Vada Pinson. Johnson won the league batting title as a California Angel in 1970 but was suspended during the 1971 season for "lack of proper participation."

"He's thrilled pink and he's going to show the people of Cleveland that he's going to do the job, and I'm all for him," Aspromonte said. "I'm thrilled to have him. He's the right hitter for us and he can run very well. He's going to be a great asset to the club."

NHL ROUNDUP

Red Wings Surprise Habs, 4-2

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

All of a sudden the Detroit Wings are emerging as giant killers.

After winning only five of their first 21 games, and losing a coach in the process, the Red Wings knocked off two first-place clubs in as many nights during the weekend. On Saturday night, they beat the New York Rangers, 3-1, and followed that up with a 4-2 surprise over the Montreal Canadiens Sunday night.

RANGERS WIN

The Rangers, who were forced back into a three-way tie for first place with Montreal and Boston in the National Hockey League's East Division following their loss to Detroit, bounced back with a 4-2 triumph over the Philadelphia Flyers Sunday night to reclaim undisputed possession of the top spot.

The Chicago Black Hawks climbed back to within one point of idle Minnesota in the West Division race by belting the Toronto Maple Leafs, 4-1, and in the only other game Sunday the California Seals beat the Buffalo Sabres 5-3.

DETROIT CLUSTER

Alex Delvecchio and Bill Collins scored 33 seconds apart in the first period to give Detroit a 2-0 lead over Montreal and the Red Wings picked up another pair in the second period on goals by Al Karlander and Mickey Redmond.

Montreal was ineffective all night, taking only 20 shots on goalie Joe Daley, as its 11-game unbeaten string came to an end. Jacques Lemaire and Pete Mahovlich scored for the Canadiens.

NETS PAIR

Vic Hadfield scored two goals for the Rangers, his 16th and 17th of the season, and Rod Seiling and Bruce MacGregor collected the others. It was New York's first victory at the Spectrum since Jan. 9, 1969.

Chicago rallied for three goals in the final period to break away from Toronto after the teams had skated to a 1-1 tie in the first two periods. Bryan Campbell scored what proved to be the winner with 11:32 remaining in the game

Pep Pill Use Gets Views

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A noted sports physician says the use of pep pills by athletes seeking extra performance may actually work the other way and degrade their output.

Dr. Donald L. Cooper said at the American Medical Association's annual conference on sports medicine Sunday there is very little scientific evidence to indicate that the drugs known as amphetamines give athletes any extra energy or strength.

"There is evidence in some well done studies that when all of the participants in certain events are tested, losers are more prone to dabble in the area of drug gimmicks than the winners," he said.

Cooper, team physician for Oklahoma State University and the U.S. Olympic team in 1968, said there appears to be a correlation between drug use and losing.

CYCLISTS TESTED

He said cyclists were tested for drugs after racing in Winnipeg in 1967 and it wasn't until authorities got to the 7th, 11th, 14th, 18th, 20th and 32nd place finishers that they found evidence of drug use. Similar results were reported in more recent testing in France and Italy.

"I personally do not believe the amphetamines or the amphetamine-barbiturate combinations can make any athlete perform better than he could drug-free," Cooper said. "In fact, in many instances, the drugs may very well be detrimental to an athlete's performance."

Besides being called pep pills, amphetamines are sometimes known by such names as bennies, wake-ups, eye-openers, lid-poppers, cartwheels, greenies, dexies and footballs. They make a person feel better and usually give him an unrealistic picture of hi ability.

PILLS IMPAIR

Cooper said tests have shown that pep pills in many cases impair a person's problem-solving ability. But he said when this is pointed out to the user, he says he actually felt much more capable.

Cooper said amphetamines also mask normal fatigue symptons and this could account for the few deaths that have been reporting among athletes over the years using drugs.

"The brain is so pleasured by the effect of the drug that it doesn't feel the signals being sent of severe physiological stress and circulatory collapse and death occurs," he said.

Whether an athlete's ankles should be wrapped with tape to prevent injuries caused disagreement between two authorities at the convention.

Dr. Albert B. Ferguson Jr., professor of orthopedic surgery at the University of Pittsburgh and consultant to the Pittsburgh Pirates, said he believed taping ankles was a waste of tape and trainers time and possibly a cause of more knee injuries.

But Dr. Allen J. Ryan, team physician for the University of Wisconsin and past chairman of the AMA sports committee, said there is much evidence taping does protect ankles from injury without endangering knees.

SAFETY REMOVED

"If taping really works, and I'm very doubtful that it does, it removes a safety valve for the knee, making it more susceptible to injury," said Ferguson.

Harris Rakes In Honors After Calgary's Victory

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

VANCOUVER — In addition to the two personal awards Wayne Harris brings home with him to Calgary today, the outstanding middle linebacker can take large credit for securing the victory cup he shares with the Calgary Stampeders as champions of the Canadian Football League.

The 10-year football veteran played the game of his life yesterday and was named the outstanding player for his part in Calgary's 14-11 Grey Cup victory over the Toronto Argonauts.

The 33-year-old all-star was awarded the prestigious Schenley Award as lineman of the year during Grey Cup week for the fourth time and is also the recipient of several other awards.

Harris called the defensive signals which enabled Calgary to snuff out a Toronto drive late in the game when the Argonauts had moved to Calgary's 11-yard line.

"I thought they'd be going to (halfback Leo) McQuay. He's their big running threat and we all figured they would want to move the ball to the center of the field," Harris said.

"McQuay's their big threat outside so we watched him and when he did get the ball, we were all there to meet him."

McQuay fumbled the football, which was immediately scooped up by a Calgary defender, and the Stampeders killed off a few more seconds.

Cross Country

SAN DIEGO — For the second year in a row, ex-Yale distance standout Frank Shorter has captured the national Amateur Athletic Union cross country title. He led the Florida track club to the team championship Saturday, finishing 200 yards in front of Steve Stageberg over the 10,000-meter UC San Diego course.

Shorter was clocked in 29 minutes and 19 seconds while Stageberg, of the Georgetown (Va.) Athletic Association, was 21 seconds back.

World mile record holder Jim Ryun dropped out after two miles of the 6.2-mile grind with an upset stomach. It was his first race since July.

Water Polo

LONG BEACH — For the second time in three years, UCLA has the National Collegiate Athletic Association water polo championship, capturing the title Saturday night on a 5-3 victory over previously undefeated San Jose State.

Eric Lindroth led the Bruins to their win over the Spartans with three goals while Kevin Craig provided tight goaltending as he blocked 13 San Jose shots.

UCLA won the national championship two years ago and last year finished second to UC Irvine. The win ended the season for the Bruins with an 18-1 record while San Jose State was 20-1.

Boat Racing

LAKE HAVASU CITY, Ariz. — Florida's Bill Sirois captured the $60,000 eight-hour world outboard championship for the second straight time yesterday.

Sirois bettered the marks for both speed and mileage covered in the two-day endurance-type competition. The Fort Lauderdale, Fla. driver averaged 82.5 miles an hour compared with his mark of 79.62 mph last year and he covered 660 miles as compared with the previous mark of 640.

Reggie Fountain Jr., Tarboro, N.C., finished second while Harold Eis, Topeka, Kan., the winner in 1964 and 1965, was third. I fourth place was Renato Molinari of Como, Italy, whose father designed most of the boats that participated in the race on the Colorado River.

Auto Racing

GAINESVILLE, Ga. — In the three days of the American Road Race of Champions, Sports Car Club of America champions were crowned in 22 classes and records were strewn from the esses to the bridge turn on the treacherous Road Atlanta course.

If any single star emerged from the circus, it was Jerry Hansen, the Minneapolis stockbroker who won two races to become the SCCA's first five-time national champion, and strove manfully to win a sixth and become the first ever to hold three crowns at once.

Jurgensen Lost In Redskins' Win

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Washington Redskins may have gained a triumph and lost the war.

Coach George Allen's "Over the Hill" gang recorded a rugged 20-13 win Sunday over vastly improved Philadelphia to stay in the thick of National Football Conference's East Division pennant chase. However, the 'Skins again lost aging quarterback standout Sonny Jurgensen to an injury.

In other football action, Cleveland defeated Houston, 37-24; Minnesota rapped Atlanta 24-7; Buffalo downed New England, 27-20; St. Louis whipped the New Yyrk Giants 24-7; Cincinnati shut out San Diego, 31-0; Denver clipped Pittsburgh 22-10; and New Orleans won over Green Bay, 29-21.

Cleveland regained the Central Division lead in the American Football League Conference as Leroy Kelly rushed for 107 yards and one touchdown and quarterback Bill Nelsen passed for 162 yards against Houston. Bo Scott scored twice for the Browns. Kelly's rushing total moved him into sixth place on the all-time list with 5,784 career yards.

Clint Jones raced 73 yards for one TD and Bill Brown scored on runs of 23 and one yard in Minnesota's victory over Atlanta. Jones' 155 yards rushing tied Dave Osborn's single game record for the Vikings.

The Buffalo Bills snapped a 15-game losing streak as J. D. Hill caught scoring passes of 11 and 47 yards in his first pro start and O. J. Simpson ran seven yards for another score against the Patriots. It was Buffalo's first win since beating the Pats on Nov. 1, 1970.

St. Louis grabbed a 17-0 lead in the first seven minutes against the Giants as the Cards intercepted three of New York's first five passes. John Gilliam caught TD passes of 18 and 13 from Jim Hart in the rout.

Cincinnati recorded its first shut-out since entering the league and chalked up a club record of six pass interceptions. Linebacker Al Beauchamp and cornerback Ken Riley each stole the ball twice and Beauchamp converted one of his thefts into an 18-yard TD run.

Floyd Little's TD runs of 3 and 16 yards helped Denver beat Pittsburgh and spoil the Steeler's chance of holding the AFC Central lead. Jim Turner booted field goals of 32 and 12 yards to help the Broncs.

Charlie Durkee booted five field goals, three of them coming after Green Bay fumbles to provide the margin of New Orleans' win over the Packers. The three-pointers travelled 35, 26, 11 and 12 and 12 yards.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Nebraska, Alabama Finish Year Unbeaten; Vie In Orange Bowl

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

College football fans who had to wait until the end of 1971 to see the "Game of the Year" won't have to be nearly as patient come 1972.

In fact, just a few hours after the new year is rung in, college football will present another classic confrontation when Nebraska meets Alabama in the Orange Bowl. The chances are very good that the two unbeaten powers will rank as the No. 1 and 2 teams in the nation when they take the field on New Year's night.

Nebraska, which currently heads the ratings, already has taken care of one pretender by beating second-ranked Oklahoma, 35-31, Thanksgiving day in the 1971 "Game of the Year." Now, Alabama figures to replace Oklahoma in the No. 2 spot in the new ratings after walloping fourth-ranked Auburn, 31-7, on Saturday.

"Our defense has gotten better and better through the year," said Bear Bryant, the Alabama coach. And now I think it's a great defense. We didn't think too much about Nebraska before the game. We thought only about Auburn. But now we'll concentrate on Nebraska."

Johnny Musso, although bothered by a sore toe, scored two touchdowns for Alabama while rushing for 167 yards on 33 carries. The Crimson Tide thoroughly dominated the game against Auburn, controlling the ball for 83 plays and all but 15 minutes, 51 seconds of the contest.

While a disappointed Auburn coach, Shug Jordan, could only express his admiration for the Tide, saying, "Alabama had a much better team," the feelings weren't nearly as warm in Miami after Florida quarterback John Reaves overtook Jim Plunkett of Sanford as college football's all-time top passer in guiding the Gators to a 45-16 pasting of Miami Saturday night.

Reaves enjoyed a truly sensational night in his final collegiate game, hitting on 33 of 50 passes for 348 yards and four touchdowns, while catching one touchdown pass himself. Reaves wound up with a career passing total of 7,549 yards, surpassing by five yards the record set by Plunkett from 1968-70.

However, Miami coach Fran Curci chastised Florida coach Doug Dickey for allowing his team to literally fall down on defense with 1:10 left to play so that the Hurricanes could score a touchdown and give Reaves his chance to break the record.

"It was the worst thing I have ever seen in football," Curci said. "I used to admire Doug Dickey as a coach—his record speaks for itself—but tonight I lost reupect for him as a coach and as a man. What he did shows absolutely no class."

After Florida allowed John Hornibrook to score from eight yards out, the Gators took possession on the ensuing kickoff and Reaves achieved his record with a 15-yard pass to Carlos Alvarez.

"I would rather not have had to do it that way," Dickey explained, "but certain records are worth going after, I guess. I did not mean to embarrass the Miami football team in any way. I certainly did not give our kids instructions to fall down like that. I was a little disappointed they did."

In other major games Saturday, Army squeezed past Navy, 24-23, in one of the more exciting renewals of their long and bitter rivalry, Louisiana State walloped Tulane, 36-7, Tennessee tripped Vanderbilt, 19-7, Arizona State whitewashed Arizona, 31-0, Houston beat Utah, 42-16, Florida State defeated Pittsburgh, 31-13, and Iowa State turned back San Diego State, 48-31.

San Jose State, which overcame a poor start by winning four of its last five games, including a 13-12 decision over Rose Bowl-bound Stanford, was selected Sunday to represent the Pacific Coast Athletic Association in the Pasadena Bowl

Marin Hockey Teams Win 2 Over Weekend

The Squirts blanked Eastridge of San Jose, 3-0 in Corte Madera, the second shutout for goalie Charles Dotson, and Pee Wees defeated Eastridge, 5-3 at San Jose, with Chris Bonbright scoring a three-point hat trick for Marin.

On the losing side, the Bantams lost to San Francisco, 8-4, in Corte Madera, Mike O'Hara scoring a hat trick, and the Mites were bombed by Santa Rosa, 13-0, in Santa Rosa.

Nixon To Assure Allied Leaders

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon will assure free world leaders at five summit sessions that "we are not going to sacrifice allied unity to a relaxation of tensions" during his historic visits to Peking and Moscow, a White House official said today.

The purpose of the blitz of talks with heads of state was disclosed as the White House confirmed that Canada's Prime Minister Pieere Trudeau will travel to Washington at the end of December to meet with Nixon. The date has not been set.

Before flying back to Washington Sunday from a four-day Thanksgiving holiday at his San Clemente, Calif. villa, the President also announced his revolving door sessions with allied leaders will include West German Chancellor Willy Brandt in Key Biscayne, Fla. Dec. 28-29.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said "no other meetings are being planned or discussed" with other leaders in advance of Nixon's travels to China and the Soviet Union.

Nixon was expected to announce the date of his trip to Peking, possibly Tuesday. Speculation centered on late February, following the Chinese new year's.

The high White House official said the sessions with allied leaders, including British Prime Minister Edward Heath, French President Georges Pompidou and Japan's Prime Minister Eisaku Santo, is to promote understanding of Nixon's objectives and to clear up uncertainty as to his motivies.

"I think there is understanding of our general purposes, but I think there is also a degree of uncertainty as to what our moves mean," the official said. "The purpose of these meetings is to remove as much of that uncertainty as possible."

Dockers At Work, Except In New York

NEW YORK (UPI)—Longshoremen, complying with federal court orders, returned to work in force today at major Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports except New York—where the dockworkers strike began 59 days ago.

Most of the 45,000 members of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) responded to restraining orders issued Friday and Saturday after President Nixon moved to invoke the provision for an 80-day cooling off period in the Taft-Hartley Act. Negotiations would continue during the period.

But the Waterfront Commission in New York, the nation's largest port, reported that employers requested only 39 workgangs today, compared to a normal 250, and only 29 gangs agreed to work. Each gang usually has 18 members.

A spokesman for the New York Shipping Association said shippers could not order more men on the job because of difficulty in preparing work orders and organizing the piers on short notice.

Eleven of the 39 gangs refused to work on Brooklyn piers when told there was no room to park their cars on Pier 8 because of the accumulation of cargo, according to Jesse Langston, director of employment centers for the commission.

Langston said officials of the shipping association had assured him "they expect a full work scheduled for tomorrow" in the port where 69 vessels waited for unloading.

Longshoremen were on hand to unload baggage from three passengers liners, the Homeric, Olympia and Victoria and also were at work on docks on Staten Island and at Hoboken, Jersey City and Bayonne, N.J.

One worker complained of "being kind of stiff" from the long idleness. Another said, "Nixon should have called us back to work five days after the strike began. I never wanted to go on strike in the first place, especially before the holidays."

Longshoremen began work Saturday in Mobile, Ala., unloading soybeans and Sunday in Philadelphia. In North Carolina and at Charleston, S.C., they had been back on the job for at least a week under court orders antedating Nixon's action.

Fire Destroys Customs Post At Irish Border

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A sniper shot and wounded a British soldier in Belfast today and fire destroyed a customs post on the Irish Republic border which extremists attacked several times previously, the British army said.

An army spokesman said the sniper shot the soldier when he was standing with a group of troops beside a disabled military vehicle in the Northern Ireland capital.

The sniper escaped and the soldier's wound was not serious, the spokesman said.

Fire touched off by an incendiary device damaged the British customs post at Killea, a border town three miles from Londonderry, an army spokesman said.

The spokesman did not say who set the Killea fire, but extremists have attacked the post a number of times in the past.

In London, political sources said Irish Republic Premier Jack Lynch planned to visit London privaoely next Monday and they thought it probable he would use the occasion, a lunch address to British parliamentary newsmen, to talk on Ulster with Prime Minister Edward Heath.

In a weekend series of shootings, bombings and burning touched off by what the army called an offensive by the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA), gunfire caught Brendan Rafferty 100 yards from the old brick building housing his home and the candy store he runs.

Paralyzed most of his 26 years by polio, he was unable to get out from behind the wheel of his specially-outfitted manual control automobile Sunday to take cover.

"For God's sake man, get out of the way!" a British army officer yelled at him as gunmen hidden off the Antrim Road in the heavily Roman Catholic Duncairn area of North Belfast opened fire.

"It was clear he couldn't move," an army spokesman said today. "When our men finally got to him they found he'd taken a couple of rounds in the back. We got an ambulance as soon as we could."

Rafferty was taken to Royal Victoria Hospital, where his condition today was described as "improving."

Seven Die In Capital Crash

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A near head-on collision on the South Sacramento Freeway Saturday night took seven lives including those of a Seattle, Wash., man, his wife, and their three small children.

The dead included Merritt Dickson, 28, the apparent driver of one of the cars, his wife, Lulu, 26, and their three children, Mondo, 1; Mone, 2; and Daphne, 5.

Also killed in the two-car crash on highway 99 were Mrs. Bernice Dickson, 48, also of Seattle, and Samuel Fong, 29, Sacramento, driver of the second car.

The California Highway Patrol said Fong's southbound car either hit or swerved to avoid a tire that had spun off a truck, crossed the divider and crashed into the oncoming Dickson car.

Capitol Bombing Cost $118,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The March 1 bombing of the U.S. Capitol cost the taxpayers $118,139 repair—a price $81,861 lower than expected, it was revealed today.

In testimony made public by the House Appropriations Committee, acting Capitol Architect Mario E. Camploli said the building was put back in shape more cheaply than was expected.

Congress had appropriated $200,000 for the repair of several small Senate-side rooms badly damaged by the bombing which occurred on a Sunday night. There were no injuries and the case has not been solved, although a grand jury reportedly is still investigating.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Eye's Conjunctival Membrane Easily Injured By Overexposure

A thin membrane (conjunctiva) lines the eyelids and covers the exposed part of the eyeball. It is so sensitive, the smallest particle or slightest irritation is felt immediately and brings tears to the eyes.

This membrane is easily injured by overexposure to light, wind, or smoke. It is affected also by overuse or abuse of the eyes, refractive errors, faulty glasses, a speck of dust or steel, or a turned-in lash. Overindulgence in alcohol makes the eyes bloodshot and watery. All of these conditions are temporary and disappear, as a rule, when the cause is removed.

A MORE disabling form of conjunctivitis develops when the delicate membrane is invaded by microorganisms. In such instances, the lids swell and become brilliant red. A discharge oozes from between the lids. Its consistency depends upon the causative organism and the excretion varies from a clear watery substance to pus. During sleep, the secretions accumulate and dry on the edges of the lids, which itch, burn, and feel sandy.

There are many variations of conjunctivitis. The reflection from sunlight on snow may induce severe irritation (snow blindness) similar to that produced by exposure to an ultraviolet lamp. The welder who does not wear a protective shield may encounter a similar reaction.

VARIOUS infections may spread to the eye through contaminated droplets, fingers, towels, and handkerchiefs. Pink-eye, an extremely contagious form of acute conjunctivitis, occurs most often in the spring and summer. This type of inflammation may accompany coryza of the nose, hay fever, flu, and measles.

Never neglect conjunctivitis. The ophthalmologist may test the secretions to determine the cause and prescribe a specific remedy. Ice compresses are soothing and the eyes may be irrigated several times a day with a dilute saline solution. Ointments containing a sulfonamide may prove helpful. Antibiotics may be needed but are best administered orally or hypodermically.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

'DREAM' DIETER

A reader writes: I dream about how nice I would look if I were slim, but I have no willpower. Have I some kind of mental block?

REPLY

I don't know, but whatever the problem is you are not alone. Perhaps you need sympathy and guidance to help you follow a diet restricted in total calories.

SERIOUS IN BABIES

L.K.R. writes: Is measles in an infant serious?

REPLY

Measles is most dangerous in the very young, especially infants and children under the age of 3. Complications, such as pneumonia, are likely to develop in this group.

HYPNOSIS IN CANCER

Y. V. writes: Has hypnosis ever been used in the treatment of cancer?

REPLY

No, but it has been used in an attempt to relieve the pain of cancer. And perhaps as an anesthetic for surgery.

EARLY PREGNANCY

G.I. writes: Can a doctor tell if a woman is in her first month of pregnancy?

REPLY

Yes — via the pregnancy tests.

Alien Report Denied By Mrs. Banuelos

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Romana Acosta Banuelos insisted today she did not knowingly permit illegal Mexican aliens to work in her Southern California food plant --which was raided shortly after she was nominated by President Nixon for U. S. Treasurer.

Mrs. Banuelos, testifying before the Senate Finance Committee, also denied a report by the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service that there had been five raids prior to the one on Oct. 5 for illegal aliens at her taco and tortilla factory in Gardena. She said the immigration service found eight to 11 aliens during one raid in the spring of 1968.

The Senate committee is considering Mrs. Banuelos' appointment to the largely cereyears has traditionally gone to monial position, which in recent a woman.

Thirty-six Mexicans were arrested when Mrs. Banuelos' firm, Ramona's Food Products Co., was raided Oct. 5 —15 days after her appointment was announced —by federal agents. The workers lacked the "green card" which permits holders to take employment in the United States.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., introduced Mrs. Banuelos to the committee with praise for her business acumen and civic interests. He stressed that at the time of the raid it was not illegal in California to hire illegal aliens.

Cranston said he had been "very impressed by her and by her responses to questions I asked her about the incident."

Mrs. Banuelos, 46, a native of Miami, Ariz., is a self-made businesswoman. She started with a food stand selling spicy snacks 24 years ago.

Everything Rosy At U.N. As Thant Voted Raise

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The United Nations today put aside the cold war—now a triangular Sino-Soviet-American affair —and in a rare spirit of unanimity voted Secretary General Thant a $12,500 raise.

The Soviet proposal for a world disarmament conference which brought two sharp clashes last week between Soviet and Chinese deputy foreign ministers, with sideswipes at the United States was shelved until at least Wednesday.

The world parliament devoted itself today to budgetary questions, South Africa's racial separation policy of apartheid, international cooperation in space and preparation of a moon treaty.

By a 95-0 vote, with 8 abstentions, the assembly increased the salary of secretaries general, beginning with Thant, from $50,000 to $62,500 gross. His net salary after various deductions, went up from $31,600 to $37,850 annually. The same resolution set the Secretary General's pension at half his gross salary, instead of half the net, as at present.

The disarmament conference proposal brought changes scarcely paralleled since the chilliest days of the Moscow-Washington freeze of the 1950s and 1960s.

Capp Morals Trial Ruling

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. (UPI)—The trial of cartoonist Al Capp on three morals charges was expected to occur next March after Eau Claire County Judge Thomas Barland ordered the case bound over to circuit court Friday.

The judge's decision was prompted by the unexpected appearance of Capp last Monday in which he waived preliminary hearing and asked for the transfer of the case from county court.

First Woman Governor Is 95

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The first woman governor in the United States, Nellie Ross, celebrates her 95th birthday today, although her exact birth date is not known.

Mrs. Ross, governor of Wyoming for two years beginning Jan. 5, 1925, was also the first woman director of the U.S. Mint.

She was born near St. Joseph, Mo., and went to Wyoming in 1902. Mrs. Ross was elected governor in November of 1924. Her husband, William Bradford Ross, had been elected governor two years earlier but died in office just before the 1924 election.

Supervisors May Rule On Squabble

The Marin County Board of Supervisors will be asked tomorrow to settle a squabble over fire protection at Muir Beach.

County Administrator John F. Barrows has recommended that the board tell the recently-formed Bello Beach Volunteer Fire Department it must turn over its fire truck to the Muir Beach Community Service District. The vehicle was loaned to the volunteers by the Marin County Fire Department, which previously had to send its truck on a 20-minute run over twisting mountain roads to reach Muir Beach.

On Nov. 2, Muir Beach voters approved enlarging the power of the community services district to include firefighting, thus providing at least one full-time paid man, alarm equipment and training facilities the volunteers lacked.

Barrows said Muir Beach has had two structural fires in the past two months, but the Bello Beach company was unable to respond due to lack of manpower and other problems.

"The continuing hostility between various segments of the community apparently necessitates the intervention by your board," Barrows advised.

The supervisors' meeting tomorrow will be the third of their experimental "swing-shift" sessions, beginning at 1:30 p.m. and running into the evening after a dinner break. Also on the agenda will be:

COURTHOUSE — The board will appoint representatives to negotiate sale of the old courthouse property in downtown San Rafael to the city.

RICHARDSON BAY — Bay Conservation and Development Commission officials and county marina inspector Richard L. Larson will report at 8 p.m. on the status of marina enlargement applications and houseboat owners' complaince with antipollution orders.

MENTAL HEALTH — The Mental Health Advisory board will submit a list of priorities and proposed new programs, for approval subject to later budget reviews.

GRADING ORDINANCE — Discussion of a proposed grading ordinance, as drafted by public works department staff.

Novatan Injured In Cable Crash

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A San Francisco fireman who lives in Novato was one of nine persons hurt Saturday night when a cable car collided with a fire truck on Taylor and Washington Streets.

Lt. Conrad A. Bremner of 39 Leland Drive, received a sprained back and bruises when he was thrown from the fire truck, he reported.

Fireman Bob Jones, along with Bremner, was treated at Harbor Emergency Hospital for cuts and bruises.

Seven cable car passengers also were taken to the hospital.

The cable car was going down Washington Street when it collided with the fire truck, which was backing into position at Taylor and Washington Streets. Firemen found that there was no fire in an electric oven explosion at 1250 Clay Street.

Panama Dope Shipping Cited

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A confidential Justice Department report calls Panama one of the "most significant countries for the trans-shipment of narcotics ... to the United States."

The six-page report, obtained by UPI Friday, said Panamanian officials were not paying sufficient attention to narcotics enforcement activities. It added that, "this may be due to high level apathy, ignorance and-or collusion."

During the past 12 months, American authorities have intercepted 614 pounds of heroin which came from Europe via Panama, the report said.

Two Blazes At School Held Arson

A fire, apparently intentionally set, destroyed two debris boxes Friday night, at Vallecito School on 50 Albion Way, San Rafael, police and fire officials have reported.

According to police the 9:15 p.m. blaze was set as a mischievous prank.

Parolee Picked Up In Marinwood

California Highway Patrol officers have impounded a stolen car filled with a San Quentin parolee's paintings, and booked the artist into Marin County Jail on car theft and parole violation charges, the Patrol has reported today.

Officers Donald George and Kenneth Parker stopped Kenneth Harvey Hicks, 39, of San Francisco on Highway 101 in Marinwood, after observing his car weaving Wednesday. The car was traced as having been stolen from a San Francisco owner.

Hicks, officers said, has been living at a half way house for ex-inmates in San Francisco since he was paroled in September.

He reported having a family quarrel, said he loaded the paintings he had done in seven years of prison life into the car — but could not explain its possession — and drove north through Marin until he was stopped.

He was being held without bail, for action by his parole officer.

Watch Out For Watch Chiseler

You can buy an Omega brand watch for prices starting something over $100, or you can buy an Ornega brand watch for something like $7.95.

But, whatever you do, be careful if you're offered either for $15 or $20.

San Anselmo Police Lt. G. Albert Howenstein warned that a man has been hitting the San Anselmo area selling "Omega" watches for $15 or $20, saying he is offering the terrific bargain because he "needs the money."

Examination of the watches reveals they are actually Ornega brand, Howenstein said.

He said the man, described only as white and in his 40s, has been approaching service station operators with his offer.

Buses Will Be Discussed

Local and commuter bus services to be operated by the Golden Gate Bridge District will be discussed by its transportation committee at 8 p.m. Thursday in the supervisors chambers of the Marin County Civic Center.

Routes, schedules and fares will be presented for public comment.

Present plans by the district call for local Marin service to start Dec. 13 and commuter service to San Francisco on Jan. 3.

Petaluma Burglary Suspect Arrested

George G. Boyden, 18, no known address, was arrested Thursday in Petaluma on suspicion of burglary.

Police said he was arrested shortly after $40 was taken from a cash register at the Petaluma Plaza Arco station, 101 North McDowell Boulevard. He was booked into Sonoma County Jail for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Two Held After A Free-For-All

RICHMOND (UPI) —Two teen-agers were in police custody today in connection with a house party that turned into a free-for-all with five persons shot, stabbed or beaten.

Claude Baughan, and Stanley A. Smith, both of San Pablo, were charged with assault with intent to commit murder. Two juveniles, whose names were withheld, were charged with leaving the scene with illegal weapons and released in the custody of their parents.

The fight started Saturday night, police said, after members of a social club arrived at a party hosted by the Velintes club. A helicopter and detectives were sent to the scene.

The brawl was probably an outbreak of past differences between the Valintes and its guests, the Ravens of Oakland and the Brethren of Santa Clara, police said.

He'll Get To Sleep At Night

PARIS (UPI) —Roger Rossignol hasn't slept at night in 30 years. But today Rossignol, the night custodian at one of Paris' plushest hotels, arose from a bed slept in by such millionaires as Stavros Niarchos and Henry Ford.

After announcing his retirment from the night watch of the Plaza Athenee, Rossignol, 65, was given the royal treatment for one weekend at the Paris Hotel near the Champs Elysees.

"I stayed in the royal suite, and was served champagne and flowers by the very men I've worked with for all these years," said Rossignol.

Asked what he plans to do now with his free time, Rossignol said he wanted "lots of sunshine and sleeping night."

Jewelry Worth $15,000 Missing

A Tiburon woman has reported the disappearance of more than $15,000 worth of jewelry from her home, sheriff's deputies have reported.

Deputies said that Frances F. Lichtenberg of 2311 Spanish Trail Road told them three pieces of antique jewelry disappeared from a jewelry chest sometime between Nov. 14 and Nov. 16.

The most valuable piece she described as a gold rectangular brooch with five sapphires, valued at $15,000. Also missing are another brooch, valued at $175, and a pair of earrings, valued at $130, deputies said.

Nurse Falls To A Promotion

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (UPI) —Army Nurse Barbara G. Tlush fell 5,000 feet into a promotion Friday on the golf course of the Valley Forge General Hospital.

Mrs. Tlush, 24, a native of Bradenton, Fla., bypassed the normal pinning ceremonies when promoted to captain and arranged to be pinned while free-falling over the course's first tee.

She was pinned by her husband, Jan, 25, Meadowbrook, Pa., also in the Navy and also a parachutist.

WARY DRIVERS SLOW TRAFFIC

From the top of Puerto Suello Hill in San Rafael heavy commute traffic could be seen backed up this morning as far north as Lucas Valley. California Highway Patrol officers blamed the slowdown on cautious motorists who cut their speed on Highway 101 apparently because of the dampness from yesterday's drizzles. No accident was reported, officers said, but the commute jam, which usually lasts until about 9 a.m. wasn't clear until about 45 minutes later. Northbound travelers, as usual, enjoyed light traffic.

Teacher Blodgett Can Go To Work

Fight In Court At End

A former Redwood High School physical education teacher —once called a "living hypocrisy" of her profession because of her weight — has won a three-year battle to be reinstated.

The state Supreme Court refused Wednesday to hear an appeal by the Tamalpais High School District, thereby requiring the district to rehire Elizabeth R. Blodgett, 45, of Marshall, according to Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino.

Miss Blodgett, who weighed 228 pounds when she was dismissed in 1968, was fired because school officials thought her size made her unfit to teach physical education.

The district had appealed a September ruling by the state Court of Appeals which said that despite her weight, she was an "exceptionally competent" teacher and the district must rehire her at once.

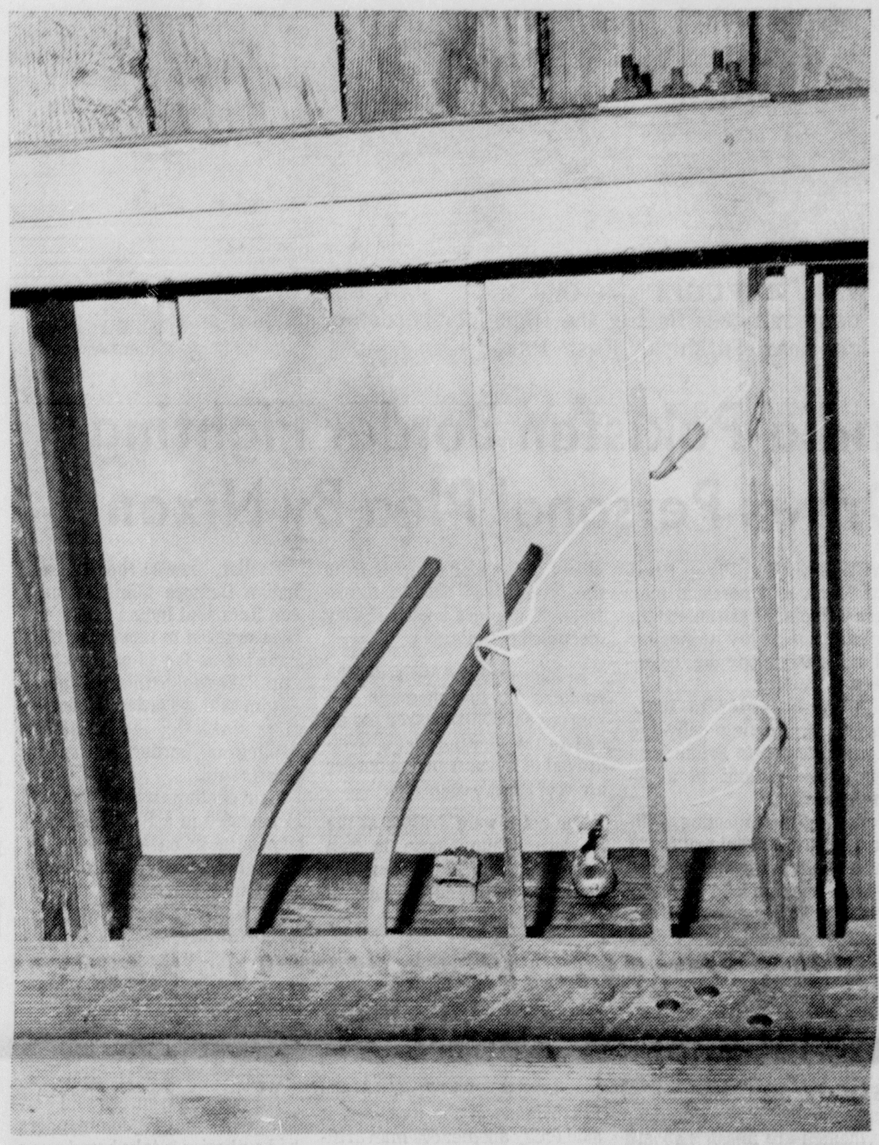
Godino said the supreme court's refusal to hear the district appeal makes the rehiring order final.

Miss Blodgett was not rehired in the spring of 1968 because Redwood High School Principal Donald E. Kreps said her weight presented the wrong image for a physical education teacher.

A hearing officer from the state Department of Education conducted a hearing and upheld the district in releasing her.

The teacher then appealed that decision to Marin Superior Court, where Judge Joseph G. Wilson expressed sympathy for Miss Blodgett but ruled that the district had acted legally.

After the Court of Appeals reversed Judge Wilson's decision, the district sought a rehearing but that was turned down last month.



SAFECRACKERS HIT VARIETY STORE

Bars on a ventilation opening (top photo) of the F. W. Woolworth store at 1009 Fourth Street, San Rafael, were cut either last night or early today by burglars who made off with between $1,500 and $2,000. A safe (bottom photo) was entered through a six-inch hole burned into the top of it, according to San Rafael police. Officers said the safecrackers apparently climbed a fire escape of a neighboring building and scaled two 10-foot walls to get to the roof of Woolworth's. The crime was discovered by employees arriving for work at 7:15 a.m. today.

Snow Falling In The Sierra

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Welcome snow has fallen in the Sierra, enabling three ski resorts to operate today and one to open Tuesday.

Operating today, according to the California State Automobile Association are Dodge Ridge, 11-20 inches new snow, two chairs, one rope tow; Sierra Ski Ranch, 17 inches new snow, one chair and one poma lift; Heavenly Valley 12-16 inches new snow, operating two upper levels on California side.

Slain Arab Premier Buried

AMMAN (UPI) — Jordanian Premier Wasfi Tel, assassinated Sunday in Cairo by four Palestinian guerrillas, was buried today to the sound of a 21 gun salute. King Hussein named a moderate to succeed him but brought in a tough line official as his national security adviser.

Tel, 51, hated by the guerrillas for ordering the Jordanian army to crush their revolt last summer, was killed by four bullets as he stepped from his car at a Cairo hotel on the banks of the Nile following a luncheon with Abdel Khalek Hassuna, secretary general of the Arab League.

Munzi Soleiman Khalifa, 28, leader of the four man death squad, told UPI correspondent Maurice Guindi in Cairo that Tel's death was only the first of a series of murders intended to eliminate everyone who has opposed the cause of the Palestine guerrillas in the Arab world.

Khalifa raised his hand in the V for Victory sign and said, "We have taken our revenge on a traitor." He said he had drunk Tel's blood after the shooting to emphasize his hatred of the man.

Hussein named Deputy Premier Ahmed al-Lawzi, 50, as Prime Minister to succeed Tel and gave him the portfolio of Defense Minister, a job also held by Tel. Political sources said Al-Lawzi was considered unbiased and neutral on Palestinian guerrilla matters.

The sources said Al-Lawzi was not known for his strong character and suggested his new cabinet may be merely a caretaker one. Like Tel, AlLawzi is a Bedouin. He had served as chief of protocol at the King's court and was chief of the court.

Hussein named former Interior Minister Mohammed Rasoul Al-Kilani as his adviser on national security affairs. Al-Kilani has the reputation of being tough toward the guerrillas, a suggestion that Hussein's own tough stand would not change.

Anis Moasher, Minister of Transport, took over Al-Lawzi's post as Minister of Finance.

The leader of the gang that killed Tel said the Prime Minister was murdered to avenge the death of a Palestinian guerrilla captain in Jordan, police sources said.

Tel was hated by the Palestinian guerrillas for ordering the army to crush their revolt this summer. He died trying to get his own gun out to fight back.

Second Rock Concert Audience Small, Promoter Said In Red

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Saturday night's rock concert — feared by some as an invitation for a repeat performance of the damage caused Wednesday during the first such affair held at the new veterans auditorium — drew only a small audience which left the building much as it found it.

While the show was a "success" in that the building sustained no additional damage, it proved a disaster for the promoter who reportedly went $8,000 in the red when only 500 persons braved heavy rain to attend.

According to Leon G. Kalimos, the audience was the smallest to attend a show at the $3.5 million Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

The concert — featuring Delaney, Bonnie and Friends — was in marked contrast to Wednesday's rock show which drew the auditorium's largest crowd — between 2,200 and 2,300 persons.

At that concert, put on as a benefit for the Marin Open House drug abuse center, patrons spilled wine and ground out cigarettes on the powder blue seats and carpets. Damage was estimated at $5,000.

But Saturday's concert was as calm as the other was turbulant; as fastidious as the other was sloppy.

"It's a completely different scene," Kalimos said as he watched youthful patrons enter the auditorium. "I haven't seen too many acidheads here tonight. These are cuter kids."

The difference, he said, stemmed from the groups performing.

"The groups playing tonight appeal to a different audience. This is an older audience... much better behaved," he said.

The concert, however, turned out to be less than expected for several hundred patrons who paid $3.50 and $4.50 each to attend the second performance at 10:30 p.m.

Due to the small audience attending the first performance at 7 p.m., the promoter, William Spencer of San Rafael, changed the schedule shortly after the first group began to play and decided to give one long performance.

Those who purchased tickets for the 7 p.m. performance got a longer show than expected, while those who purchased tickets for 10:30 p.m. saw only an

Nixon Would Veto Own Tax Bill — Senate Version Has 'Flaws'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon will veto his own tax bill if it contains either a provision to finance presidential campaigns with tax money or billions of dollars in tax cuts he did not seek, the White House said today.

Clark MacGregor, Nixon's chief congressional lobbyist, said Nixon favored a bill passed by the House, but said the Senate version contained "fatal flaws" that Nixon would not accept.

MacGregor said the Justice Department has been instructed to review the constitutionality of permitting individuals to earmark $1 of their income tax payment for presidential campaigns. But he indicated Nixon has decided to veto the bill rather than challenge it in court.

Nixon met for more than three hours with MacGregor and members of his staff to discuss the tax bill. MacGregor relayed the President's thinking to newsmen less than an hour and a half before House and Senate conferees arranged to meet to start discussions on a compromise measure.

The House approved tax cuts totaling $15.4 billion for 1971 through 1973 —close to what Nixon asked. The Senate boosted the total to more than $27 billion besides adding the controversial campaign provision to allow taxpayers to authorize

NEW DELHI (UPI) — President Nixon sent personal messages to India, Pakistan and the Soviet Union today urging an end to fighting along the Indian-Pakistan border.

U.S. Ambassador to India Kenneth B. Keating delivered Nixon's message to Prime Minister Indira Gandhi in a 30-minute meeting.

Following the meeting with Keating, Mrs. Gandhi met for 20 minutes with her senior cabinet advisers. She also held a second meeting with her armed forces chiefs and senior officials from the foreign and defense ministries. It was not known if they discussed Nixon's note.

Keating declined to discuss the contents of the message but sources said Nixon asked for an end to the fighting and a withdrawal of troops from the border areas of the two countries.

The notes were drafted at the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif., by Nixon over the holiday weekend, the sources said.

Earlier, news reports said Indian Defense Minister Jagjivan Ram said Indian troops had been ordered to move into East Pakistan as far as necessary to stop Pakistani artillery attacks.

Ram said the order was issued after Pakistan increased its shelling of border areas, the reports said.

Four civilians were killed and 14 wounded in a Pakistani artillery attack on the town of Balurghat, about 180 miles north of Calcutta, Sunday.

Fighting, which started in the area Saturday, still was going on today.

India, claiming Pakistan troops threatened their defensive positions, moved into Pakistan in the Dinajpur area and destroyed three Pakistani tanks.

Government sources said earlier that Indian commanders had authority to take broad steps in protecting their defensive positions.

On the political front, Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi reportedly rejected a proposal to bring the Indian-Pakistan dispute before the U.N. Security Council — the 15-member body in charge of peacekeeping duties for the world body.

The Press Trust of India (PTI) new agency quoted Mrs. Gandhi as saying the organization should use its influence on Pakistan. "We have been attacked three or four times. Did the Security Council ever state clearly who the agressor was?" PTI quoted her as saying.

"It is not as if India has not been patient, but the world must note that the military rulers of Pakistan have taken no concrete steps to solve the ... problem," she said.

Mrs. Gandhi has said India is being involved in what basically is a civil war in East Pakistan. The two Pakistans are divided by 1,000 miles of Indian territory and millions of refugees from the East Pakistani civil war have fled into India, taxing the country's resources.

Big U.S. 'Copter Missing In Vietnam; 33 Aboard

SAIGON (UPI) —The U.S. Command said 33 American servicemen are missing aboard a big U.S. Army CH47 Chinook helicopter along the upper coast of South Vietnam and that a massive air and sea search today had failed to find any trace of the aircraft.

The search for the big twinrotored Chinook, believed to have gone down at sea Sunday on a 40 mile flight from the northern city of Da Nang to the headquarters of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division at Phu Bai, was being led by a Navy destroyer, the USS Epperson, and included dozens of helicopters and planes.

U.S. spokesmen also reported an American A37 Dragonfly jet shot down in Cambodia today with its American pilot lightly wounded, and said four other helicopters had been lost in Indochina in the last four days. The toll stood at 36 missing, three dead and seven injured aboard the six aircraft, they said.

The GIs aboard the Chinook came from a division that is in the process of pulling out of Vietnam. The command has announced the withdrawal of one full brigade of the unit, and it said today another 600-man artillery battalion had been ordered to pack for home under President Nixon's withdrawal program.

Spokesmen declined to say whether the men aboard the Chinook were among those scheduled to go home, but it seemed likelier they were replacement troops headed to the Phui Bai headquarters to man the two brigades that are remaining here for the time being.

The last time as many as 33 Americans were killed or missing in Indochina was when that many members of the 23rd (Americal) Division were killed during an attack at Fire Base Mary Ann on March 28.

The worst non-combat crash involving U.S. servicemen in Indochina occurred Jan. 25, 1966, when a C123 Provider crashed near An Khe, 240 miles north of Saigon, killing 46 Americans.

In addition to the missing Chinook, the U.S. command said three Americans were killed, two injured and one is missing in the crash of a U.S. Air Force CH53 helicopter during bad weather Thursday into the Nha Be River 12 miles southeast of Saigon.

Underground Blast Recorded

UPPSALA, Sweden (UPI)— The seismological institute in Uppsala today registered an underground explosion in the Siberian Platinsk nuclear test area, Prof. Markus Baath said.

The detonation, which took place at 7:03 a.m. (1:03 a.m. EST), measured 5.9 on the international Richter scale.

Baath said the last time the Soviets performed an underground explosion in the area was Oct. 9 when the registered magnitude was 5.7.

Hijacker Hunt In Its Fifth Day

WOODLAND, Wash. (UPI)— If "D. B. Cooper," the skydiving hijacker is alive and well in the woods near here, it's a safe bet to say he's holding 10,000 soggy $20 bills.

Rain came to this area Sunday in buckets. During the day the storm clouds broke for a moment and Woodland's police chief-pilot, Joe May, was able to make one flight up the Lewis River gorge to check out another in a series of falsa leads, a "parachute" in a tree turned out to be a tin roof on a hillside.

The FBI agent in charge of field work here, Tom Manning, took his radio off the hook and spent Sunday dodging reporters and doing old fashioned leg work—checking leads, stopping at airports and interviewing resident after resident in the area of the search, which enters its fifth day today.

A Northwest Airlines 727 jetliner was hijacked between Portland, Ore., and Seattle Wednesday night. Saying he had a bomb, a soft-spoken, middle-aged hijacker forced the plane to land in Seattle where he let the passengers off, collected $200,000 ransom and four parachutes and said he wanted to go to Mexico.

Somewhere between Seattle and Reno, Nev., whera the plane was to refuel, "D. B. Cooper" bailed out with the money.

Skyjackers Admitted Slaying, Says Crew

MIAMI (UPI) — Crewmembers of a Trans World Airlines jetliner hijacked to Cuba returned to the United States Sunday and said the three young blacks who seized the plane freely admitted that one of them had killed a New Mexico state trooper.

The hijackers, who identified themselves as members of a black militant group known as the Republic of New Africa, also threatened to kill one of the 43 passengers aboard the Boeing 727 to prove they meant business.

"We've already committed murder and another one won't make that much difference," the hijackers told stewardesses Elizabeth Caubre and Shirley Ann Harrell, both of Kansas City.

"They said they'd been hiding for two days in the sand dunes around the (Albuquerque, N.M.) airport waiting for a chance to hijack a plane," Miss Caubre said.

They are wanted in the shooting death of a New Mexico state policeman, Robert Rosenbloom, on Nov. 8. Rosenbloom was gunned down after he stopped a car with three men along Interstate 40, eight miles west of Albuquerque, for a traffic violation.

The hijackers told Miss Caubre they felt the shooting was in self-defense since Rosenbloom was "the enemy" and they were wanted for draft evasion and interstate transportation of explosives and firearms.

"They told us the youngest one, Michael, had killed the trooper," Miss Caubre said, "But they called him Mancha. They said that was his African name and they had all dropped their 'slave names.'

"The leader said his name was Antoine Raul. They said they hoped to get to Africa and find new freedom."

Deodorant Ingredient Is Attacked By Nader

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Hexachlorophene, an active ingredient in deodorants and other hygiene products, should be banned for nonprescription use because of possible harmful effects, according to Ralph Nader.

The consumer advocate proposed the ban Sunday in a letter to Dr. Charles C. Edwards, commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

There have been rumors that the FDA would prohibit nonprescription use of hexachlorophene following tests in which rats suffered brain damage when exposed to certain levels.

The chemical is readily absorbed through the skin, Nader said, and its effects on human beings are uncertain. Nader cited tests in which infants bathed in hexachlorophene products showed concentrations of the toxic chemical in their blood streams.

Brain damage to rats resulted when the amount of hexachlorophene in the blood reached a range of 1 part per million.

The infants showed levels of .65 ppm, while some adults who used hexachlorophene products in bathing had levels of .38 ppm, Nader said.

Butane Gas Kills Youth

ABILENE, Tex. (UPI)—A young man filling a camper truck with butane gas fell unconscious onto the tank during the weekend and was frozen by the escaping gas.

The official cause of death of Johnnie Aaro Allen, 19, was ruled freezing, not asphyxiation. Allen had gone into the country to feed cattle and fill the butane tank in the camper Saturday. He was found hours later, his head and one arm completely frozen.

Justice of the Peace Silas Clark said the fumes overcame him and he passed out, falling with his face next to the valve which was spewing the subfreezing gas. Clark said he would not have been overcome if he had filled the tank in the open, instead of inside the camper.

Red Craft In Mars Approach

MOSCOW (UPI) —One Soviet spacecraft approached Mars today on a mission seeking possible life, but there was no word on the fate of its sister ship already due at the Red Planet.

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said Sunday the unmanned Mars 3 was "approaching Mars" at the end of its six-month journey from Earth. But it said nothing about Mars 2, which blasted off nine days ahead of Mars 3.

(In Manchester, England, scientists at the Jodrell Bank Observatory said Sunday one of the two ships had arrived and was orbiting Mars, but they did not know which one.

("We are assuming it is Mars 2," a Jodrell spokesman said. "But it could be the other one. There's no firm indication.")

Sunday's Pravda report caught the interest of Western space experts because, previously, the few Soviet progress reports always treated them as a joint mission and mentioned both ships.

At that point, the Western analysts said they were hesitant to speculate whether the Mars 2 mission had gone wrong because it was possible the ship had landed or was in orbit.

The Soviets often delay reports on space missions until they are confident all is well. In addition, the U.S. Mariner 9 Mars probe has been watching a global dust storm that could have caused postponement of Soviet arrival plans.

Mars 2 and Mars 3 are the biggest unmanned spaceships in history, five tons each. They blasted off May 19 and May 28 respectively on the 290 million mile flights.

In Pasadena, Mariner 9 scientists, who got the best pictures ever taken of another planet's moon with shots of the Martian satellite Deimos, set out today to photograph its big brother Phobos.

The scientists were heartened by the success of the difficult maneuver required to get the Deimos picture Friday, and not discouraged by the failure of an attempt to photograph Phobos Saturday. A spokesman called it "a tricky business."

Radio commands must be sent to the Mariner 9 as it orbits Mars more than 84 million miles away, and the Mariner must then seek out the moonlets, which are hard to find because they are so tiny and their orbits are not precisely known.

Hepburn III

BOSTON (UPI) —Actress Katherine Hepburn was under treatment today at Massachusetts General Hospital for an undisclosed illness, but a spokesman said "there's nothing serious."

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Wallace's Choices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Alabama Gov. George Wallace has selected several persons he would like on his cabinet if he is elected president, but has yet to pick a running mate, Newsweek Magazine reported Sunday.

Wallace said he would want William J. Porter, chief U.S. negotiator to the Paris peace talks or G. McMurtrie Godley, ambassador to Laos for his secretary of state.

Wallace said his other cabinet choices included Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., or economist Milton Friedman for treasury secretary and Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., as secretary of defense.

His choice for agriculture secretary was Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., and for labor secretary either AFL-CIO President George Meany or United Auto Workers chief Leonard Woodcock.

'Likes Power'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary John B. Connally would serve either major political party because he "likes to exercise power," according to two Texas congressmen and a newspaper editor.

Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., compared Connally to Coriolanus, a Roman military leader who lived 2,500 years ago. "You know Coriolanus fought for Rome and when they didn't give enough recognition, why he fought for the enemies of Rome."

Rep. J. J. Pickle, D-Tex., called Connally "a fierce competitor," who must succeed in anything he undertakes. Ronnie Dugger, editor-at-large of the weekly Texas Observer, was more critical, charging that "Connally is serving big banks, big oil, big corporations."

Eckhardt, Pickle and Dugger were interviewed on CBS-TV's "60 Minutes" yesterday.

Meany Resting

A union aide said Meany was "elated" over the Redskins' 20-13 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles. The aide also reported that the 77-year-old labor chief was doing "just fine."

Yorty's Poll

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) — A poll commissioned by Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, showed him leading in the Manchester area of New Hampshire, site of the first presidential primary.

Published in the New Hampshire Sunday News, the telephone survey of 609 persons showed 46 per cent favoring Yorty, 44 per cent for Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and 10 per cent for Sen George S. McGovern, D-S.D.

Progress In Talks

BERLIN (UPI) — East German Premier Willi Stoph said today the east-west German talks to implement the Big Four accord on Berlin have made good progress and an agreement is possible soon.

"It is necessary and possible to conclude the negotiations soon" he told the East German parliament in a statement on his new government's policy. Stoph was reelected to a four-year term by the parliament last week.

Stoph spoke to the People's Chamber Volkskammer as East German and West Berlin officials met in the House of Ministries in East Berlin to discuss opening the wall to allow West Berliners to visit East Berlin.

It was their 14th meeting since the Big Four ambassadors signed their Berlin agreement on Sept. 3.

Supporting The Line

VIENNA (UPI) — The Czechoslovak Communist party said today the 99.8 per cent majority it rolled up in one-party elections proved the "overwhelming majority of the people" support the party's pro-Soviet line.

Czech emigrant sources said the voters knew they would be punished for a "no" vote or an absentation. But Rude Pravo, the Communist party's leading newspaper, hailed the 99.8 per cent result — identical to the vote in Czechoslovakia's last parliamentary election in 1964.

"The Communist party is again the leading force of society," Rude Pravo said.

Errol Flynn Estate Declared Insolvent

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The estimated $2.5 million estate of actor Errol Flynn was declared insolvent Friday and the last asset, a lot overlooking Sunset Boulevard, was sold to pay back taxes.

The probate case, which began upon the actor's death in 1959, was terminated by a superior court commissioner with the disposition of Flynn's last holding. The swashbuckling 1930's star reportedly earned $10 million in his career.

Guards Surprise Convicts, End 6-Man Prison Revolt

RAIFORD, Fla. (UPI) — Guards removed the hinges from a locked door Sunday and surprised six prisoners who were holed up in the Raiford State Prison hospital with four hostages and threatening to throw a "Molotov cocktail" into highly flammable oxygen tanks.

The inmates surrendered without resistance and the hostages were released unharmed, according to Superintendent L.E. Dugger.

The prisoners, four of them serving long terms for murder, manslaughter or robbery, had overpowered guard M. R. Galloway and prison medical technician Paul McBridge and fled toward the fences of the maximum security prison housing 3,000 inmates.

However, the guard and technician, who had been locked in the hospital, shouted to other guards who warned the prison control room. Guards were dispatched to the fence to intercept the escapers, who retreated to the hospital and overpowered two more guards — A.D. Griffin and Dale Winstead.

Locking themselves in the hospital, the inmates said Dugger would have to agree to five demands before the hostages would be released. The conditions were better medical treatment, no reprisals, access to newsmen, immediate contact with their families and a talk with the prison psychiatrist, Dr. Manuel W. Guerrero.

It was while Dugger was discussing the demands with the prisoners that a group of guards removed the hinges from the doors of the hospital and captured the inmates.

Dugger said the inmates had lighted the "Molotov cocktail," a device fashioned with ligher fluid and a paper wick in a glass container, but did not throw it when rushed by guards. The prisoners had threatened to blow up the prison by throwing the flaming liquid into the hospital's oxygen tanks.

The inmates were Michael Stoupt, 31, of Volusia County, serving 32 years for robbery and escape; Jimmy Ross Freeman, 22, of Broward County, serving life for first degree murder; Calvin Arnold, 24, of Orange County, serving life for second degree murder; Joseph Troncoso, 27, serving 20 years for manslaughter and escape in Polk and Union counties; Alan Shaffer, 23, of Broward County, serving 19 months for possession of LSD; and Stephen Smith, 22, of St. Lucie County, serving three years for possession of narcotics.

On Feb. 12, Raiford was hit by a prisoner uprising that left 64 inmates injured, all but one wounded by gunfire from guards. The U.S. House Committee on Crime opened hearings in Washington today into charges that guards used excessive force in that uprising.

On Nov. 13, two inmates broke into the prison furniture factory and fashioned a "tack" by enclosing a fork-lift truck in armor plating of 10-gauge sheet metal. They rammed their way through two prison gates under a hail of gunfire and escaped into nearby woods. The men still are at large.

More than 25 garbage disposal units were stolen in a burglary of a construction shack at 75 Canal Street, San Rafael, yesterday or early today, San Rafael police reported.

The units, of undetermined value, were owned by Continental Development Co. of Walnut Creek, police said.

ASK FARES, DATES

Shoppers Inspect The New Buses

Most of the visitors agreed the air-conditioned, brightly colored vehicles with reclining seats and capacious racks for commuters' briefcases were "pretty nice."

But they were more interested in when the buses would take over from the Greyhound buses, and how much the fare would be.

Driver Rick Sullivan patiently explained over and over that the magic date for commuters will be Jan. 3, and the fares would be less than Greyhound passengers pay now. He handed out schedules for the intra-county runs, which will replace the private Marin Transit System buses Dec. 13 for midday riders traveling east-west and north-south within Marin.

A veteran commuter leaned back, looked around, and declared, "I hope they'll wake me up when I get to San Francisco."

Despite the chill and the overcast skies Saturday, he remembered his summertime rides with no fondness, and said he looked forward to the air conditioned ride.

"I've gotten off work in the city feeling fine, and by the time I got home on those hot buses, life wasn't worth living," he said.

"The fares will be less — you're putting me on," said another commuter. "They want to get your car off the bridge, and you into the bus," Sullivan explained.

Sullivan, a longtime Greyhound driver himself, was one of the "pioneers" in switching to the Golden Gate Bridge bus fleet. He said that transferees' pension problems have been worked out, and 130 more drivers will "change from grey shirts to white shirts" on Jan. 3, when they switch bosses — and buses.

New Census Will Check Americans' Buying Habits

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Census takers will fan out across the country again in January, this time checking where and what people are buying instead of just counting noses.

The Census Bureau, it was disclosed in congressional testimony released today, will survey the buying habits of 17,000 families —and will resurvey them three more times during 1972.

The checkup will be done by census takers for the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), the statisticians who put together the monthly consumer and wholesale price indices which are the chief barometers of the cost of living.

The survey is intended, according to the testimony before the House Appropriations Committee, to put together a new market basket of goods and services for the new cost of living index. The last such massive survey was made in 1960-1961, but included only one follow-up interview.

Although the purpose of the survey is to get a new idea of what Americans are buying, and where they are buying their goods and services, the quarterly reports could give President Nixon an up-to-date guide on whether his antiinflation program is working.

Bay Catholic School Strike Talks Break

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Negotiations have been broken off until later this week in the two-week teachers strike against seven Bay Area Catholic high schools — including Marin Catholic in Kentfield — despite the intervention of Mayor Joseph L. Alioto.

Striking teachers met with Alioto yesterday and asked his intervention because "an impasse was reached on key matters" during a session Saturday conducted by federal mediator Gene Barry, according to James Gallagher, chief negotiator for the teachers.

However, Rev. Bernard Cummins, superintendent of schools for the Archdiocese of San Francisco, rejected the mediation role proposed for Alioto and in a press conference today said, "The archdiocese will continue to rely strictly and exclusively upon federal mediation as long as it is available."

He said Barry adjourned negotiations until an undetermined date later this week. Barry could not be reached for comment.

While Father Cummins was holding his press conference this morning, conditions reportedly were normal at Marin Catholic. Father Francis A. Lacey, the school's principal, said seven to nine pickets marhed in front of the school, but student absences were about normal.

The striking union, Secondary Teachers Association Local 2240, scheduled picketing beginning at 11 a.m. today of the home of Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken.

"The key issue preventing agreement is the STA demand for an immediate increase above the normal 4 per cent to 6 per cent being paid to all lay teachers this year," Father Cummins said.

He said any further raise would require a tuition increase which is not allowed by Phase II of the federal wage-price control effort.

However, he said the Archdiocese is willing to negotiate raises for 1972 to 1974 as part of a three-year contract.

He said other unresolved issues are class size, adjustments in supplementary salary and substitute teaching.

Tate Denied Attorney Move

Willie Tate, one of six San Quentin Prison convicts accused of murder and conspiracy in the Aug. 21 uprising, was denied the right to represent himself this morning.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court denied Tate's request "without prejudice" which means that Tate can still serve as his own lawyer if he can prove his competency. In court this morning, Tate objected to the hearing itself and refused to answer any questions.

Howard K. Morehouse of San Rafael is still Tate's attorney of record, although both he and Tate want him to withdraw from the case.

All six convicts indicted in the case are scheduled to enter their pleas on Dec. 13.

CONCERT

hour's performance of the featured group — Delaney, Bonnie and Friends.

When the auditorium lights came on at midnight, many of the late comers sat in their seats expecting to see the other groups.

Many appeared disgruntled when told that the groups had performed earlier.

"We've been had," one youth told his date as they left the building.

Why the decision was made to change the schedule was not clear today.

Promoter Spencer could not be reached. The telephone company said his San Rafael phone had been disconnected during the weekend.

The question of permitting future rock concerts at the new building is expected to be a main topic of discussion before the county board of supervisors tomorrow.

The board, over the objection of Kalimos, permitted Wednesday's concert under urging by Marin Open House, American Civil Liberties Union attorneys, the County human rights department, Bella Aaron of the police-community relations panel and other county agencies.

Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella today declined to say what the county staff planned to recommend to the board tomorrow.

UC Therapists Will Go To Work

BERKELEY (UPI) —Ten therapists who were suspended from the University of California's Cowell psychiatric clinic for students said Sunday they would return to their jobs after being ordered to show up for work or be fired.

The therapists said in a statement they would return to the clinic Monday on the assumption that the university administration had persuaded the clinic's director, Dr. Harvey Powelson, to "alter the intolerable practices" to which they objected.

A dispute between Powelson and the therapists over the clinic's policies led to suspension of the therapists and also to the resignation of five of the clinic's top professionals.

Davis Transfer Bid Denied

The attorney for Angela Davis tried unsuccessfully today to prevent her transfer to Santa Clara County this week.

Howard Moore Jr. of Berkeley met with Judge Richard E. Arnason and reported the judge had refused his request for a delay beyond 5 p.m. Thursday.

Moore said he will immediately file an appeal with the district court of appeals in San Francisco to prevent the transfer of both Miss Davis and her case to Santa Clara County.

The attorney said Miss Davis was ill last week with some kind of virus and has lost 20 pounds in the last 60 or 70 days. "She is down to 135 to 139 pounds, while her usual weight is about 150 to 160 pounds," said Moore.

TAXES

use of $1 of their income taxes for presidential campaigning.

MacGregor said Nixon remains committed to passage of a tax cut bill that would "properly stimulate the economy."

MacGregor said if Nixon vetoed the tax bill he would urge Congress to pass a suitable substitute before adjourning for the year.

"In my opinion, the Congress will not go home for Christmas without passing a suitable tax bill," MacGregor said.

MacGregor contended that Nixon's opposition to the tax checkoff plan, which could provide up to $20.4 million each to the Democratic and Republican presidential candidates in 1972, was made on constitutional and philosophical —not political — grounds.

Republicans in the Senate voted almost unanimously against the provision which would provide needed funds to financially strapped Democrats whereas the GOP anticipates no trouble raising money for a Nixon re-election campaign.

MacGregor contended that the campaign financing plan would permit major political contributors to concentrate on primary elections, thus multiplying their impact on the selection of presidential nominees.

He said it also would reduce public control over the political process and could "produce a proliferation of political parties" because funds would go to minor party candidates based on the percentage of the vote they could win.

Among the "budget-busting" amendments added by the Senate, MacGregor cited:

—A measure to permit a tax deduction for the cost of college tuition which he said would cost $2.4 billion annually.

—An increase from 7 per cent to 10 per cent in the investment tax credit for firms operating in inner city slums or rural areas which he said would cost $750 million.

—An increase in the personal exemption to $800 on 1972 income, which he said would cost up to $2 billion.

An issue touching all taxpayers is the size of the personal exemption to be claimed for taxes paid on income earned in 1972 and thereafter.

The House bill would provide a $750 exemption, to be taken by each taxpayer for himself and each dependent. The Senate bill would provide for an $800 exemption —a difference to the government of $1.9 billion a year in its revenues.

Both bills agree on a $675 exemption for income earned in 1971 —$25 more than taxpayers could claim under existing law.

The house delegation, led by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., is expected to accept a Senate provision under which each taxpayer could earmark $1 of his taxes to pay the campaign expenses of the presidential candidate of the party of his choice.

This device would provide each major party with $20.4 million for the 1972 campaign, but the GOP says it would not take public funding, using privately contributed gifts instead.

Republicans bitterly assail the taxpayer contribution provision and predict it may cause President Nixon to veto the bill. Democrats say this would jeopardize both Nixon's program to restore health to the economy and his own reelection chances.

A costly Senate amendment not expected to survive the conference would permit parents to take a tax deduction of up to $325 per child sent to college to help defray tuition costs. It would cost the government $2.4 billion a year in tax revenues. Conferees in the past have defeated similar proposals adopted by the Senate.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and leader of the Senate delegation, was expected to press for a Senate provision which would allow couples with children under 15 to take an income tax deduction of $4,800 a year if they must send their youngsters to a day care center or hire a maid so both parents can work.

DUCK PLUCKER — Joseph Eberhart pushes a duck through his automatic duck plucking machine, an imaginative device which the 16-year-old San Anselmo youth has turned into a lucrative business. Hunters who don't want to defeather their own birds bring them to the youth who cleans, plucks and bags each bird for 50 cents.

IT'S JUST DUCKY

Teen-Ager Cashes In On The Season With A Feather Plucker

By PAT ANGLE

A San Anselmo teen-ager has learned that if you happen to have a better duck plucker the world — or, at least part of it — will beat a path to your door.

Joseph H. Eberhart's unusual business venture began about a year ago when he saw a home-made device for plucking wildfowl while he was hunting in Colusa County and decided there might be gold in those flying feathers.

The 16-year-old youth, an avid hunter, was intrigued by the idea that a machine could do the messy task which most hunters would dearly love to avoid. A small search revealed that a Colusa firm had recently begun to manufacture an electrically powered automatic plucker at a cost of $350.

With a loan from his older brother, John, co-owner of Western Sport Shop in San Rafael, Eberhart purchased the "Duck-A-Minit" machine in mid-December last year and installed it in a small garden shed in the front yard of his home at 115 Sunnyside Avenue.

In the best entrepreneurial fashion he also had attractive business cards printed advertising his service. These he placed strategically at the sport shop and in a used car lot (owned by another brother) in Mill Valley. His four older brothers, all hunting enthusiasts and duck club members, passed some of the cards out to their friends.

Before long, according to the youth, business was off and flying. By the time duck hunting season ended Jan. 9 he had paid off the cost of the original investment and had money to spare.

Eberhart is understandably enthusiastic about the success of his first business enterprises. Since duck season began last month he has cleaned approximately 1,000 birds (sometimes as many as 70 in one night) and netted about $500. "It sure beats mowing lawns," he said with a grin.

The Sir Francis Drake High School junior cheerfully demonstrated the machine which will defeather a duck in about two minutes and can do a similar job on other wild birds such as geese.

The device consists of a drum from which rows of rubber finger-like structures project. As the drum turns, the "fingers" brush the feathers from the bird, according to Eberhart. He said some feathers — including those near the feet and under the wing — must still be removed by hand.

Not only does the mechanized plucker do a more thorough job on the birds, but it shortens the job by several minutes. Most important, he said, it saves wear and tear on the fingers which take the greatest beating in the plucking process.

Eberhart charges 50 cents for cleaning, plucking and bagging each bird. At that price he has been able to save enough to purchase a car and a re-loader for his shotgun.

When business is really heavy, he invites several friends over to help out. In an emergency, his girlfriend, Terri Sherseth, will assist in pulling out the pin feathers although she wants very little to do with the whole business "because the ducks stink."

The plucking operation has created only a few small problems for Eberhart, who is thinking about a career as a forest ranger when he finishes high school.

The dilemma of where to store the ducks in various stages of processing has been solved, thanks to the patience of his mother, Alberta, who allows him to hang the fowl in the family's regular refrigerator when space is at a premium.

He still doesn't know what to do about friends who complain they can never reach him by phone because he is "always out in the duck house."

With an eye to utilizing all the by-products of the business, Eberhart has collected all the feathers produced by his seasonal work. He now has more than 40 plastic bags (each containing 30 gallons) of feathers which he hopes to sell to a pillow factory in San Francisco.

Concealed Weapon Charge Is Lodged

Douglas Rayford Farley, 20, of 312 Coronado Drive, Petaluma, was arrested today on suspicion of possessing a concealed weapon.

Officers said they found Farley at 12:25 a.m. at Washington and Kentucky streets carrying a 10-inch knife inside a rear pocket. He was booked into city jail for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Remains Found At Crash Site

UKIAH (UPI) —The remains of millionaire lumberman William Crawford, missing in his light plane since last April, were found Friday by sheriff's deputies investigating a wreckage site about four miles west of Laytonville in Mendocino County.

Meat Firm Price Hike Rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Enforcing its ban on price increases that boost recent profit margins, the Price Commission rejected today a request by a big meat packer, Oscar Mayer Co., for a 1.31 per cent price hike.

It was only the second price increase request that the commission rejected since it began administering controls Nov. 14.

The guideline for Phase II prices forbids increases that would boost a firm's margin of profit on sales from exceeding the average margin in the best two of the last three years. The commission said Oscar Mayer's margin already is higher in 1971 than the base period.

The commission also announced it had received 70 more price increase applications from 49 firms, including two more from Oscar Mayer — for boosts of 27.8 and 12.7 per cent on different products.

The new requests included more from mining firms — Freeman Coal Mining Corp. seeking an 8 per cent price increase; United Electric Coal, seeking 7.3 per cent, and Kennecott Copper, Peabody Coal, asking 1.9 per cent average increases in three applications.

The commission received more than half a dozen coal price increase requests last week after the Pay Board approved a 15 per cent, first-year wage increase for coal miners.

The seven-member price commission resumed meetings today after a holiday weekend recess, with the coal issue high on its list of unfinished business.

The only hint of what might be coming on coal was a statement by the commission chairman, C. Jackson Grayson, that the panel may not "pass through" the entire increased pay cost to higher prices.

Bordaberry Near Victory

MONTEVIDEO (UPI)— AntiCommunist government candidate Juan Maria Bordaberry swept to victory in Montevideo today, and mounting official returns from Sunday's presidential elections showed voters had rejected a leftist coalition's bid for power.

The 43-year-old Bordaberry, President Jorge Pacheco Areco's hand-picked nominee, also was running in front in the interior and his victory in the 11-man presidential race nationwide seemed assured.

Urugaay's 2.8 million population is almost evenly divided between Montevideo and the interior.

To reach the market you have to thread the needle

For big or small-space advertisers, knowing this can help you build more profitable volume

Every store wants to reach as many customers as it can. But how many customers "reach" the store to buy—and when—is something else again.

For new findings in retailing show that at any one time only a small percentage of the market is ready to buy. The "market" then, is not what many a businessman thinks it is.

It is not a huge, faceless mass of people just waiting for the store ad to trigger it into buying action. Rather, it is a small set of people on any given day, with the set changing on Friday, for example, from what it was on Tuesday, or Wednesday.

Another finding shows an enormous shift, one week to another, in those "planning to buy" and those who didn't plan to buy but ended up doing most of the buying! Example: 61% of actual buyers of women's shoes in a given week were not even planning to buy just the week before! New people, new decisions.

This buying behavior goes for everything from women's dresses to refrigerators, tires to cameras. (The only general exception is drug/sundries and food. . .items of necessity).

The point is: if your store wants to capture the business, you must be in the market consistently with your advertising. This keeps you up in the forefront of buying decisions—at the time they're made. And they're being made by different people on different days for different reasons.

Since you can't know who is going to buy, only advertising can keep you in the market with changing groups of buyers.

And in Marin County, only the Independent-Journal can keep your advertising before the total market. Gets your message into 70% of all households. Gets you real readership. Gets you immediate sales.

That's what we mean by "threading the needle." Sews up the business.

AUTO CLIMBS GUY WIRE

San Rafael Police Sgt. Henry Ingwersen puzzles over how safely to remove an auto perched on a guy wire on Woodland Avenue at Auburn Street. The freak accident happened at 1 p.m. Friday, when the car driven by Frank Howard Waters, 19, of 300 Mountain View Avenue, San Rafael, spun out on slick pavement and skidded backwards 10 feet up the wire supporting a power pole. Homes in the Woodland area and in Greenbrae were blacked out briefly as a result of the mishap, but no one was injured.

Spock Heads Ticket For 'People's Party'

DALLAS (UPI)—The peoples' party, a coalition of peace and civil rights groups, chose Dr. Benjamin Spock as its 1972 presidential candidate Sunday. A black, Julius Hobson, a Washington, D.C., economist was named as a running mate.

The two nominations were intended as only tentative, however, with the possibility some better known liberals will be available to head up the party after the 1972 Democratic National Convention.

Hobson is the founder of the D.C. Statehood Party and unsuccessful candidate for the District of Columbia's nonvoting delegate in the House of Representatives.

"There are millions of Americans out there who are not only disgusted with the present situation but who are really in despair that our country is sliding toward disaster. Our only job is to make ourselves known to those millions of people."

Earlier in the convention a delegate read a telegram sent by Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia, which was interrupted time and again by laughter in the hall.

"You socialist, leftist, communists and haters of America having housing and meeting space problems, you can look to Peking or Moscow for facilities," the telegram said.

Delegates chose Spock on a second-ballot vote of 47 to 43. Many delegates abstained, some arguing no nomination should be made until after the Democratic convention. Spock defeated Jack Hampton, founder of the California Peace and Freedom Party.

Spock has said he would eventually like to see the party's nomination go to Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., who is at present seeking the Democratic nomination. Another possible candidate the group indicated it may seek is former Sen. Eugene McCarthy.

Man Hurt On Beached Boat

An Albany man was injured Saturday night when a cabin cruiser ran aground on Canal Street, in San Rafael, Coast Guard officers said today.

The Coast Guard said Hicks and another unidentified man were aboard a 30-foot Chris Craft when the boat ran aground in about one foot of water. Hicks apparently fell, striking his knee on a bunk, officers said.

Credibility Questioned — Young Kissinger Angered

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Ten-year-old David Kissinger, who revealed that President Nixon would make his historic trip to Peking next March, is mad at White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler for questioning his credibility.

His father, presidential security adviser Henry Kissinger, told reporters Sunday night that David has been reading his press notices ever since he said what his father and Ziegler had apparently been keeping a secret.

Kissinger said his blond, curly-haired son came stomping into his bedroom at San Clemente, Calif., after the incident, incensed by a newspaper report that Ziegler had told reporters to "disregard him."

Kissinger told reporters aboard the "Spirit of '76" returning to Washington Sunday night that David felt Ziegler had "undermined his credibility" —at least as far as his classmates were concerned.

David was not on board the plane for the return trip. But Ziegler insisted he had not been barred —only that he had to get back to school in Boston right after Thanksgiving.

Kissinger was then asked again about the date for the China visit. He laughed and replied "David already told you on the last trip."

REA Seeks Funding Support From Cities

The president of the Redwood Empire Association has written officials of five Marin County cities and Petaluma in an effort to get financial support.

In a letter being mailed to mayors, councilmen and city managers, James A. Nealis asks that a portion of the cities' transient occupancy tax income be given annually to the association.

Nealis said in the letter that the association has been a "front-runner in the promotion, publicity and advertising to invite visitors to spend money throughout the area."

He said the association's annual budget of $150,000 is currently raised by appropriations from the nine counties in the area, the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District and four cities, none of which are in Marin or Sonoma Counties.

Nealis asked the cities to consider a donation of $250 a year or 10 per cent or more of the annual transient occupancy tax.

The Marin communities being approached are Sausalito, Tiburon, Novato, Corte Madera and Mill Valley.

An association spokesman said San Rafael was not included because such support would be in violation of the city's charter.

"This is our first overt expression seeking the wider support of more of our Redwood Empire communities," Nealis said in the letter.

3 Arrested In Larkspur Car Theft

Three Larkspur youths, warned about reckless driving Saturday, were arrested yesterday on suspicion of stealing the car they were driving, according to Larkspur police.

Police said Andrew C. Cookson, 18, Ian A. Stewart, 18, and Harry C. Harris, 17, were arrested separately between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. yesterday after James W. Hodges reported his Volkswagen sedan was stolen after 9 p.m. Saturday from his home at 476 Cane Street.

Police said the three had been stopped in Hodges's car at 11:55 p.m. Saturday in the parking lot of Redwood High School and warned about reckless driving. The car was found wrecked on Glenwood Avenue in Ross at 1:30 a.m. yesterday.

Cookson of 25 Cedar Avenue and Stewart of 116 William Avenue were booked into Marin County Jail in lieu of $1,200 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today. Harris, who lives at 5 Monte Vista Avenue, was booked into Marin Juvenile Hall, police said.

Record Session May Be Adjourned Late In Week

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislators hope to adjourn their record length session late this week after drawing up new districts for themselves and enacting a $550 million payroll witholding tax bill.

Lawmakers returned today from a long Thanksgiving holiday after shuttling both reapportionment and the tax measure off to conference committees.

The panels will work out differences between the Senate and Assembly versions of the proposals.

The tax bill would close a $310 million revenue gap in the state's $6.8 billion budget, raising a total of $550 million.

About $200 million would be used for building construction with $23 million going for business inventory tax relief.

Assembly Republican Leader Robert T. Monagan of Tracy said, "This program is only a pale shadow of the sweeping reform packages discussed earlier in the year, but it does promise some needed relief while balancing the budget, and I'm afraid that is the best we can hope for this year."

Assembly Democrats are pressing for it to contain more property tax relief for senior citizens but the bill's author, Republican Assemblyman William T. Bagley of San Rafael is opposed to that change.

On reapportionment, leaders of both parties in the Senate want to separate the redistricting plans of the Assembly and Senate, now combined in one bill.

The Senate proposal has bipartisan support but the Assembly plan is bitterly opposed by the Republicans. Gov. Ronald Reagan has threatened to veto it, and it almost certainly faces a court test if passed in its present form.

The lower house plan is aimed at increasing the Democratic majority in the Assembly from 42-38 to 44-36. In the Senate, the current Democratic majority of 21-19 would be maintained.

Both houses intend to adjourn Thursday after 332 calendar days in session.

Reagan has attacked the legislature as "disgraceful" because of the length of its session.

Dominic's first chef and founder, Dominic Murphy, walked out in a huff in 1856. Following the reasonable theory that a great chef is the heart of a great restaurant, we spent an uncommon amount of time finding a chef as talented as Mr. Murphy before re-opening Dominic's in 1960. We would like to take this opportunity to extend a special invitation to any of the original Dominic's customers why may not yet have noticed that we're back in the fine continental restaurant business again. INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have held Kirsch Co. shares (NYSE) since 1967. I have a 200 per cent or 50 per cent annual gain, but now wonder if growth is slowing sown. What is your opinion? — W.W.

A. As the leading producer of drapery hardware, Kirsch has compiled an excellend record. Earnings have grown 13.3 per cent compounded annually in the past five years. Nonetheless, there has been a consistent attrition in profit margins from 8.6 per cent in 1966 to 5.6 per cent in 1970. Rising expenses, introduction of new product lines and a sluggish market were factors in reducing profit take-down last year. The retrenching paid off, however, in expanding Kirsch's sales base. Bath accessories, a line of wood shelving, kitchen accessories and bedroom drapes and spreads have been added to the product line.

In the September quarter, first period of the current fiscal year, Kirsch was able to boost its profit margin to 6.7 per cent; and earnings on a fully diluted basis were equal to 73 cents a share, up from 43 cents. New products, Canadian and European operations and a surge in building boosted sales for the quarter 31 per cent over the comparable 1970 period. A recently announced 3-for-2 stock split, payable Jan. 3, will be accompained by a small, 2½ cents annual dividend increase. Continued growth, perhaps at a somewhat more subdued rate, is anticipated.

Q. Is Allis-Chalmers a good investment for someone who can spare the money and is not interested in income?-- C.B.

A. If the dealings of institutional investors are any indication, then Allis could prove to be a worthwhile speculation. In June, some 1.3 million shares where held in fund portfolios. Most recent statistics show 2.1 million shares held by funds anticipating a cyclical recovery for this machinery maker.

In the first nine months sales were up 2.3 per cent while earnings fell to 47 cents a share from $1.12 in 1970. Three divisions, which account for more than 43 per cent of sales, have been operating at a deficit. Shares, trading about 63 per cent below book value, should move ahead in response to an economic recovery.

Business Christmas Giving Drop Forecast

NEW YORK (UPI)—Business Christmas giving will drop off this year for the first time in a decade, according to Incentive Marketing, a trade magazine that has kept tabs on Yule giving for almost 20 years.

The drop probably will be about 2 per cent from last year's $395 million. In 1953, when Incentive Marketing started keeping score, it estimated the gifts at $250 million. There have been increases every year since then except in the 1956 and 1958 recessions.

Christmas bonus and gifts by employers to workers apparently will follow much the same pattern as last year, says Prentice-Hall, Inc., the publisher of business and labor information services. The company recently surveyed 182 firms and found that about half will give either cash bonuses or gifts to workers at Christmas with cash bonuses the more popular.

The bonuses will range from a $5 bill up to a full month's salary for workers with more than five years' service with the company.

Among the more popular gifts from the boss to employees will be turkeys and hams and gift certificates drawn on a department store. Gifts and bonuses to workers are subject to Federal wage controls whereas ordinary Christmas giving is not.

The actual number of business gifts to customers, suppliers and other associates has increased greatly in recent years even though companies have cut down somewhat on the proportion of their profits devoted to such gifts. The variety of the gifts also has grown.

This diversification caused a little dispute this year. For example, Bachman Foods, Inc., of Reading, Pa., which dispenses Pennsylvania Dutch foods, claimed recently that bottles of liquor are "out" this year and foods and other useful gifts are "in."

Durante said the Christmas decanter has lost favor, though." People who want a decanter prefer genuine cut glass to the distillers' imitation," he said, "so this year the distillers simply are wrapping the standard bottle in a gift package. After the holidays, the liquor store clerk will shuck off the Christmas wrapping and stick the bottle on the stock shelf."

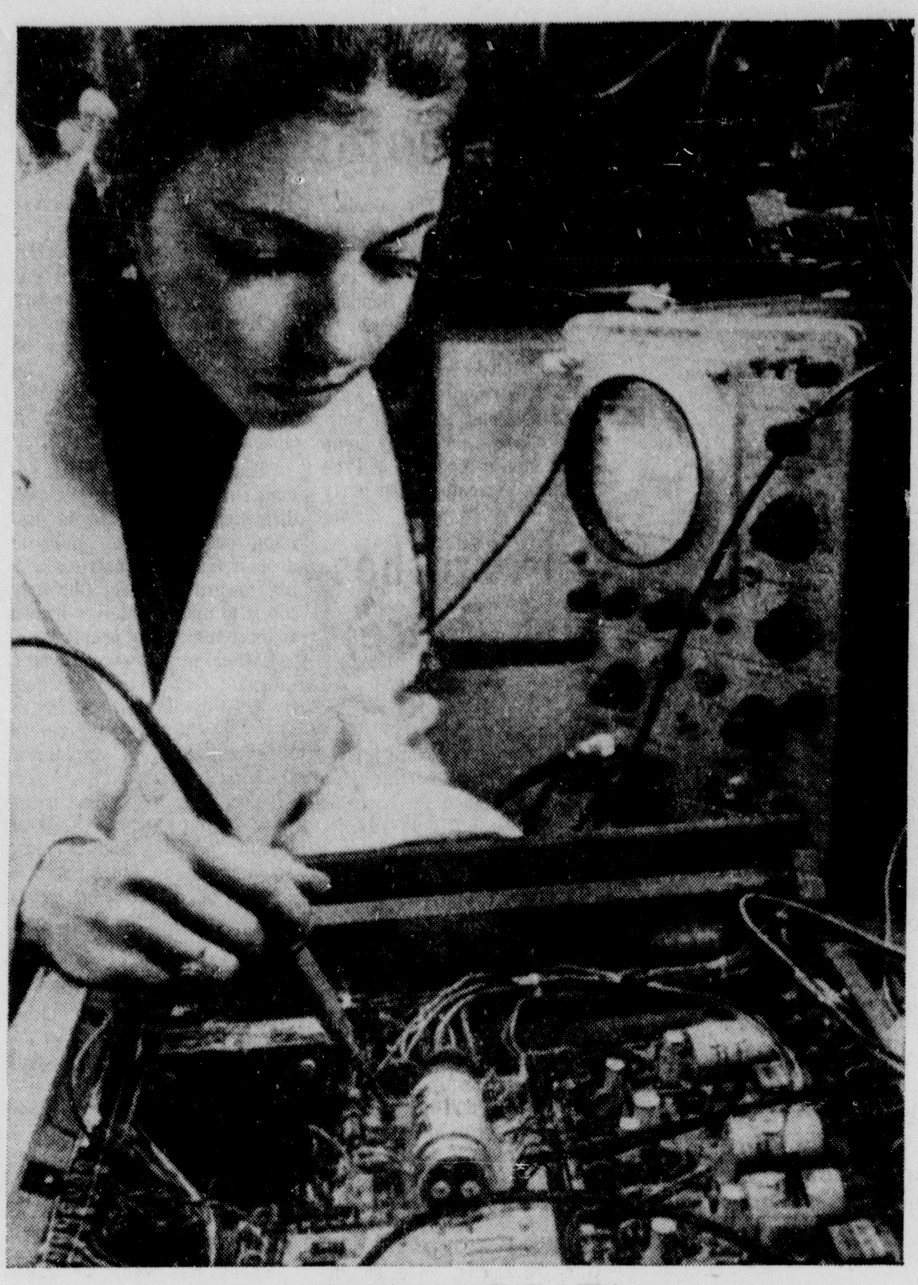
Autos Account For 20 Pct. Steel Use

DETROIT (UPI) — Automobiles account for about 20 per cent of the nation's steel consumption and approximately 65 per cent of the rubber, reports the Automobile manufacturers association.

Of the nation's total businesses, about 823,000 are related to automobiles and trucks. Automotive retailers had sales of $89 million in 1970.



COMPILING DATA

Market Shows Gain, Then Falls A Little

The gain was partially attributed to more cheering economic news and hopes that the big 10 western industrial countries will be able to hammer out an agreement to put an end to the international monetary crisis. They will begin a two-day meeting in Rome Tuesday.

Of the 1,572 issues crossing the tape, 1,201 advanced, while 156 declined. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index climbed 1.27 at 93.21. Prices also forged ahead across a broad front on the American Stock Exchange.

Another item which might have appealed to investors was federal court order forcing longshoremen at major Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports back on the docks today. It ended a 58-day walkout.

Chemicals and electronics were the brightest spots on the Big Board, ranging to more than 2 points higher.

Motors, rails, airlines and aircrafts also were firm. Steels tacked on fractions, but gold mining stocks were mixed.

Du Pont, Monsanto, Burroughs, Loews Corp., and Wrigley rose 2 or better. Walt Disney gained 3 3-4, and Corning Glass 3.

Industrial Meat Packers On Climb

NEW YORK (UPI) —Because of a sharp boost in consumption of red meats in high income countries, small firms are being replaced with large industrial packers.

This trend is creating a demand for dehairers, cutting machines, rendering systems and process meat formers, reports the Bureau of International Commerce.

Safeway Retirement

OAKLAND (BW) — Safeway Stores Inc. has announced that Canada Safeway Ltd. has declared that Walter J. Kraft will retire from his position of regional manager and chairman of the board at the end of the year, but will remain a member of the board.

Eden, New Business, Expands Into Furniture, Decorator Shop

Recently established business at 1560 Fourth Street, San Rafael, is Eden, which started out as a photographic studio for Eve Crane of Corte Madera but has now expanded into a furniture and decorator's shop as well.

This is where Elf Designs, furniture fabricators and designers, moved in several months ago, taking over the building formerly occupied by Marin Motorsports. Miss Crane's studio is now showing off the Elf pieces as well as oil paintings, blown glass and other art goods — which seems to work out well for everyone concerned. Harriet Aronofsky of San Anselmo is manager at Eden.

Hours are from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays.

AFTER AN ABSENCE of two years from San Rafael, Mission Pak is back on Fourth Street again for the holiday season.

No rented store this time for its month-long tenure — it has brought in its own mobile unit and has set it up on the vacant property at the southeast corner of Fourth and Cijos streets.

DONALD G. LAMP, president of Triple S Tire Centers, which started out in San Rafael several years ago and now operates in Marin, Sonoma, Solano and Napa counties, reports that the firm has entered the wholesale tire business in addition to its eight retail stores.

The company has been named exclusive distributor in the North Bay for Lee tires. Lee is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. and the distributorship is considered quite a plum. Triple S will continue as factory-authorized distributor for Dunlop tires and its own brand of Harvard tires.

Triple S growth in the past few years has increased to the point where Lamp says he expects sales for fiscal 1972 to exceed $2 million.

JOHN S. PEABODY of Kentfield has joined Insurance Credit Bureau in San Francisco as executive vice-president. He served for 10 years with Alexander H. Kerr and Co. as Northern California sales manager for industrial glass containers and three years in real estate investments in the Virgin Islands. More recently he has been with Land Investors Research of Larkspur.

Peabody

Van Voast

DICK T. VAN VOAST of Mill Valley has been named assistant vice-president in Wells Fargo Bank's training department. He specializes in audio-visual productions and was formerly training officer. He joined the bank in 1969 with 15 years of experience in art and photography.

COLLEEN HOGAN of Mill Valley has been appointed buyer for the domestics departments of Mervyn's, Northern California department store chain, where she is responsible for purchasing linens, draperies, decorator bedspreads and pillows. Miss Hogan is a 32-year veteran department store buyer with experience both in San Francisco and New York.

CHARLES CRAWFORD, supervisor for the San Rafael district office of John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., has qualified as a registered representative for its subsidiary, John Hancock Distributors, Inc., broker-dealer for the John Hancock mutual funds.

Ski Sales Up

NEW YORK (UPI) —Sales of skis and related equipment reached $125 million in 1970, according to a survey by Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. Enthusiasts who spent the money for the increasingly popular sport numbered 15 million says James A MacLean, national sales manager for OCF.

GIFTS ON NATURE'S ALTAR?

Poet Reginald Heber's hymn proclaimed that "every prospect pleases, and only man is vile," a sentiment that this view of the works of nature and of man seems to bear out. Independent-Journal photographer Alfred M. Arn, facing east, captured this blending of splendor and squalor in San Rafael's Black Canyon area last weekend. The drift of cloud vapor turned hilltops into islands in the sky, but failed to cloak the littered vantage point.

Yule Shopping Picking Up

The Christmas shopping season in Marin has gotten off to a mixed start, described as "fantastic" by some merchants, "pretty good" by others and only "fair" by a couple more.

Merchants at the major shopping areas agreed that business Friday and Saturday — traditional opening days of the Christmas shopping season following Thanksgiving — was better than the same two days a year ago.

But Marin had heavy rains those two days last year, making the comparison less than fair.

Police departments in Mill Valley and Novato reported increased traffic in downtown shopping areas, although traffic in downtown San Rafael Friday and Saturday was far short of police expectations.

Daniel Knott, manager of the J. C. Penney Co. store on Fourth Street in San Rafael, reported sales at the store Friday were up 15 per cent over sales the day after Thanksgiving a year ago. Will Dolman, department manager at Penney's in the Corte Madera Shopping Center, did not have figures, but said his store's sales Friday represented a "substantial" gain over the same day last year.

However, Ray Peterson, operating manager of the Montgomery Ward store at Corte Madera, reported business Friday and Saturday was "not quite as good as last year, but still good."

Business at the Emporium at Northgate was "fantastic," according to manager Robert G. McGushin, while Walter E. Zurcher of the San Rafael Toy Shop, 933 Fourth Street, San Rafael, said the opening two days were "nothing fantastic."

Zucker said, however, that business was "pretty good and ahead of last year."

San Rafael police said traffic at the Northgate complex was "really heavy." Parking lots were filled, but traffic was moving well despite the crowds, police said.

Adalene Horowitz of the Mother to Be Maternity Shop, president of the Northgate Mall Merchants Association, said business at her store was "up" and that appeared to be the case, she said, around the rest of the shopping center.

A State Of Sexual Confusion In Japan

By JEFF PENBERTHY
Toronto Telegram Syndicate

TOKYO — With no room for privacy, the Japanese home is a place of complete physical frankness. The people are less inhibited about nudity than elsewhere in the world.

Despite this, young people are taught a strict moral code, and remained shy and unworldly —until they heard about "the sexual revolution."

A white paper released by the prime minister's office showed that 61 per cent of the young — aged 15 to 24 — want to be "freed from traditional restrictions on sex."

It was the first documented proof of something everyone here has known since Yoko Ono leapt into the cot for a public honeymoon with John Lennon.

The waves of the permissive society have swept over a sea wall that the government has been trying to build up for eight years.

The country where mixed public bathing was once a normal family affair, now has a huge customs warehouse in Yokohama where scores of touch-up artists are kept at work brushing over the private parts of bare bunny girls portrayed in Playboy magazine.

A double twist to the paradox is that most of these part-time censors are high school and university students, whom the government seeks to "protect."

They have been running head-on into the "sexual revolution" since then.

This summer, politician Hideji Kawasaki's Sauna group tried to start Japan's first nudist colony, on a tiny island near Osaka. Local police ordered the sunlovers to wear bathing suits.

Officials objected to the camp on the grounds that the nudists would be "bound to romp around with no clothes."

A Tokyo police squad is kept busy raiding bookstores, but the thousands of adult comics and pulp magazines are becoming increasingly torrid in tone.

Any day, scores of young people can be seen on the subway trains reading them. Many stations provide special boxes — too tall for children to reach —for the disposal of these.

The tragedy is that the "sexual revolution" seems to be having some reverse effects on the long-liberal Japanese. The once-proud Japanese film industry, which produced such black-and-white masterpieces as "Rashomon" and "Seven Samurai," is now grinding out cheap full-color sex.

While the great director Akira Kurosawa retires to the mountains to communicate with the muse, the industry is busy making or distributing foreign blue movies (actually they call them "pink" movies, because "blue" means happiness here). Billboards in the Tokyo entertainment districts of the Ginza, Shinjuku and Ikebukuro, have the same seamy quality as New York's 42nd Street.

Psychologists fear that Japan is also importing western "hang-ups."

Of course, Japan's tradition of public broad-mindedness goes back for centuries. The difference is that modern affluence is turning it into a vast consumer market.

Prostitution was outlawed on April Fool's Day, 1958 — an appropriate day, since on current estimates, half a million women are employed in the 150,000 bars, clubs and coffee shops which make up the booming nightlife here.

A survey conducted by the Mitsubishi Trust Bank revealed that Tokyo men consider sex one of the most important things worth living for. (It was ranked third. Work, and children, were listed first and second respectively).

The reasons go back in antiquity. The core of Japan's native religion, shintoism, is fertility. This is still celebrated in phallically symbolic "fertility festivals" throughout the year.

In the most bizarre, people carry a 30-foot totem pole, replica of the male "chimbo" through the streets of Kumamoto, on the southern island of Kyushu. Children under the age of seven invade the homes of childless couples and chant to the wife "get pregnant."

With a generation of these youngsters coming of age, the "sexual revolution" can have hardly failed to catch on.

There remains, however, a basic difference between the Japanese attitude towards sex at home and in public. In their homes the people are modest, humble, and seemingly well adjusted.

Mixed public bathing was banned by the American occupation authorities and — although it survives in some country areas — men and women now seem to prefer bathing apart.

Outside the home, the right of Japanese men to engage in extra-marital activities has been tolerated since feudal times. The survey by the prime minister's office showed that the young people are also likely to be tolerant. In it, 84 per cent were against taboos on sex.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

The Bartender Responsible

For years it had been the common law rule that a bartender was not responsible for the acts of a drunken patron. In a recent case the California Supreme Court ruled that the bartender had a responsibility not to serve drinks to a patron who was drunk. Not only could his liquor license be suspended or revoked, but he would be liable for any injuries to a third party.

In this case the bartender continued to serve a customer who was already drunk. The drunken man then got into a car and ran over Mrs. Flat. He had no driver's license, no insurance, and very few assets. Mrs. Flat sued the bar owner. He served drinks in violation of the alcoholic beverage rules. The bartender should have anticipated that his drunken patron might cause harm to others. The only route from the bar back to the patron's house was over a narrow road.

True, a bartender merely furnished the liquor; a patron must himself drink it to become drunk. But where the bartender can reasonably anticipate dangerous consequences, he is liable if that eventuality does happen.

The court did not rule on responsibilities of the social host who furnished liquor free to a party guest who later drives home. The social host violates no alcoholic beverage laws, but he still might have a duty to others should injury result.

Nor did the court say that a host or bartender was liable to the person who injures himself, say, by falling down and cracking his head from overdrinking.

The basis of liability depends on the facts. Is there a legal duty to the injured person by the furnisher of the liquor? And is the injury a "foreseeable event" resulting from the furnishing?

The bartender who violates a duty imposed by law is negligent. If his negligence can reasonably result in harm, he is liable.

(Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.)

Review Board Proposal On Plans Agenda

A proposal to establish a review board to handle routine zoning and planning matters will be considered by the Sausalito Planning Commission at 8 p.m. Wednesday in city hall.

The zoning board, originally proposed by City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr in October, 1970, is designed to give the city council and planning commission more time to consider long-range planning and other far-reaching city concerns.

On Oct. 12, the council referred the proposal back to planners who had rejected the idea last year. The review board would handle such matters as variances, routine conditional use permits, plan approvals, encroachment permits and interpretations of city zoning ordinances.

The planning commission will also discuss its views on exactly what powers the city's community appearances advisory board should have.

Kettenhofen Is Sued By His Partner

Former Marin County Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen has been sued for $750,000 damages by Alan M. Kay, his partner in the Anchorage apartment business in Sausalito.

Through his attorney, Stephen H. Kaufmann, Kay filed the suit Friday in Marin Superior Court, asking that their partnership be dissolved. Kay also seeks $200,000 general damages and $500,000 punitive damages.

Kay asserted that Kettenhofen put the Anchorage apartments in a state of insolvency by executing a promissory note to himself in the amount of $240,000. Kay contended that Kettenhofen mismanaged the business, causing business to suffer substantial loses.

Three Armed Men Arrested In Robbery

Three men armed with a loaded carbine rifle and wearing nylon stockings on their heads were caught crouching behind La Camembert restaurant at 200 Shoreline Highway in Tamalpais Valley about 12:30 a.m. today.

Jailed on suspicion of attempted armed robbery were Larry David Adams, 22, of 99 Cole Drive, Marin City; Bernard Jerome Stringer, 25, of 210 Page Street, San Francisco; and Keith James Jackson, 19, of 708 Hacienda Court, San Rafael.

Stringer and Jackson were also booked on suspicion of possessing marijuana. Deputies said they found match boxes and a plastic bag with what appeared to be marijuana in their pockets. Jackson also had a bone pipe with traces of what appeared to be hashish.

Jackson and Stringer were held in lieu of $3,000 bail each, and Adams in lieu of $1,500 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Deputies spotted a car about 100 yards away from the restaurant, became suspicious, and found the three men crouching behind the restaurant building among a pile of boxes. On top of one of the boxes lay a carbine, with a clip containing 15 rounds of ammunition.

Father, Son Catch Thief In The Act

A Marinwood youth, according to sheriff's deputies, was caught yesterday trying to steal radio equipment from a car parked at a Marinwood home.

William Lindley Swenning, 18, of 600 Blackberry Drive, was booked on suspicion of burglary and felonious assault and held in lieu of $1,500 bail to appear in municipal court today.

Charles Kenneth Rhodes Jr. of 555 Pinewood Drive told officers he was wakened by his wife at about 5 a.m. because someone had broken into the car owned by their 20-year-old son, Charles Kenneth Rhodes III.

The elder Rhodes said he notified his son, then ran out to the driveway and found Swenning with his leg sticking out of the car, working away at the car's stereo set. He grabbed the youth by his coat collar, and the younger Rhodes joined the tussle. The father noticed Swenning had a knife in his hands and told his son to let go so that he would not get hurt.

Swenning dashed off but was later arrested at his home, according to deputies.

Hiker's Leg Broken In Jump

A San Franciscan who suffered a broken right leg when he jumped off a ledge while hiking on Mount Tamalpais Thanksgiving Day was reported in good condition today in Franklin Hospital in San Francisco.

Sheriff's deputies said Henry Lew, 20, was hiking with about a dozen fellow students from San Francisco City College when he apparently jumped off a ledge about 15 feet above Ridgecrest Road.

Instead of landing on the road, he hit a hump on the way down and tumbled to the road. He suffered facial bruises as well as the broken leg.

Tow-Line Snaps, Kite Flier Dies

TRACY (UPI) —A Concord kite-flier was killed during the weekend when the tow-line attached to his big kite snapped and he plummeted 150 feet to an airport runway.

Patrick William Ball, 31, was being pulled aloft by a car speeding down the runway of a cropdusting airstrip near this San Jooaquin County town when the cable broke Saturday.

Witnesses told sheriff's deputies the big kite—similar to those used in water-skiing shows—shuddered before the tow line parted and Ball plunged to the pavement.

Kite enthuisasts have used the airstrip for the past four years for the flights, which sometimes take them as high as 1,000 feet in the air.

Bagley To Talk In Corte Madera

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, will discuss the Legislature's 1971 session on Thursday before the Leagues of Women Voters of Central and Southern Marin.

Bagley will speak at 10 a.m. at the Fondue Pot in Corte Madera at the leagues' annual "lunch with the state legislators." Marin's other state legislator, Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, will not be able to attend because he is taking a vacation in Tahiti.

Luch will follow at noon.

Some men live in the cages of routine, others fly in the open skies of the spirit. Puzzled by the contrasts we see in our lives, we ask the question "Why?" Why poverty in a land of plenty? Why loneliness in a world that would join hands? Why war when the impulse of the heart is to love? The aching chasm between the real and the ideal everywhere provokes the question...

WHY?

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Don't Play Baseball On A Golf Course

For many years, starting soon after World War II, Marin's taxpayers paid a special tax to construct a Veterans Memorial Building — enough to provide $48,000 per year toward construction.

The fund this created was tapped by borrowings on several occasions for other construction, such as juvenile hall. But each time it was restored the following year, through taxation.

As construction cost increases outran the accumulation, and as plans for the building changed, the annual amount was hiked considerably in the few years preceding actual construction. All in all, the county's taxpayers contributed steadily — and largely uncomplainingly — for many years to provide a building memorializing veterans and including a much-needed and long-talked-about auditorium large enough for major entertainment and cultural events.

THIS YEAR, the long effort finally came to fruition. The Marin Veterans Memorial Building opened with a symphony concert.

It is an impressive building. There have been many jokes about its placement with the "silos" on the stage end facing Highway 101. There have been complaints about failure to locate the Doughboy statue near its entrance. But there has been general acclaim for the building's beautiful interior, its comfort, its acoustics.

Marinites were proud that the long effort, the longtime dream had resulted in such a fine auditorium.

They showed their pride by their behavior. The no-smoking rule was carefully observed. The powder blue seats and carpets remained unspotted through three months of use, during which large crowds turned out for events ranging from symphony concerts to vaudeville entertainment.

THEN, LAST WEDNESDAY night, the auditorium was used for a rock concert, ostensibly to raise funds to fight drug abuse.

Twenty-two hundred attended. They ignored the no-smoking rule, and what they smoked in many cases was not tobacco. They carried their wine and booze into the auditorium, despite ineffectual checks by volunteer "security guards" from Marin Open House.

When the concert was over, the beautiful seats and carpeting were pocked with burned holes, slashed in some places, stained from spilled liquor and wine — and vomit.

"It's not new any more," said one of the 13 custodians who faced a day of overtime work to clean up the damage enough so that the auditorium could be used again.

Long years of effort . . . a prideful result . . . and then one night's rock concert!

The sponsor, Fred Mayer, was required to take out $50,000 damage insurance and put up $2,000 cash bond. From these, the county may recover the cost of replacing the damaged seats and carpeting.

BUT THE WHOLE THING need not have happened if the county board of supervisors had listened to Leon G. Kalimos, the man they hired to manage the building.

Kalimos, who has had experience putting on rock concerts, warned that such "music" leads to damage — "turns on" its hearers, many of whom use drugs and alcohol to heighten the effect they want from the music.

The supervisors, who had no experience, paid him no heed. They permitted the use.

"There is a place for everything," said Kalimos after surveying the damage. "The place for a rock concert is in a flat-floored, plain auditorium where the audience can get up and dance if they want to, and won't do much damage.

Environmentalist Reagan In Speech To Oil Men

Gov. Ronald Reagan, like other professional politicians, preens his environmental feathers at first sight of a crowd of voters. But the image changes in front of a crowd of oilmen.

Likening conservationists to "those groups who on occasion take to a hilltop to await the end of the world," Reagan declared at the recent San Francisco convention of the American Petroleum Institute that opposition to the nuclear test in Alaska was "another example of something that might be called the doomsday syndrome so prevalent in our country in recent years."

The governor quickly linked the conservation movement with communism: "To listen to those who would lead a technological retreat would be to turn backward to disease, famine and mass unemployment. You know better than anyone else that business — the free enterprise system — is under attack for the second time in this century."

AS FOR TIGHTER government controls over environmental abuse, Reagan used the same scare: "The next time you are told how much better government can make things if only government had a little more power and resources, refer them to that great nation which has practiced government control without interference for more than a half a century."

Reagan acknowledged his regret that "prophets of doom and gloom" now shared his advantage to spread their view because of television.

Enthusiastically defending his administration's record, he assured the oilmen that "our own state has led the nation, indeed the world, in effort to protect the environment against everything from smog to offshore oil spills."

Reagan, praising the oil industry for displaying "the kind of constructive attitude it has demonstrated during environmental problems of the past," said that firms involved in the massive blow-out two years ago from wells off Santa Barbara "did not wait for government order. Without hesitation, they started to clean up the beaches."

A SERIOUS CHALLENGE to the political future of Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, apparently will come from Ronald Pelosi, incoming president of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors. The young, politically potent Democratic supervisor reportedly has shifted his 1972 sights from Congress to Behr's new state Senate district. Pelosi could prove tough to beat.

Much Yet To Be Done On Bike Registration

The Citizens Committee on Bicycle Safety and Registration of Marin County wishes to thank the I-J for its endorsement for a county-wide bicycle registration program.

It should be pointed out, however, that the committee is now one of developing procedures and statistics from all of Marin for the implementation of a county ordinance which will not be a reality until some time in the future.

The public should know that provisions are being made for existing licenses to remain valid and that the program of the Peter Pan Chapter of the Children's Home Society (Bike I.D.) is providing valuable statistical information and will continue to do so as is the information and services from each of the cities, i.e., Novato, whose program has been active since 1961.

Anyone should feel free to contact any member of the committee. The committee is making their efforts all inclusive of everyones needs for safety, protection, and enjoyment.

Dog Was Lucky To Be Picked Up

In response to Mrs. Alla DePanioti's letter regarding the Nov. 17 incident with a Marin County Humane Society officer, it would seem to me that the reason this particular dog was picked up in front of the Red Cart Supermarket in Mill Valley was because the animal and its owner were in violation of the law.

The animal control officer (not "dog catcher" as she called them — there is no such thing in Marin County) was clearly doing his job. And when one of these officers picks up an animal, with a license on, he usually tries to take it to the registered owner's house, and instead of impounding the dog issues the owner a citation, which is just like a traffic ticket. I think this particular dog was lucky to have been picked up instead of being splattered along the roadside.

AN EDUCATOR'S VIEW

Public Indifference Contributes To Deterioration Of Education

By Dr. JOHN W. GILBAUGH
(Professor of Education, San Jose State College)

Indifference is the greatest expediter of the progressive collapse of public education. When the public refuses to respond, after being warned and confronted with evidence that intellectual deterioration has characterized educational activity since World War II, there is little hope that improvement lies just beyond the horizon.

It is not more money which is needed. What is required to avert total educational chaos is an enlightened citizenry that can see through the phony philosophies now rampant in public education rather than be mesmerized by them.

HOW DO LAY CITIZENS keep themselves informed? As a starter they could consider arguments for and against proposed educational innovations before declaring a stance of support or opposition. However, getting all the facts is often not a simple matter, for the advocates of proposed programs are usually well prepared to respond to most questions raised by skeptical parents or other doubters.

Most of the literature available on proposed innovative programs is of a supportive nature. Opposition arguments seldom get into print. Consequently, rather than to expose their lack of familiarity with proposed curricular changes, most school board members feign comprehension by voting approval.

The abundance of material prepared to support various educational innovations is generally subsidized by public funds. Though hard to find, there are some excellent materials available which tend to disprove the claims by proponents of recent educational panaceas introduced into American public education.

THE BLACK PAPERS of British origin, is one source which tends to explode as mythology most of the gains attributed to new approaches in schools at all levels. Because the British Infant and Primary Schools are often looked upon as models by U.S. educators, the writings in the Black Papers should be weighed into the decision-making process by all who care about American public education.

Progressive education; egalitarianism; learning by discovery; abolition of academic standards, grades, and examinations are discussed with objective evidence to back up the editors' charges. The recently published Black Papers One and Two are available at a nominal charge from: the Secretary, the Critical Quarterly Society, 2 Radcliffe Avenue, London, N. W. 10. They are mentioned here, not to promote the publications, but as a public service to those parents, teachers, and school board members who wish to profit by the experiences of others before making their own commitments.

WASHINGTON REPORT

Waldie Makes New Enemy In Defeating Timber Bill

By BENJAMIN SHORE

WASHINGTON — Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, the Democrat from Antioch, wants to be elected governor of California in 1974, a goal he publicly announced early this year.

In a state where gubernatorial candidates traditionally try not to alienate big economic interests (with the recent exception of Jesse Unruh), Waldie has become known, especially among ecologically aware citizens, for his dogged opposition to the California Water Project. His fight against the Peripheral Canal, in particular, has become his trademark.

Waldie's outspoken opposition to the massive statewide water delivery system has put him at odds with major developing interests in Southern California, where more water means more growth. Waldie argues that more growth is exactly what Southern California does not need.

THIS MONTH, Waldie has added the state's $1.5 billion timber industry to his list of likely non-supporters in his quest of the governor's job. The 46-year-old legislator single-handedly engineered at the last moment the defeat of a special bill that would have provided Arcata Lumber Co. a $10 million tax break that it could not get under existing tax laws.

The bill, reported favorably by the influential House Ways and Means Committee, seemed at first to be assured of passage, just like many tax-break bills introduced by congressmen for hometown industries.

Arcata's story began in 1968 when Congress voted funds to buy some choice remaining stands of redwood to create Redwood National Park. Under existing tax laws, a company whose property is involuntarily purchased for public use may reinvest the income in "like property" and not pay any tax on the capital gains.

There were four companies involved: Georgia-Pacific, Miller-Rellim, Simpson, and Arcata. All but Arcata have taken advantage of a government ruling that because the availability of redwood forests to buy is virtually zero, the four companies could sink their proceeds into other timber lands in the affected counties (Del Norte and Humboldt).

BUT ARCATA WAS NOT willing to accept this. Arcata has accepted the Interior Department's offer of $40 million worth of federally owned timber land, but it has refused the offer of $22 million more in cash for a total $62 million settlement. Instead, Arcata last month filed suit for $63.8 million in cash in addition to the $40 million in land, adding up to a $103.8 million settlement.

Meanwhile, Arcata had high hopes for HR 11080, which would amend existing tax law to define "like property" as any business interest of the affected company prior to the involuntary sale of property to the government. Then, during closed deliberations by the powerful Ways and Means Committee, the bill's chief sponsor, Democratic Rep. Al Ullman of Oregon (a major timber state), successfully amended the bill to further tailor the legislation at Arcata's request.

The amendment would release companies from the requirement of having to reinvest the forced-sale proceeds in the same area. It was reported that Arcata wanted to pump some of the cash into a paper plant it owned in the Palo Alto area.

THIS AMENDMENT escaped the attention of one of the bill's co-sponsors, Rep. Don. H. Clausen, the Republican who represents the North Coast counties. Clausen proudly supported the bill not only because timber is his district's second largest industry, but also because he thought the cash would be reinvested in the two high-unemployment counties. Unworried about the bill's fate, Clausen took off for a long swing through Central and South America and was not around for Waldie's one-man stand.

Waldie first announced his opposition in a letter Oct. 14 to Rep. Wilbur Mills, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. This formality automatically removed the bill from the consent calendar, where it would have been passed without even a vote, and placed it on the suspension calendar. Bills considered in this manner do not have to go before the Rules Committee, but they need a two-thirds vote on the floor to pass.

At this point, Waldie's battle was half won. In the brief debate Nov. 15, Waldie convinced his colleagues in simple terms that HR 11080 was "a special interest bill . . . a unique response to a common situation." When the roll call vote was finished, it was Arcata 148, Waldie 203.

Montreal Provides Circus To Quash Revolution

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

MONTREAL, Can. — Between them, the late Charles de Gaulle and a few underground kidnapers and bombardiers have given the world the impression that separation of French Quebec from the rest of Canada is a total preoccupation here. But if Montrealers are hostages of violence, they sure don't show it.

True, a 26-year-old man named Jean Marc Brunet was nearly killed and brobably blinded the other evening when a pipe-bomb he apparently was rigging exploded and sprayed him with homemade schrapnel. True, there had been sporadic bombings of buildings and mailboxes here ever since 1963. True, last year the Front de Liberation du Quebec kidnaped the British trade commissioner and other officials, and martial law was declared and the Quebec labor minister was slain before the celebrated "October crisis" was over.

But the only underground most Canadians here have connections with is the new subway, and the tremendous city below the downtown pavement where hundreds of shops and even movie houses are casually open and protected from the below-zero winters.

THEIR ONLY PREOCCUPATION visible to the outsider is swinging, in a series of nightspots and restaurants that put the city in a class with New Orleans and San Francisco. Not long ago it was Expo, the world's fair that brought so much new construction and tourist money to the city, and now attention is turned forward to the 1976 Olympics, which will be held here largely because of the facilities that grew up around Expo.

In a sense, of course, all this is misleading. Not all Quebecers are well-dressed, bilingual, citoyens of downtown Montreal. The province is the biggest in Canada, but its per capita income is among the lowest. The French majority (82 per cent) is concentrated in the labor force.

The federal government, trying to take away the bitterness and isolate the violent separatist revolutionaries, has made both languages official for government business wherever it is conducted. A new language-training operation for civil servants can produce nearly 10,000 bilingual bureaucrats a year.

THAT IS ONE LEVEL of government action. Another is the modernizaiton and propaganda buildup of downtown Montreal, which may be a mere distraction away from more fundamental problems, but is tangible enough to set an example for cities south of the border. And everyone here, even his political enemies, gives credit for that development to an irrepressible booster named Jean Drapeau.

Like so many builders of monuments and advocates of on-time trains, Mayor Drapeau has tyrannical qualities. Nevertheless, also like them, he has been re-elected repeatedly, and would be again if not for the flamboyant bankruptcy case involving a typically Drapeauvian restaurant enterprise of his.

AS FOR THE RESTAURANT, Frank Lowe of the Montreal Star described possible reasons for its failure. The mayor himself played headwaiter and took reservations. The feature attraction was a symphony orchestra at the center of the room. Because the host demanded attention to the music, guests ordered their meals in writing rather than by speaking to the waiters. And when the conductor noticed a diner irreverently conversing during a performance, he rapped his baton and pointed to the ingrate for silence.

Not many guests bothered to come back. The restaurant failed. But everything else Drapeau has touched gleams like gold. He ramrodded Expo; he brought the Olympics; the splendid new hotels, the Metro and the underground city migat well be called Drapeauville. The federal government and other agencies are trying by slow, unspectacular means to provide some bread and education for the masses, and the mayor is playing ringmaster of a hell-of-a-nice circus in the meantime. It might even work.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By WAT TAKESHITA

No Longer Is The Attorney Courtroom Fashion Plate

Ten years ago in the old courthouse in San Rafael, you could usually spot the attorney a mile away. He'd be the one in a white shirt and dark tie, neat business suit, well-groomed hair neatly clipped, perhaps slightly balding. He'd stride confidently, almost pompously into the courtroom as if he owned the place, clutching a briefcase in one hand and a bewildered client with the other. The client would be a seedy looking character with a week's growth of beard, umkempt hair, and rumpled clothes.

Now in the Hall of Justice at the Civic Center, the tables are turned. More often than not, the attorney turns out to be an earthy looking character in crumpled corduroy jacket, sporting long matted hair and bushy beard, who ambles into the courtroom as if he didn't care who owned the place. And his client will be a middle-aged business man in suit and tie, neatly shaved and groomed and perhaps slightly balding.

The change may be a reflection of the change in attitude among the students coming out of law school. Take these new applicants who come looking for jobs in the public defender's office or county counsel's office. A few years ago they aspired to jobs with corporations, insurance companies and big business. But now, those traditional aspirations are strictly birdsville. The young and intense law grads want to work for the underprivileged, or with poverty laws, or in the field of civil rights or minority rights.

ONE THING THAT REMAINS unchanged is the unpredictability of jurors. Neither the prosecution nor the defense has been able to devise any scientific approach to jury picking. It's still a hit and miss system with both sides resorting to little more than hunches. And it's just as effective as any system because how a juror will vote is completely unpredictable and sometimes surprising.

Take this example: A week ago, a 12-man jury convicted a burglar, who was subsequently sentenced to San Quentin. After the trial was over, the deputy district attorney learned to his astonishment that one of the jurors had a felony record — he'd been convicted of burglary some years ago. And yet, he had voted unhestitatingly for conviction.

Had the prosecutor known before the trial, he would have promptly ousted the juror. And if he had, the replacement might have voted the other way and hung the jury.

INCIDENTALLY, CONVICTED felons were not allowed to serve on juries until a few years ago when the laws were relaxed. At present, everybody is eligible. In fact, they've got a bank robber on the Marin County list of prospective jurors, although he hasn't been called as yet.

The latest word is that Michael Peevey, one of those mentioned in the supervisorial race in District 4, is not running. This leaves incumbent Louis H. (Bud) Baar against Gary Giacomini, with the possibility of John F. West's being the third man in the contest.

Three Rival Campaign Reform Measures Clash

By ED DOOLEY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House supporters of campaign spending reform are worried about the effect of the furious partisan battle waged in the Senate over using tax funds to finance presidential campaigns. The House next week is to vote on new rules to govern the raising, spending and reporting of campaign money, and without bipartisan action there is little hope of true reform.

The $1 tax checkoff financing plan was backed by nearly all Senate Democrats against the wishes of Republicans and the White House. GOP House members already are working on strategy to scuttle the plan when it comes to the House.

But Democrats, led by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, are expected to back the campaign finance provisions attached by the Senate to the tax bill.

SUCH POLITICAL maneuvering "could not come at a worse time," according to a moderate Republican who has been leading a bipartisan effort to shape true reform out of the three reform bills pending in the House.

The measures each contain different spending limitations — primarily aimed at ending communications media advertising blitzes —but one bill would limit individual contributions which Republicans warn would prompt a presidential veto.

Despite the rhetoric, there has been little pressure in the House by either party for reform. Due to dalliance by both sides, House action was put off until the final weeks of the session.

With momentum building for adjournment, the House now faces a parliamentary quagmire. There are three competing sets of bills which must be reconciled by amendment and compromised with the Senate before Congress goes home for Christmas if final action is not to be delayed until 1972 —an election year.

THE CHIEF FEAR is that House members will override an attempt supported by GOP House leaders to repeal the equal time provision of the Communications Act for presidential and congressional candidates.

Word has been circulated by White House aides that unless the repeal includes House candidates, the reform legislation would be vetoed by President Nixon.

Republicans are backing the Senate-passed bill which repeals the equal time provision for all federal candidates, but the two chief sponsors of the House bills are bitterly opposed to repeal for House members. Rep. Torbert H. Macdonald, D-Mass., argues the provision "gives us the protection of equal broadcast time. If we give that up we would be turning over the country to the broadcasters."

Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, told the House that repeal would make the measure a "television announcer's bill" because they would "turn over to the television broadcasting stations in our districts the right to name the next congressman from that district, which they would do in many instances."

HAYES, MacDONALD and other House members worry that without the equal time provision —which inhibits TV debates —broadcasters could give unlimited free time to candidates they support.

Supporters of repeal for all federal candidates maintain broadcasters would be fair and if the presidential candidates are to be allowed to debate so should House members and senators.

There is hope for a compromise. Representatives Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., and John B. Anderson, R-Ill., plan to seek repeal of equal time for President, vice president and Senate but not House candidates.

Under this plan, which the White House does not support, the Federal Communications Commission would conduct a study and recommend after the 1972 elections whether to include repeal for House candidates.

The vote on the equal time provision could serve as an early indication of the sentiment for campaign reform.

Millionaire Contradicts Billionaire

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Billionaire oilman H.L. Hunt's prediction that America will "fall to the Communists" within three years was contradicted flatly Friday by another wealthy capitalist, W. Clement Stone, head of the Combined Insurance Co. of America.

Stone, 69, whose assets total around $400 million, said a more immediate danger is socialism — communism "doesn't have a chance for many, many years" in this country.

Hunt, one of the world's wealthiest men, said in a news conference here earlier this month that there would be a "Red takeover" in the United States very soon if policies didn't change.

Two Cars Are Reported Stolen

The burglary of an automobile at the parking lot of the Meadow Club, above Fairfax, and another at the parking lot of the Memorial Theater on Mount Tamalpais were reported by the Marin County sheriff's office Saturday.

Deputies said two coats, valued at a total of $220 were taken Nov. 19 or Nov. 20 from a car owned by Constance G. Payne of 260 Ricardo Road while the car was parked at the Meadow Club.

Camera equipment and a purse, valued at a total of $830, were taken Thursday from a car owned by Alfredo Eisenberg of El Cerrito parked on Mount Tamalpais, deputies said.

Reading Problems Probed

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)— Some high school students can hardly read the writing on their diplomas.

Beginning next month, a committee of the legislature will begin a serious effort to determine the causes of reading problems and how to cure them.

Officials said it has been shown there are more than 4 million American adults who cannot even read and understand what is on a driver's license.

Rep. James J. A. Gallagher, chairman of the House Education Committee, said his group will meet in early December and begin a special investigation into the matter.

The group will hold public hearings and employ a national, professional survey, such as the Gallup poll, to determine the extent of reading deficiencies among Pennsylvanians.

A resolution calling for the investigation was approved by the full House on Nov. 9.

"Pupils are passed from grade to grade and manage to graduate from high schools," Gallagher said, "Sometimes without even the basic reading skills associated with the primary grades.

"We feel we need a professional survey outside of the Pennsylvania Department of Education to see how far this practice has gone in Pennsylvania."

Gallagher said the study would be done by an outside firm instead of the state.

"On a critical question like this," he said, "you must have somebody outside the system — not those actually involved. The education department says they have statistics now, but we have never seen them."

Gallagher said he had contacted the Gallup Co., natonally-known pollsters, about conducting the survey. He said the firm quotes a figure "under $100,000" for the job.

Gallagher said a national poll by Lou Harris showed 4.3 million American adults are too illiterate to understand even a third of the items encountered on driver's license, social security, bank loan, medicaid or public assistance applications.

According to the resolution, which Gallagher authored, the figures "reflect a national phenomenon —demonstrated by tests, surveys, prison and employment service files, military induction statistics, and other indicators —which there is no reason to believe Pennsylvania does not share."

Gallagher said the committee would give special attention to phonetic reading, an alternate method to the traditional sight reading technique. It teaches children to read by first recognizing sounds and their relation-

Students Like Drink Over Dope

CHICAGO (UPI)—A survey of the nation's top 23,000 high school students showed they prefer alcohol to marijuana although 76 per cent said they had never smoked it.

They also believed—50 per cent of them—that sex before marriage was all right under certain conditions, but 35 per cent were opposed to it.

The survey was conducted by Merit Publishing Co. The students participating came from 18,000 public, private, and parochial high schools.

The students gave the same top priorities for the nation as they had given in last year's survey. They were:

—End the Southeast Asian war.

—Eliminate pollution.

—Continue the war on poverty.

The survey showed that "drinking is a heck of a lot more prevalent than the use of drugs," according to Merit president Paul Krouse.

Of the 24 per cent that said they had tried marijuana, only six per cent said they used it more than once or twice. Sixty per cent opposed its use while 30 per cent approved it.

Krouse said 80 per cent of the students surveyed were seniors, 20 per cent juniors, with 96 per cent college bound.

The students favored Democrats to Republicans with 34 per cent saying they identified "most closely" with the Democrates. Thirty four per cent said they were independents, while only 20 per cent listed themselves Republicans.

It is estimated that one-third of this country's population spends some leisure time with horses; riding them and betting on or watching them.

TALK IS OF SKIING

Arab Daily Life: Little War Signs

BEIRUT (UPI)—Another war in the Middle East might be just around the corner, but it is hard to find any signs of it in the daily life of the Arab world.

In Lebanon, colored Christmas lights are being strung across Beirut's fashionable Rue Hamra, where boutiques called "Vroom," "Capucine" and "Playboy" offer the latest Paris fashions at the lateest Paris prices.

A rash of British-style "pubs" —the latest fashion in trend-conscious Beirut—throb with Lebanese socialites and resident Westerners drinking imported London draught beers at 78 cents a pint.

As for the war, that's Egypt's problem.

UPI correspondent Maurice Guindi reports from Cairo that there is a schizophrenic attitude even there.

Since Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's Nov. 20-21 speeches announcing his potion for battle, there has been a flurry of activity to implement military, civil and popular defense plans to prepare Egypt for a resumption of fighting.

Travelers reaching Beirut report Egyptian troops have been placed on standby alert and leave has been cancelled for the armed forces.

Interior Minister Mamdouh Salem ordered a partial blackout and the Cairo press said all able-bodied students would undergo military training starting in January.

But the capital presents the usual picture of an overcrowded city of five million—suffering from traffic jams, congested sidewalks and all the other problems of 20th century urban life.

Libya and Syria have donned masks of official gravity.

A decree issued in Tripoli set in motion measures for immediate establishment of the "people's resistance forces" to take charge of civil defense and protection of public installations.

In Syria, President Hafez Assad paid two visits in two days to Syrian military camps and a local newspaper said war was inevitable.

But Ali Baba's Restaurant in Damascus continues to sell its speciality—frogs' legs imported from France—and Lebanese and Syrians commute across their joint border like British businessmen travelling to London from Brighton or an American shuttling between New York and Scarsdale.

Jordan is notably unalert, though it has a lengthy frontier facing Israeli occupation forces. King Hussein said in a recent television interview his country would not join in any new Middle East war unless there is "adequate coordination" among the ARab states.

The rulers of Iraq are swelling with self-importance as Sadat turns increasingly to their long-held line that a popular war of liberation is the only answer to Isreli occupation.

Arabs in striped galibeyehs plod down the city's muddy, windswept roads and eat mutton stew from zinc bathtubs in the shadow of grandiose monuments erected by successive Socialist regimes.

The Arabs are a long way from the coming battle, and the average man does not get excited about a cause such as Palestine which he feels has little to

Miracle Coating Replaces House Paint for 15 Years

Los Angeles, Calif.

Another boon of the space age has been accomplished for the home owner . . . an exterior wall coating so tough and durable that it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 15 years. This remarkable textured coating is asbestos KENITEX.

The Atomic Energy Commission has used KENITEX texture Coating for several years at Los Alamos, New Mexico, atomic plant. Thousands of gallons of this remarkable exterior surfacing have been applied to provide weatherproofing and beauty, far outlasting ordinary paint.

Over 1,000,000 KENITEX applications on homes, commercial and industrial buildings throughout the world, 10,000 in Southern California alone, remain in perfect condition after more than 15 years exposure in all weather extremes.

The Veterans' Administration, Sawtelle, in Los Angeles, has applied KENITEX to the exteriors of their buildings. The Kenitex coating is applied in one quick spray application without muss, fuss or odor — at a thickness 20 times that of ordinary paint. It fills holes, cracks and hides building defects, yet does not conceal the original architectural lines.

Homes and Guided Missiles
Unique among KENITEX applications is the use on guided missiles where its insulating properties shield the missile from extreme temperatures. KENITEX obtains these qualities from its basic components of asbestos, mica and perlite, which are noted for their insulation and durability.

Shot From a Gun
KENITEX is guaranteed for 15 years against chipping, flaking or peeling . . . it is extremely flexible and withstands all normal building expansion and contraction. Actually, "Shot from a Gun" KENITEX fuses to the sidewalls in a variety of beautiful decorator colors.

Free Estimates
Local applications of this remarkable coating are made by the Golden Gate Bldr's Inc. licensed and approved applicators. Cost is surprisingly low — convenient terms can be arranged. Home owners can obtain free estimates without obligations, by calling 776-4453 or mail coupon herewith.

TWA's AMBASSADOR SERVICE. IT TOOK A YEAR TO PERFECT IN AMERICA AND NOW WE'RE BRINGING IT TO EUROPE, THE PACIFIC AND THE FAR EAST.

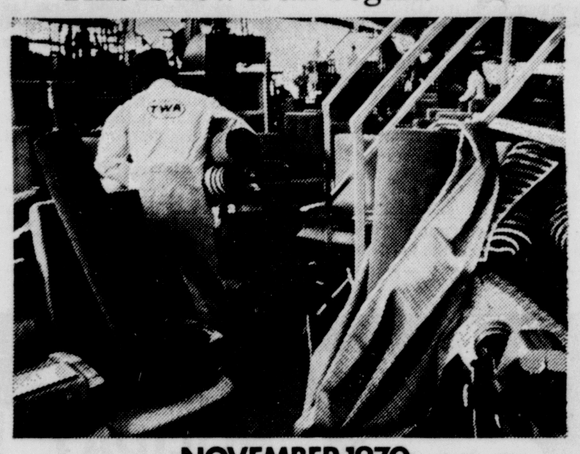
DECEMBER 1ST.
TWA EXPANDS AMBASSADOR SERVICE TO EUROPE AND THE PACIFIC.

After a year of expanding and improving Ambassador Service across the United States, TWA is ready to introduce Ambassador Service to the world.

International travellers will now enjoy new planes, new twin seats, choice of entrees, in short everything that has made Ambassador Service the success it is today.

It all started a year ago, when we put into effect a program designed to give our passengers a whole new way to fly across the United States.

This is how it all began:



NOVEMBER 1970.
TWA INTRODUCES NEW REFURNISHED PLANES.

We ripped out all the interiors of our 707s, and put in new seats, new fabrics, new colors, new carpets, new everything.

CHOICE OF MOVIES...

On all movie flights, only TWA gives you a choice of two first-run movies. One for general audiences. One for mature.

1. Movies and alcoholic beverages available at nominal cost in coach. Movies by Inflight Motion Pictures, Inc.

CHOICE OF INTERNATIONAL MEALS...

NEW TWIN SEAT IN COACH...

If the plane's not full, our new Twin Seat can be two across or even a couch.

TWA GROUND AMBASSADOR...

If passengers have the slightest problem at all, there's a TWA Ground Ambassador waiting to help solve it.

AND CONTAINERIZED BAGGAGE.

Containerized Baggage is the safest, most modern way for your luggage to travel without getting banged around, lost or arriving late.

In fact, passengers found that their luggage travelled in almost as much comfort as they did.

APRIL 1971.
WHAT TWA DID FOR COACH, TWA DOES FOR FIRST CLASS.

We completely redesigned our first class sections on all 707s. We put in new seats, new carpets, new fabrics, new everything.

JUNE 1971.
NEW HOSTESS UNIFORMS.

SEPTEMBER 1971.

First TWA introduced its big spacious 747 coach lounge.

Then TWA introduced its smaller, more intimate 707 coach lounge.

OCTOBER 1971.

While every other airline was promising new low fares all over the place, TWA gave you this guarantee:

"TWA guarantees that no scheduled airline will take you to any TWA city, across the United States or around the world, for less money than TWA.

TWA WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD

"In addition, if you buy your ticket now, and TWA lowers the price of your flight any time before you take off, TWA guarantees to pay you back the difference in full."

When you fly TWA, we guarantee you the lowest prices available to the general public for the same service and routes.

TWA's PRIVATE CUSTOMS.

And of course, when you return, TWA is still one of the few airlines to have U.S. Customs and Immigration facilities in its own terminal Flight Wing #1 at JFK.

DECEMBER 1971.
TWA GIVES AMBASSADOR SERVICE TO THE WORLD.

So now, whether you're going across the United States, across the Atlantic or across the Pacific, take a TWA Ambassador Flight.

No other airline gives you anything like it.

Call your travel agent or TWA.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS BATTLER

She Didn't Intend To Be A Lawyer

By JOAN LISETOR

When Cecilia Lannon was a student at Hastings College of the Law her plan was to do legal work for the poor as a sideline.

Because she spoke Italian she was able to get a job as a clerk in the San Francisco Neighborhood Legal Assistance North Beach office, which opened while she was a student. Her interest in poverty law grew, she says, and she stayed on in the NLA office after graduation and passing the California State Bar examination until a spot opened on the Legal Aid Society of Marin's staff two years ago.

"I didn't consciously choose the position, but I have become a woman's rights lawyer because it is difficult to separate the two in poverty law," says the Texas-born, Millbrae-reared attorney. "Problems of the poor often are the same as problems of women, since 60 per cent of the poor (incomes less than $3,000 per year) are women."

CECILIA SAYS she is a crusader for the weakest group in America, poor, minor women or more specifically, poor, pregnant minors (under 21).

She represents "Alice," a 19-year-old Marin resident who was denied a Medi-Cal card by authorities in Marin and Butte counties, where she attends school, because she was pregnant. Alice is the plaintiff in a caseagainst the California State Department of Social Welfare, which her attorney hopes will strike down a directive that requires that before aid is granted an unwed, pregnant minor, the county must notify the parents to determine if they have financial ability to pay for her needs.

"We are not challenging the abortion laws," explains Cecilia, "because this directive also applies to minor women seeking pre-natal care."

The case, brought on behalf of "Alice and all other similarly situated," has a trial date of Dec. 8 in Sacramento.

"ALICE IS a real fighter," says Cecilia. "She was so confused and teary when she first came to the office. She wanted to have an abortion, couldn't afford it and was afraid of what effect the news would have on her mother because she is not well."

Alice, who had an abortion in March, allowed on a temporary court ruling, will testify at the trial, says her attorney, but she has been promised anonymity.

"If she loses, someone could call her mother and say, 'Your daughter had an abortion, can you pay for it?'"

"Middle class women have resources and know where to turn, but the poor have no expertise," Cecilia says.

"Abortion is just one problem the poor woman must face. Another big one is discrimination in hiring," says the attorney, who says she never set out to be a woman's rights lawyer.

CECILIA LANNON, Legal Aid Society of Marin attorney, says she never set out to be a woman's rights attorney, but the field of poverty law is difficult to separate from women's problems, since 60 per cent of poor persons are women, she says.

Europe Diverse On Marriage

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — European areas showed diverse marriage trends, according to Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The marriage rate for the period between 1960-64 and 1969 or 1970, where available, increased in 10 countries, decreased in 11, and showed little change in Denmark and Yugoslavia. In the Netherlands the newlywed rate of increase is the highest in all of Europe — 18.8 per cent. Bulgaria recorded the lowest rate of increase in all of Europe — 4.8 per cent.

In Romania and Sweden the rate of marriages decreased by 25.8 and 25.4 per cent respectively. Sweden reported the lowest rate of marriage in all Europe last year — 5.3 per 1,000 population compared with an annual average of 7.1 in 1960-64. The Soviet Union's current marriage rate of 9.7 per 1,000 population is the highest of any European nation, but represents only a slight upswing following several years of a downward trend there, the statisticians note.

As for the Middle East and Asia, only Israel and Japan have reported complete marriage statistics for the past 10 years. Israel's rate of increase, the highest of any country reviewed, is 32.9 per cent, while Japan's is a relatively low 3.1 per cent, according to the study.

New Ideas For Wedding Dress Theme

Two leading bridal gown designer firms have come up with some new versions of the traditional dress for spring and summer weddings.

Priscilla of Boston uses themes from the Chinese and Victorian in separate ways. The cap-sleeved white organza is designed with a Mandarin neckline, accented with Venice flowers. The Victorian influence shows in her portrait neckline dresses in tucked lawn and lace.

Priscilla also has a Dolman sleeved capelet dress in English net, embroidered with the traditional Alencon lace.

Her dresses flare gently away from the body and end with court trains.

Spring for Frank Masandrea of Bridal Couture Ltd. means scooped ruffled bodices, V yokes, flounces upon flounces and pinafore fronts. He says they are all inspired by heirloom Victorian dresses, but have an updated style.

JoAnn Schendel Weds In San Anselmo Rite

JoAnn Schendel became the bride of William Burnett of San Rafael in an afternoon ceremony Nov. 20 at St. Anselm's Church in San Anselmo.

Following a wedding trip to Mexico City and Acapulco they will live in San Rafael.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Schendel of San Rafael, JoAnn chose her sister, Mrs. Fred Canney of Novato, as her honor attendant. The bridesmaids were Vicki Lenzi of San Anselmo and Mrs. Craig Piro of Novato.

Robert W. Burnett of Mountain View served his brother as best man. Seating the guests were Robert Prigmore of San Diego and Thomas Anderson of Newport Beach.

The bride is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and she attended College of Marin. William G. Schendel Jr. of Novato is her brother.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Burnett of Newport Beach are William's parents. He was graduated from Newport Harbor High School and Long Beach State College.

Both JoAnn and William are employed with the Ancient Mariner restaurant in Strawberry Town and Country shopping center.

Chance To Appear In Film

Another group of 100 Marin women who will get their chance to appear in the film, "The Candidate," are members of the Sunny Hills Bargain Box Auxiliary.

They will be on hand, suited, gloved and hatted, along with the members of the Social Service Auxiliary of Marin, tomorrow morning for a scene with film star Robert Redford at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

Social Service Auxiliary members were having trouble locating hats, and the Bargain Box volunteers have offered to have them come search through the Bargain Box stock, to the benefit of Sunny Hills.

Putting On The Panty Hose

Don't smoke or wear sharp things while you put on your panty hose, advises Betty Curry, fashion director for a hosiery company. Dribbles of cigarette ash, chunky rings and sharp fingernails are responsible for many needless runs.

If you can't remove sharp rings, or your hands are calloused or your finger nails menacing, wear gloves when you touch your panty hose.

Make It Easier

To make things easier, remember that 1/4 pound of cheese will equal one cup when shredded.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

The Tactless Bride Should Just Be Scratched From Your Books

DEAR HELEN:

I was recently invited to a wedding and sent the bride and bridegroom a lovely wool blanket. We are more business acquaintances than close friends.

Today the blanket was returned to me with a note from the girl saying she uses only electric blankets, but thanks anyway.

The name of the store where I purchased it was clearly on the box. Inasmuch as she could have exchanged my gift for another, but chose not to, am I obligated to buy her another present? — A.B.

DEAR A.:

Absolutely not!

Such tactlessness deserves a write-off in your books. I wouldn't even send them a Christmas card! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

In your letters from wives about "Other Women," every wife seems to think the O.W. is always single and looking for a husband — hers.

Well, I am a married "other woman" and my "other man" is also married. Our relationship is very special. He is a wonderful person and I think the world of him, but I wouldn't leave my husband for him, nor would he leave his wife for me — though he loves me deeply.

Neither of us feels ashamed, or guilty. Our mates are happy with us — and we're able to make our home lives better since we have the added excitement of knowing we are wanted "outside."

Is there anything so wrong with this? — HAPPY O.W.

DEAR HAPPY:

Don't ask me — ask your (legal) mates. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

What's with these people who get so uptight because women want to change their formal title from "Mrs." or "Miss" to "Ms."? Why must we be classified as married or single when all men are "Mr." no matter what their marital status?

Until my husband signs himself "M-Mr." (for "Married Mister") I'll be — MS. SANDRA JONES-SMITH, NOT MRS. TOM SMITH

P.S. Not my real name.

DEAR SANDRA:

You'll always find people who feel threatened by change — but you'll also find a lot of us who think "Ms." is a happy solution. For many years I've been using "Ms." when I wasn't sure whether my business correspondent was a married or single career girl.

Here's a quote from a newspaper editor: "We doubt that there is a newspaper in the land that would not readily adopt the 'Ms.' system, if we could get away with it. It is forever a pain in the journalist's side trying to find out whether Mary Jones, involved in a wreck or some such, is Miss or Mrs. Thus, when time and other factors prevent a check, we've had to resort to such absurd double talk as "The Jones woman was given a citation,' or 'the Jones car's driver was cited,' which not only is awkward but looks as if we are bordering on illiteracy."

Our editor carries equality one step further. He suggests that the formal title "Mrs. John Jones" (on which most newspapers insist) be abandoned in favor of Mary Jones (No Mrs., Miss, or Ms.) and, in second reference, she could simply be referred to as "Jones." Males have no "Mr." in front of their names, he says. Why then are women so special — on the printed page?

Somehow I don't think nonliberated women will go for this suggestion. — H.

Child Abuse Problem Grows

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — A father or mother flings an infant against a wall. Child is rushed to hospital, treated and kept there until his fractured skull mends.

What then?

That question is a source of growing concern nationwide as doctors, social workers, judges and others turn their attention to the plight of the battered child.

Dr. John E. Allen, chairman of the American Academy of Pediatrics' subcommittee on child abuse, says the problem of the battered child is "out of control and growing."

Thirty-four battered children have died in New York City since January, according to estimates from the Medical Examiner's office.

NO ONE knows the exact awful toll since many of the battered children's fatal injuries go down as "accidents." Conservatively, authorities estimate that for every million Americans there are 300 battered children in a year. These are reported cases only. For every reported case, authorities estimate there are others.

Mrs. Barbara Blum, assistant administrator of the Human Resources Administration of New York, is among those dealing with the battered child syndrome. Like many in the front lines, she is concerned with what she calls "slippages."

In an interview she defined "slippage" as losing control of the child's destiny once the child is released from the hospital. Red tape in the social welfare agencies and in the courts prevents the children from receiving the protective attnetion they need. Dr. Allen, professor of pediatrics at the Downstate Medical Center of the State University of New York in Brooklyn, also is distressed over "slippage."

When the child is given attention in fits and starts by a multitude of agencies he explained, it is not unusual for that child to be readmitted later to the hospital, in battered condition once more.

AS THE problem grows in intensity, much is happening to help the battered child — and his family. The American Academy of Pediatrics soon will implement a three-point program calling for:

—More unified control of the battered child so slippage does not occur. This would come through diagnostic and treatment centers.

—Hotlines or crisis intervention centers in communities so the uptight parent can reach for a phone and get help instead of venting anger on a child.

—Treatment and rehabiliatation centers for the battering parents. It is hoped that in up to 75 per cent of the cases the child and parents can be reunited.

The trend is to help the family as well as the child. Dr. C. Henry Kempe and Dr. Ray E. Helfer, top authorities on the battered child, discuss programs for helping the families in a book that will be out in January.

In "Helping the Battered Child and His Family" they define the child this way: "Any child who received nonaccidental physical injury or injuries as a result of acts or omissions on the part of his parents or guardians."

Dr. Helfer is associate professor, department of human development, college of human medicine, Michigan State University, East Lansing. Dr. Kempe is chairman, department of pediatrics, University of Coloardo Medical Center, Denver.

THE DOCTORS report that before a parent or parents can have the potential to abuse, there must be an abusive pattern acquired over the years. It is made up of at least four factors:

"The way the parents themselves were reared. Did they receive the mothering imprint — love?

"Have they become very isolated individuals who cannot trust or use others?"

"Do they have a spouse that is so passive he or she cannot give?

"Do they have unrealistic expectations from their child or children?"

The child who is abused must be a special child, according to the two authorities. This is one who is seen differently by his parents, one who fails to respond in the expected manner; or possibly one who really is different retarded, too smart, hyperactive, or has a birth defect.

But all of these factors together don't add up to a battered child. There must be a crisis, something that sets the abusive act into motion.

Dr. Helfer said this may be a minor or major crisis — a washing machine breaking down, a lost job, a husband being drafted, no heat, no food, a mother-in-law's visit. The crisis is the precipitating factor.

All too often, according to the doctors, children and their families find themselves without any meaningful treatment program because of disagreement over whether or not abuse has occurred.

"Our recommendation in this situation is to get off the 'did-it-occur' or 'who-done-it-kick', and get on with helping the child and his troubled family," they said.

"We are rapidly moving toward the point when, by early recognition of the potential to abuse small children, a treatment program can begin even before the child is born — and possibly even before the child is conceived."

SUCCESS IN helping the battered child depends on breaking the cycle of conditions, from generation to generation, that produces parents with a tendency to abuse their children. Poverty is one part of the cycle, although those in the ghetto have no exclusive rights to the battered child.

Dr. Allen said no one knows how extensive the problem is in suburbia but he guesses it's at least as widespread. He said it does not get as much attention because many of the cases are not reported.

Dr. Helfer said among the good things already happening on behalf of the battered child and his family are several programs.

In Los Angeles a group of mothers who have abused their children have formed Mothers Anonymous. It's a group therapy situation organized along the lines of Alcoholics Anonymous and has been in action nearly two years. Dr. Helfer said it will be going nationwide soon.

In Boston there is a day care program for abusive parents. In Denver, there is a parent aid program that gets Foster Grandparents in on the action aimed at helping the troubled parents. In Michigan a program about to start will make use of local mental health programs.

"The large majority of abusive parents can be helped and their homes made safe for their children," said Helfer.

By ROBERT CRABBE

TOKYO (UPI)—Is Communist China embarking on a new kind of cultural revolution by dressing women in femine clothes?

The suggestion that Chinese women may be shedding the drab slacks that have been their hallmark since the 1949 revolution came in two news pictures from China received in Tokyo.

Both showed Chinese women dressed for festive occasions in skirts and blouses, the first pictures of the type seen in Japan in several years.

ONE OF the two photographs was printed in Jimin Hoshi (Peoples Star), newspaper of a new Communist party sponsored in Japan by the Chinese, a party at odds with the regular Japanese Communist party.

The picture accompanied a story about a visit by Masayoshi Fukuda, head of the Chinese-backed splinter party, to an oil refinery complex near Peking.

The real eyecatchers, however, were the women employes of the refinery who were sent out to greet him. All wore bright colored print skirts and white blouses. The skirts were full and didn't do much for the figures of the wearers, and most of them had hemlines well below the knees.

Most of the women wore flat, Western type shoes with a single strap over the instep. They had white anklets rather than Western stockings. The majority wore their hair in twin braids.

The Communists have played down the feminine mystique in China, except for the lavishly dressed women who appear in some old Chinese operas.

JAPANESE TRAVELERS in Peking usually report seeing women exclusively in slacks, with no cosmetics. Public spooning by lovers is out, and even those on benches in public parks seem to sit at least a foot apart.

Tokyo got one of its few looks at Chinese women after the revolution in 1963 when a small number accompanied a Chinese delegation to Gensuikyo, Japan's leading ban-the-bomb organization. They were dressed in skirts with the hem about halfway between the knee and the ankle. The skirts had slits a few inches long extending up from the hems.

Quant's Designs More Natural

Mary Quant's cut-out designs for spring are softer and more natural than the geometric cut outs of the '60s, according to Women's Wear Daily.

Her designs have bare backs and halter necklines, and she crosses straps across the back for more cut outs. Fronts feature bare midriffs.

Laundering Tip

When laundering wash and wear draperies and curtains, take snap clothes pins and clip the pleats together at the top when you hang them out to dry. They will not separate when dry and will look as though they have been professionally pressed.

Men's Boutique

The Bonwit Teller store in Philadelphia will open a boutique for men employing both men and women as barbers, according to Women's Wear Daily.

Tweed Revived

The fragrance Tweed is being revived by its brand owner, Yardley of London, reports Women's Wear Daily. Tweed, which faded from the perfume scene years ago, will be brought back as a part of the era of fashion nostalgia, the firm has announced.

The Early Bird

Early christmas shoppers find shelves full, crowds thin and clerks still in a good humor. The early birds also have plenty of time to wrap presents at their leisure, avoiding those desperate last-minute short circuits to the nervous system.

Play Day Will Be On Dec. 23

A holiday play day for 5 to 12-year-olds will be held Dec. 23 from noon until 4 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

Sponsored by Marin YWCA, the playday will feature games, pinata breaking, entertainment, refreshments and Christmas ornament making.

The Turtle Tee Look For Slopes

The skier's world includes the T-bar — which helps him get up the slopes. And his and her fashion wardrobe includes something else that starts with a T — the Tee shirt.

Meant for wearing under parkas, the Tee shirts include some in turtle necks. They're called Turtle Tees. They come in polyester prints, geometrics and solids.

'Mature' Women's Interest On College Credits Grows

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Labor Department says there is a growing interest on the part of "mature" women in the country to return to college.

For adult women interested in going back to school part time or for evening classes in a wide range of subjects, the Women's Bureau has published a pamphlet listing colleges and schools with special programs for women, state by state.

The brochure —"Continuing Education Programs and Services for Women" —may be purchased from the Government Printing Office in Washington for 70 cents.

The pamphlet says that more and more women want to return to college to "develop their understanding of the complexities of modern life.

"There is widespread realization that additional education can bring deeper personal enrichment as well as job skills useful in the working world," it said.

Colleges throughout the nation are offering refresher courses, as well as new courses to teach job skills in professions where there have been scientific and technological advances.

In 1969 there were 30.5 million women workers 16 or older, compared to 18.4 million in 1950.

The chances of a woman's getting a job can be expected to increase with the level of her formal education, the bureau said.

The courses being offered are not all satisfactory according to the pamphlet. It said that some women with recent experience in university courses were critical of the methodology and content of the classes, feeling they were aimed strictly at teenagers. "Such courses do not satisfy women with considerable life experience," it said.

The most frequent request of the surveyed alumni was for individual counseling.

Broad Assault On Sales Gyps Due

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — A court decision here last week has cleared the way for a broad assault by a promising organization of concerned businessmen known as the Countil of Better Business Bureaus (CBBB) on unethical selling practices.

The court decision involved a CBBB report on chain distribution schemes originally issued two years ago by the national office of the Better Business Bureaus. The CBBB, a consolidation of all BBB groups formed last year, wanted to issue an updated version of the report.

Holiday Magic Inc., the San Rafael based cosmetic firm, sought a court order to bar release of the report. The firm called the report "an attempt to fabricate testimony" in a case brought against the company by the state of Wisconsin.

The CBBB maintained that such a court order would do "irreparable damages to the Council of Better Business Bureaus Inc.'s reporting responsibilities to the public . . ."

The council said the proposed report was in line with the "historic role" of BBBs in issuing warnings to consumers and businessmen whenever the need arises.

It added that there had been a "dramatic increase in the frequency of requests for information about chain distribution activities" since the report was first issued. It said that hundreds of requests for the report added urgency to getting it published.

THE REPORT does not mention any company by name. It simply advises people to be wary of chain distribution schemes offered by some multi-level selling companies.

It describes a typical "opportunity meeting" for a get-rich-quick plan of investing money and recruiting friends and neighbors to do the same. Prospects are told they can quickly recoup their investment.

"If this has been your introduction to a multi-level selling plan," says the CBBB report, "Hold on — you are well on the way to being separated from your money."

Before you withdraw your savings or borrow money to join the plan, says the report, investigate it thoroughly. Such schemes are likened to the old chain letters of the '30s, the pyramid clubs of the '40s and the referral plans of the '50s and '60s.

Concentrating mostly on people of limited business knowledge and limited means, multi-level selling schemes have victimized thousands of people to the tune of many millions of dollars. In one New York scheme, only 79 of the 1,604 investors made more than $5,000 despite claims that all investors could make $100,000 a year.

EARLIER THIS year, the Federal Trade Commission proposed a complaint against Koscot Interplanetary Inc., another multi-level selling plan involving the sale of cosmetics, and Dare-to-be-Great, a self-motivation course based at the same location in Orlando, Fla.

Koscot and Dare-to-be-Great also have been the subjects of legal action by at least 30 state agencies, according to the CBBB.

The CBBB report lists nine guidelines for people thinking of joining door-to-door sales plans. They warn against plans based primarily on recruitment, and praise those based primarily on sales (such as those of Avon, Bestline and Amway). In case you have questions, the BBBs stand ready to answer them. So do federal and state law enforcement agencies.

Earlier this month, the FTC proposed a trade rule which would require firms offering franchises to disclose detailed information of the type not always revealed to prospective buyers of the franchises.

The agency lists 27 specific items of information to be furnished "in a clear, permanent and straight-forward form." They include:

The franchisor's business experience and financial history.

Any civil or criminal actions against the firm.

All fees a franchisee must pay and the average of them during the previous 12 months.

The conditions under which a franchise may be terminated.

If training is offered, the number of instruction hours and biographies of the instructors.

Franchisors would also have to allow a 10-day "cooling-off" period in which a person could cancel the contract and get his money back.

The FTC has issued a call for comments from the public. Deadline for them is Feb. 7. The agency also plans to hold public hearings on the matter at its headquarters in Washington, D.C., Feb. 14, 15 and 16.

FABRIC SECRETS

JOAN CROSSLEY

What cause pilling in some fabrics? During wear, it seems, the fiber ends gradually work up into the surface. With only normal wear, all these little ends seem to roll themselves into tiny hard balls — these are the "pills". These balls, which are of course, still very much attached to the fabric, catch on other surfaces and form more pills. What to do? Careful laundering may help slightly. Above all, remember to turn these garments inside out. This will result in less friction and smoother surfaces. When looking for drapery and upholstery fabric the place to shop is FABRIC LAND, 836 4th Street., where there is always a vast selection of outstanding fabrics to compliment all kinds of furnishings. We also have a shop at home decorating service for your convenience. Hours: 9:30 AM - 5:30 PM Mon-Tues-Thurs-Sat., 9:30 AM - 9 PM Wed-Fri. Noon - 5 PM Sundays.

HELPFUL HINT:

Pills may be removed with scissors if you are careful to avoid cutting the fabric.

The hand of the year was played in New Orleans a few weeks ago in the finals of a playoff conducted to select the United States team for the 1972 Bridge Olympics. The hand, with some of the world's greatest players participating, featured a squeeze, a rejected end play and a psychological battle. Get ready for some deep thinking.

A LOW SPADE

Bobby Wolff, of the Dallas Aces (winners of the match), opened the five of spades from the West hand. Edgar Kaplan won in the South hand with the ten.

Kaplan led a diamond to dummy and returned a club to finesse with the ten, losing to the queen. This developed a club trick while keeping East out of the lead.

If Wolff made a "safe" club return, Kaplan would discover the bad diamond break and would see the need for two heart tricks. By playing West for K-Q of hearts, South would eventually make his contract.

DARES DECLARER

Foreseeing this, Wolff dared declarer by returning the deuce of hearts. It seemed unlikely to South that West would risk this lead if he had both of the missing high hearts; moreover there were other plays for the contract. Kaplan therefore stepped up with dummy's ace of hearts.

Declarer then took two high diamonds and the rest of the clubs but had to squeeze his own hand on the last club. If South discarded a spade, West would keep A-Q of spades and two high hearts. When Kaplan actually discarded a heart, West kept three hearts and the singleton ace of spades. Down one.

REJECTS PLAY

South rejected a late play for his contract. After putting up the ace of hearts, he might lead a diamond to the queen, discovering the bad break. Now, needing a second heart trick, he cashes ace and king of clubs and leads a low heart toward dummy's jack. West can take the two high hearts, but must then yield a trick to the king of spades or the ten of hearts.

I warned you this called for deep thinking.

♥ - A J 3
♦ - A K 8 2
♣ - A 9 5 2.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one no-trump. This bid promises 16 to 18 points in high cards, balanced distribution and strength in at least three suits. The textbooks tell you not to bid one no-trump with a doubleton as weak as the spades, but most experts would disregard the textbooks.

Dance And Drama Will Be Presented

RUE LEPIC, PARIS — This painting of turn-of-the-century Paris is from the internationally collected exhibition of Edouard Vuillard's paintings, lithographs and drawings, the largest ever seen in the United States and currently at San Francisco's Palace of the Legion of Honor.

ART REVIEW

By LAURA DEVENDORF

SAN FRANCISCO — Having spent a long, lovely afternoon at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor sharing "The Intimate World of Edouard Vuillard," Vuillard's public acceptance as a modern master seems very long overdue.

Always overshadowed by contemporaries such as his good friend Pierre Bonnard, and although he is now eagerly sought by collectors and museums, Vuillard's amusing, decorative and cozy views of French life from the 1880s into the 1900s, have been largely overlooked by the public.

This exhibition at the Legion of Honor should go a long way toward curing that oversight. Organized by the Art Gallery of Ontario, Toronto, and containing 96 paintings, 61 prints and 23 drawings from collections in Europe and North America, this Vuillard retrospective is the most important and comprehensive one ever held in this country.

And unlike many recent exhibitions, this one, with its warm human quality and its unyielding appreciation for the basics in life, makes you feel good inside from the beginning to the end of it.

There's a sort of lived-in clutter around everything Vuillard paints, humanizing his numerous interiors so that you can't help feeling at home with them. Flowers, furniture and bric-a-brac crowd his scenes of childhood making these moments even more tender and real. Ladies gossiping, a manicurist, or the many seamstresses he shows, all seem set in strong silhouette or in riotous patterned contrast against jungle-busy backgrounds.

Even the several expressive studies of the artist's mother, have such down-to-earth and friendly ornamentation that they never dip to mere sentimentality.

This strong decorative bent can be dazzling, as when Vuillard blocks plaid clad figures, ornamental china, paintings, busily patterned rugs, furniture and miscellany against a wall papered in minute flowers and topped with stripes. And part of the intrinsic joy of experiencing a Vuillard comes from the assault on the senses of such decoration.

Another, more subtle strength stems from the theories Vuillard shared with his contemporaries who called themselves "The Nabis." (Nabi is the Hebrew word for prophet.) In the beginning they were devotees of Gauguin and maintained a credo that "a picture — before being a horse, a nude or an anecdote — is essentially a flat surface covered with colors assembled in a certain order."

Vuillard's compositions reflect this statement, architectural in design outdoors and more subtle but with beautifully blocked spaces in his interiors.

Often too, there is a marvelous source of light, perhaps coming from a window, whitening the checks on the shoulders of a seamstress's blouse or, as in "Anna de Noailles," from a lamp, pouring peach-blushed brilliance on all it touches.

Vuillard's sensitive drawings and remarkable lithographs add further pleasures to this memorable retrospective, continuing through January 2 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

2 Inmates Died In Shoot-Out

The Independent-Journal erred Saturday in a story on the forthcoming move of Angela Davis to Santa Clara County in reporting that three San Quentin inmates died in the Aug. 7, 1970, Civic Center shoot-out.

Two inmates — James D. McClain and William Christmas — were killed — along with 17-year-old Jonathan P. Jackson and Marin Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley.

A third inmate, Ruchell, seriously wounded in the shootout, is awaiting trial, as is Miss Davis, in connection with the escape attempt.

Husband-Wife Singers Set Greenbrae Concert

Soprano Marian Marsh and baritone David Wade, husband-wife duo, will present a free public concert Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Tamalpais Residence Center, Greenbrae. James Groves will accompany at the piano.

Both singers have appeared as guest soloists with the College of Marin Concert and Lecture series, the Marin Symphony and the Winifred Baker Chorale.

Groves, who teaches piano and is organist-director at St. Luke's Presbyterian Church, San Rafael, will present his Jubil Handbell Choir at the Tamalpais on Dec. 19.

Saturday, the husband-wife duo will perform works by Purcell, Rossini, Weidlinger and Saint Saens. Songs by Brahms and Reger will be soprano solos and songs by Copland and Gounod baritone solos.

In 1927, at the zenith of their popularity, about 400 traveling tent theater companies in this country visited 16,000 communities and played to 78 million customers.

Finest Hand Of The Year Features Psychological Battle

The hand of the year was played in New Orleans a few weeks ago in the finals of a playoff conducted to select the United States team for the 1972 Bridge Olympics. The hand, with some of the world's greatest players participating, featured a squeeze, a rejected end play and a psychological battle. Get ready for some deep thinking.

Opening lead — ♠ 5

A LOW SPADE

Bobby Wolff, of the Dallas Aces (winners of the match), opened the five of spades from the West hand. Edgar Kaplan won in the South hand with the ten.

Kaplan led a diamond to dummy and returned a club to finesse with the ten, losing to the queen. This developed a club trick while keeping East out of the lead.

If Wolff made a "safe" club return, Kaplan would discover the bad diamond break and would see the need for two heart tricks. By playing West for K-Q of hearts, South would eventually make his contract.

DARES DECLARER

Foreseeing this, Wolff dared declarer by returning the deuce of hearts. It seemed unlikely to South that West would risk this lead if he had both of the missing high hearts; moreover there were other plays for the contract. Kaplan therefore stepped up with dummy's ace of hearts.

Declarer then took two high diamonds and the rest of the clubs but had to squeeze his own hand on the last club. If South discarded a spade, West would keep A-Q of spades and two high hearts. When Kaplan actually discarded a heart, West kept three hearts and the singleton ace of spades. Down one.

REJECTS PLAY

South rejected a late play for his contract. After putting up the ace of hearts, he might lead a diamond to the queen, discovering the bad break. Now, needing a second heart trick, he cashes ace and king of clubs and leads a low heart toward dummy's jack. West can take the two high hearts, but must then yield a trick to the king of spades or the ten of hearts.

I warned you this called for deep thinking.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one no-trump. This bid promises 16 to 18 points in high cards, balanced distribution and strength in at least three suits. The textbooks tell you not to bid one no-trump with a doubleton as weak as the spades, but most experts would disregard the textbooks.

RUE LEPIC, PARIS — This painting of turn-of-the-century Paris is from the internationally collected exhibition of Edouard Vuillard's paintings, lithographs and drawings, the largest ever seen in the United States and currently at San Francisco's Palace of the Legion of Honor.

ART REVIEW

By LAURA DEVENDORF

SAN FRANCISCO — Having spent a long, lovely afternoon at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor sharing "The Intimate World of Edouard Vuillard," Vuillard's public acceptance as a modern master seems very long overdue.

Always overshadowed by contemporaries such as his good friend Pierre Bonnard, and although he is now eagerly sought by collectors and museums, Vuillard's amusing, decorative and cozy views of French life from the 1880s into the 1900s, have been largely overlooked by the public.

This exhibition at the Legion of Honor should go a long way toward curing that oversight. Organized by the Art Gallery of Ontario, Toronto, and containing 96 paintings, 61 prints and 23 drawings from collections in Europe and North America, this Vuillard retrospective is the most important and comprehensive one ever held in this country.

And unlike many recent exhibitions, this one, with its warm human quality and its unyielding appreciation for the basics in life, makes you feel good inside from the beginning to the end of it.

There's a sort of lived-in clutter around everything Vuillard paints, humanizing his numerous interiors so that you can't help feeling at home with them. Flowers, furniture and bric-a-brac crowd his scenes of childhood making these moments even more tender and real. Ladies gossiping, a manicurist, or the many seamstresses he shows, all seem set in strong silhouette or in riotous patterned contrast against jungle-busy backgrounds.

Even the several expressive studies of the artist's mother, have such down-to-earth and friendly ornamentation that they never dip to mere sentimentality.

This strong decorative bent can be dazzling, as when Vuillard blocks plaid clad figures, ornamental china, paintings, busily patterned rugs, furniture and miscellany against a wall papered in minute flowers and topped with stripes. And part of the intrinsic joy of experiencing a Vuillard comes from the assault on the senses of such decoration.

Another, more subtle strength stems from the theories Vuillard shared with his contemporaries who called themselves "The Nabis," (Nabi is the Hebrew word for prophet.) In the beginning they were devotees of Gauguin and maintained a credo that "a picture — before being a horse, a nude or an anecdote — is essentially a flat surface covered with colors assembled in a certain order."

Vuillard's compositions reflect this statement, architectural in design outdoors and more subtle but with beautifully blocked spaces in his interiors.

Often too, there is a marvelous source of light, perhaps coming from a window, whitening the checks on the shoulders of a seamstress's blouse or, as in "Anna de Noailles," from a lamp, pouring peach-blushed brilliance on all it touches.

Vuillard's sensitive drawings and remarkable lithographs add further pleasures to this memorable retrospective, continuing through January 2 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

2 Inmates Died In Shoot-Out

The Independent-Journal erred Saturday in a story on the forthcoming move of Angela Davis to Santa Clara County in reporting that three San Quentin inmates died in the Aug. 7, 1970, Civic Center shoot-out.

Two inmates — James D. McClain and William Christmas — were killed — along with 17-year-old Jonathan P. Jackson and Marin Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley.

Raiders Smashed; 49ers Tip Jets To Recapture Lead

John Unitas Directs Colts' 37-14 Victory

OAKLAND (UPI) —John Unitas is back—all the way back—and the Baltimore Colts have their eye on Super Bowl VI.

With unrelenting precision and a dogged defense that intercepted six passes, the Colts routed Oakland 37-14 Sunday to hand the Raiders their worst loss since stumbling 38-7 to San Francisco in the final game last season.

Coaches John Madden of Oakland and Don McCafferty of Baltimore credited Unitas for the impressive victory that kept Baltimore alive in the Eastern Division of the American Football conference, the 38-year-old signal caller, starting his second straight game after missing most of the season with a shredded achilles tendon, ripped apart the Oakland defense with his pinpoint passes and play calling. "John did a marvelous job mixing up the plays, especially on that first march with the opening kickoff," said McCafferty. "It was one of the better games we have ever played.

"We needed the game badly and I am tickled to get it. Those interceptions helped."

"We just got whipped," said Madden. "They are the world champions. Sometime when you lose, you have to give credit to the other team.

Despite the shellacking, Madden said the Raider offense "wasn't as bad as it looked."

"As far as I could see, there was no breakdown in our offense," he added. "Their offense was just the best I've seen this year. And, naturally, their defense is tough.

"Now we have to guard against losing our confidence," said Madden as the Raiders cling to a half-game lead over runnerup Kansas City in the AFC West with a 7-2-2 record compared to the Chiefs' 7-3-1. Oakland closes out the season with games against Atlanta, Kansas City and Denver.

Baltimore is now 8-3 in the AFC East behind Miami, which has an 8-1-1 mark. The Colts hope they can either win the division or at least nail down the best runnerup record in the AFC by winning their remaining three games with Buffalo, Miami and New England.

Prospectors Survive Namath's Air Circus

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

NEW YORK — Ringo Starr's tune "You Know It Don't Come Easy" could have been written for the San Francisco 49ers.

The Prospectors regained the National Football Conference's Western Division lead with a heartstopping 24-21 win over the host New York Jets Sunday.

But the prospectors needed an interception in the waning moments to preserve a hard earned triumph over the Joe Namath-led Jets. Namath might have had doubts about his first outing of 1971 Sunday, but he might have been the only man who felt that way.

Namath completed 11 of 27 passes for 258 yards, including TD tosses of 57 and 20 yards to Rich Caster and 22 yards to Eddie Bell, and had it not been for a costly fumble by Steve Harkey in the end zone near the close of the first half, the Jets might have won it.

That fumble, which squirted out of Harkey's hands as he reached the goal line and rolled out of the end zone for a touchback, plus key interceptions by Bruce Taylor and Johnny Fuller enabled San Francisco to survive Namath's heroics and take over first place in the NFC's Western Division.

Namath didn't start the game

SPORT NOTES

Ray Of Joy Brightens Gloom At Coliseum

By RALPH CHATOIAN

As if Johnny Unitas had called the snap, hundreds of car doors swung open yesterday at 12:45 p.m. in the parking lot of the Oakland Coliseum.

At that moment in time, Lon Simmons' voice had screamed over the radio that Johnny Fuller had intercepted a Joe Namath pass and saved the game for the 49ers, 24-21. It came with only seconds left and put the Niners in first place over the hated Rams.

THE FANS clicked off the car radios and headed for the Coliseum. They went with smiles on their faces. They had just heard a great game on the radio and were full of anticipation for another great game. The good guys, the Oakland Raiders, were to play the world champion Baltimore Colts.

But it wasn't the Raiders' day. Johnny Unitas, wearing his black high top shoes rather than the flashy white low tops that Namath wears, sliced up the Raiders like a surgeon with a scalpel. When the thing was over on this gloomy, cloudy day, the Colts had bombed the Raiders, 37-14.

When the game started there were 54,689 fans in the Coliseum. By the time the fourth quarter started there were 34,000 fans and 187 sea gulls. The gulls seemed to be watching the game more intently than the disgusted fans.

I DON'T make many of the Raiders games because my allegiance with the 49ers goes back too far, and perhaps I put some kind of a jinx on the team. Yesterday's game was the worst beating the Raiders took since the 49ers beat them 38-7 in the last game of the season, last year. That was the last Raider game I attended until yesterday, so that two-year record stands at Raiders 21, opposition 75. That's outrageous because the Raiders have such a fine team. I'd be the last one to knock them.

But watching yesterday's game was no different than seeing all the 49er games this season. Balls were bouncing off Raider hands into the clutching fingers of the Baltimore Colts for interceptions. It happened twice. Another of Daryle Lamonica's passes was intercepted when tight end Ray Chester fell down at the last moment. I felt sorry for Daryle. But the fans didn't. When he was hit hard and grounded in the second quarter the fickle fans in the Coliseum actually cheered while he was lying flat on his back.

THE BIGGEST cheer of the day came when grizzled George Blanda entered the game after Lamonica was helped off the field. Even Blanda couldn't do anything about this game.

But the Raiders are still in first place, one-half game ahead of the Kansas City Chiefs in the American Football Conference west. And San Francisco has a similar lead over the Rams in the National Football Conference west.

Baylor Ousts Bill Beall After Loss In Finale

HOUSTON (UPI) — Bill Beall, who still had two years to go on his five-year head football coaching contract at Baylor University, was fired Saturday while his team was completing a 1-9 season with a loss to the Rice Owls.

Baylor officials and Beall were due to make a joint announcement immediately after the final game in Rice Stadium that Beall was giving up his first college head coaching reins "by mutual consent."

It has been a foregone conclusion for weeks that Beall's departure was only a matter of time. A special committee was named by the board of trustees several weeks ago to "review the athletic department."

Beall was hired away from an assistant's role at Louisiana State prior to the 1969 season after John Bridgers was fired to end a 10-year tenure.

San Rafael To Receive Cage Test

San Rafael High School is considered a dark-horse threat in Marin County basketball. The question is just how dark, and a clue to the answer may be supplied tomorrow afternoon when the Bulldogs entertain Washington High of San Francisco at 4 p.m.

In other action involving Marin County Athletic League teams, Novato travels to Hogan of Vallejo, 3:30; Redwood hosts Santa Rosa, 4; Drake journeys to Analy of Sebastopol, 6; and Terra Linda entertains Rancho Cotate, 7.

SAN RAFAEL WINS

In the opener last Wednesday, San Rafael annihilated Sonoma, 62-24. "It's hard to pick out any one outstanding player," said coach Mike Diaz. "Just about everybody did well, especially on defense. We substituted quite a bit. Jerry Malinari looked good at a guard for us."

Washington, the 1970 San Francisco City champion, lost a barn-burner to Redwood last Friday, 50-48, and showed enough to impress Diaz, who scouted the game. "By January they will be very tough," he said. "They're all over the floor on defense. Very quick."

San Rafael will have a significant height advantage with 6-foot-5 Wayne Lechner at center and 6-3 Doni Canfield at forward. Canfield scored 13 and Lechner 11 at Sonoma.

WASHINGTON QUICK

"Their strong point is their quickness," said Diaz. " We'll try to cope with that by slowing the ball down."

Redwood will have another rough test in Santa Rosa, which went 20-6 last year and tied Napa for the championship of the North Bay League.

A brother combination which started last year will return for Santa Rosa — Tom Allen, a forward, and Chris, a guard. "Another starter will be forward Tom Walker," said coach Jim Grisham. "Other than that, I really can't say who will start as of now. Nobody has really stood out in practice."

SANTA ROSA OPENER

The game will be Santa Rosa's opener. The Sonoma Countians play a moderately disciplined offense with occasional fast breaks. They will give away a lot of height to Redwood — Walker and Tom Allen are the tallest players at 6-2, while Redwood's all-league center Steve McGee scales 6-7. McGee grabbed 17 rebounds against Washington's nimble pygmies Friday.

Novato lost its first two games, but the Hornets' performance in the 60-57 loss to Montgomery of Santa Rosa Friday was an improvement over their opening effort. The problem was failure to stick with the offensive game plan, said coach Jim Carimica.

Drake, likewise, suffered two opening defeats but looked better the second time out.

SECOND VICTORY

Marin Tars Topple DVC

By RALPH CHATOIAN

If Saturday night's College of Marin basketball game against Diablo Valley College of Concord is any indication of things to come, there's going to be a lot of excitement around the Tars' gymnasium this season.

You wouldn't know it was really a thriller by the final score — Marin 85, Diablo Valley 79 because much of the excitement was bottled into the final minute of the game played before about 500 fans in Kentfield.

The score was knotted at 77-77 with less than a minute to go before the Tars made good on four straight free throws and then sealed it up on a play coach John Panagakis said "was right out of junior high school."

Roosevelt Green and freshman Joe DeMaestri had scored a pair of free throws each, giving the Mariners an 81-77 lead with 34 seconds left when Viking guard Dwayne Brown made a 15-footer to bring the score to 81-79.

With 13 seconds left and Marin bringing the ball out under the Diablo Valley basket, the Tars called time to set up a play that was going to be the winner. DeMaestri threw the inbound pass to guard Joe Casteel who was streaking down the court. He caught the Vikings' defense flat-footed, took the ball past the mid-court line and roared to the basket, leaped, and dunked in a two-pointer that iced the game. Ed Herrnberger added another basket just before the buzzer after Diablo Valley threw the ball away.

Marin carried a 49-44 lead off the court at halftime, thanks to the super work of guard Joe Smith. He scored 26 first half points, including 16 of 16 free throws. He ended up with 32 points and 18 of 18 free throws.

Diablo Valley's scoring punch came from a Mutt and Jeff guard combination — 6-foot-5½ Ken Cobb and 5-7 Brown. Cobb, a product of Kennedy High in Richmond who played in last year's Northern California All-Star basketball game, scored 30 points and Brown, a freshman from Pittsburg High, scored 22.

"We knew they (Diablo Valley) could run," said Panagakis after the game, "but we should not have let them get away on the fast break like that." He was referring to the nine easy baskets Diablo Valley scored on the fast break.

Panagakis also felt the Tar defense bothered Diablo Valley by switching to a zone for the last seven minutes after playing man-to-man the majority of the game.

Diablo Valley had the edge on Marin in rebounding, 45-36. The Tars will be host to Stanislaus State College of Turlock tomorrow night, 8 o'clock.

Individual scoring:
DIABLO VALLEY — Cobb, 12-6-30; Harski, 4-1-9; Brown, 10-2-22; Pavlin, 5-3-13; Sheide, 1-0-1; Lovick, 0-1-1; Johnston, 1-0-2.

Seals Dump Buffalo 5-3; Sheehan Hot

OAKLAND (UPI) —The California Golden Seals are ready to depart on another road trip and again they are in third place in the National Hockey League West division.

The Seals moved into the third spot Sunday night with a 5-3 triumph over Buffalo that put them one point ahead of idle Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, which lost Sunday night. The Seals have 19 points.

The Seals went ahead to stay on the first of Sheehan's pair at 2:28 of the second period. Sheehan got his 14th of the year exactly three minutes later on a rebound following a shot by defenseman Paul Shmyr.

Warriors, Bucks Go Tomorrow

MILWAUKEE (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors, taking a day off today in their current road trip, are waiting for the return of center Nate Thurmond and a rematch with the Milwaukee Bucks, a team they upset earlier this season in Oakland.

The rematch will come Tuesday night, but Thurmond, who severely cut his hand last Thursday night against Philadelphia, will not be there. Thurmond's absence could make it a long night for the Warriors since they depend on the big center's defensive ability against the Buck's Kareem Jabbar.

Thurmond banged his hand on the rim attempting to block a shot and the cut required 20 stitches between the fourth and fifth fingers.

"I'm supposed to be able to play Saturday against Portland," said Thurmond, who stayed home as the Warriors departed for the road tour. "But I've already been disappointed in my shooting this year, and this layoff and injury won't help."

The Warriors snapped a three-game losing streak in their last outing Saturday night with a 109-91 win over Buffalo. While the Warriors were idle Sunday night, they moved into second place in the National Basketball Association Pacific Division.

'Ragged' Tam Grabs Opener

In other action involving Marin County Athletic League teams, Terra Linda stomped Healdsburg, 72-39, and Marin Catholic downed St. Patrick's at Vallejo, 62-58.

LED THROUGHOUT

Tamalpais led throughout the game by margins of three to nine points, but couldn't put Petaluma away until early in the fourth period, when Johnson hit three baskets in a row. He finished with 15 points.

"It was a very ragged game in the first half," said Tam coach Bernie Schneider. "There were a lot of turnovers and fouls. Petaluma had 20 free throws in the first half and we had 17."

Tam center Will Garner led all scorers with 28 points, hitting 12 of 18 shots from the field. Garner got three fouls fairly early, sat out a stretch and returned to play flawless ball in the second half as the whole Tam team settled down.

"We played good defense, especially in the fourth quarter," said Schneider. Petaluma made only three field goals in the last period and was outscored, 22-11. Star Petaluma guard Kevin Gilmore, who had scored 21 in the first three quarters, got only two more in the fourth.

'EXCEPTIONAL PASSES'

"Jared McFerrin made some exceptional passes for us against Petaluma's press," said Schneider. McFerrin joined Garner and Johnson in double figures with 11.

Terra Linda's John Buckley scored 15 points as the Trojans evened their record at 1-1 with the destruction of Healdsburg. Terra Linda jumped on top early, maintained command and increased the margin at the end.

"We were quite a bit improved over our opener Friday," said coach Bob Corley. "The kids did a lot better job defensively. They stuck to their man-on-man."

DOZEN SCORERS

Twelve different players scored for the Trojans, with nobody except Buckley hitting in double figures. Center Mark Lowey scored nine and did a good rebounding job, according to Corley.

"Healdsburg was a lot smaller, and we were able to dominate the boards," said the coach. Terra Linda also was the benificiary of numerous fouls and converted 26 free throws.

Marin Catholic's full-court press forced key turnovers as the Wildcats went on a 15-point binge starting late in the third quarter against St. Patrick's. The spree gave them a 55-44 lead and they played loose defense the rest of the way to avoid fouling and preserve the victory.

HURLEY HITS

Mickey Hurley led Wildcat scorers with 17 points. Dan Mahoney added 14, Jack Stahl 11 and Jim Sullivan 11. Mahoney and Stahl were key scorers during the surge.

"Hurley did a fine job at both ends," said Marin Catholic interim coach Bill Isetta. "He held their Hank Davis, who had been averaging 17, to six. Sullivan played well defensively until we loosened up at the end, and Carlsen did a good job in the second half." St. Patrick's Bill Tompkins scored 26, but only nine after intermission against Carlsen.

for the Jets, and it's probably lucky for the Forty-Niners that he didn't. Namath got into the game on a rather ironic note with 10:33 left in the second-quarter when Bob Davis, the starting quarterback, was hit after completing a 17-yard pass to caster and was removed from the game with a strained tendon in his right ankle.

"When I saw Davis go down I said 'Oh, bleep.' I said 'Whoa, well you're gonna go, that's all, I talked with Weeb (Ewbank) before the game, and we both felt Davis had been doing a good job and it wouldn't exactly be fair to not let him keep playing," said Namath.

"If the game had gotten out of hand and San Francisco started rolling up the score I would have gone in in the second half. But I didn't know when I'd go in, if at all."

The crowd actually cheered when Davis was helped off the field and broke into bedlam when Namath trotted out. Joe was rusty in his first two series and in his second series had one of his passes picked off by Taylor at midfield, who returned it 47 yards to the Jets' two-yard line. That set up a 25-yard field goal by Bruce Gossett, which eventually turned out to be the winning margin.

But Namath slowly began to get his timing back and moved the Jets from their own 36 to the Forty-Niners' one with 54 seconds left in the half only to have Harkey spoil the drive by fumbling.

The Forty-Niners, sparked by the combined 254 yards rushing of Vic Washington and Ken Willard, twice built a 17-point lead in the second half only to have Namath rally the Jets back into contention with his golden arm.

The Jets, aided by a blocked punt, struck for two touchdowns within a 2:27 span late in the fourth quarter and had a chance to win the game, or at least tie, when they got the Forty-Niners' 19-yard line with 27 seconds left. But on a third-and-10 play with 16 seconds remaining Fuller intercepted a pass intended for Bell in the end zone and ran it out to midfield as the gun sounded.

"I didn't throw well at all," said the 28-year-old quarterback, who had not thrown under game conditions since he was injured in a pre-season game with the Detroit Lions. "The best pass I threw as far as putting something on it and getting good flight was the last play which was intercepted. That's a fact.

"I didn't have my timing together. I've got to improve on my mental state. I've got to feel more at home in the picket. I feel pressure when it might not be there and this can cause you to throw a little early. The biggest problem I had was controlling myself."

Bell, who caught two passes for 45 yards, was in agreement with Namath that he wasn't throwing as well as he can, but the 5-10 flanker said his mere presence on the field was inspirational to the team.

"When Joe came on the field he just lifted the whole club up," said Bell. "Maybe it's not fair to Bob Davis to say this, but when Joe was out there the runners were running better and the linemen were blocking harder. But Namath was only 50 per cent of himself today. That means we get six touchdowns next week."

"He's one of the greatest quarterbacks I've ever seen," said Washington, who had a big day with 125 yards rushing to go with Willard's 129. "I wanted to see him play but I didn't want him to do well and I didn't want him to get hurt. He showed me some courage out there when he ran out of the picket to throw a pass. He showed me he really loves the game."

"He really puts a lot of pressure on you," said Fuller. "He probably wasn't as sharp as he can be, but he can really read defenses. On that interception at the end of the game, Rosey Taylor tipped me off that the play would be coming inside and I laid back and it was right in my hands. But it didn't surprise me that he went for the touchdown. That's the way Namath plays it!"

WEST COAST CAGE

Observers Pick UCLA

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Basketball will try to steal a little of the spotlight from football this week as the 1971-72 cage season opens on the West Coast with two familiar names and one new powerhouse tagged as the teams to beat.

UCLA's John Wooden, coach of the NCAA champion Bruins, has said his squad is young and will make mistakes. Bob Boyd of USC, which has been picked in some pre-season polls as the top team in the country, says the Trojans lack depth.

But veteran basketball observers know that when it's time to decide the Pacific-8 conference championship the Bruins and Trojans will be fighting it out the same as last season.

The team to watch on the West Coast, however, is Long Beach State of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association. The 49ers, led by coach Jerry Tarkanian and seven-foot center Nate Stevens, gave the Bruins fits in the NCAA regionals last year, and some publications have predicted they may not lose to anyone this eason.

In the Pac-8 conference, the new season gets underway Wednesday night when Stanford hosts Houston, Montana plays at Oregon, Oregon State travels to Hawaii to play a service team, USC plays at Arizona State, Washington hosts Portland University and Washington State plays at Gonzaga.

California gets Houston on Thursday, and UCLA waits until Friday to open at home against The Citadel. Long Beach State also opens its season at home Friday against Northwest Missouri.

Pac-8 league games begin Jan. 7.

UCLA's Wooden only has one starter back from the team that went 29-1 last year—guard Henry Bibby. But Wooden says the Bruins' chances for a Pac-8 title repeat depend on 6-11 sophomore center Bill Walton.

Boyd's complaint about lack of depth may prove to be the difference between winning and losing for USC. The Trojans have already lost forwards Nash Monroe and Bruce Clare along with guard Joe Kemp for the year because of injuries.

But Boyd still has his two top guards, Paul Westphal and Dan Anderson, center Ron Riley and forward-center Bill Taylor returning from the team that lost only two games—both to UCLA—last year.

If UCLA and USC falter, Oregon State will be waiting. Beaver coach Ralph Miller has a team of size and experience with veterans Freddy Boyd Neal Jurgenson and Sam Whitehead along with sophomore prospect Steve Erickson leading the way.

Washington State, California, Stanford, Oregon and Washington all have young teams to go along with depth problems and will have trouble staying with the top three Pac-8 teams.

Nevada-Las Vegas, which has a tough test in its season opener Saturday against Long Beach State, is picked to win the West Coast Athletic Conference. But Santa Clara, which hosts UC Davis Wednesday in its opener may give the Rebels a run for their money.

RAIDERS

out the Raiders, highest scoring team in pro football, for more than 52 minutes and limited them to only one first down in the first half and minus one yard passing.

Oakland finished with 311 net yards but most of it was against Baltimore reserves in the final period. George Blanda, who took over for Daryle Lamonica early in the fourth quarter, hit Fred Biltenikoff with touchdown passes of 18 and 4 yards for the Oakland scoring after Baltimore built a 30-0 lead.

The six pass interceptions produced 18 points for the Colts —a pair of one-yard plunges by Norm Bulaich and Don Nottingham and field goals of 45 and 11 yards by Jim O'Brien.

Bulaich also scored on a three-yard run to cap an 80-yard drive with the opening kickoff, Tom Matte dashed over from the 10 and O'Brien booted a 28-yard field goal for the other Colt scores.

Safety Jerry Logan intercepted two of Lamonica's passes, safety Rich Volk stole another and linebacker Mike Curtis pilfered a fourth. Tom Nowatzke and Newsome intercepted two of Blanda's passes in the final period.

USF To Host West NCAA Soccer Finals

University of San Francisco's soccer team will tackle the UCLA Bruins next Sunday at 2 o'clock in Kezar Sadium in the Western Regional finals of the National Collegiate Athletic Association championships.

The Dons of USF defeated San Jose State at Kezar, 3-2, Saturday in the semi-finals and UCLA whipped Chico State, 5-1, also Saturday.

Scoring goals for USF were John Miklewright, from 30 yards out; Leon Heitman, an 18-yarder, and Hans Friessen, from 10 yards. San Jose goals were scored by all-star Manny Hernandez, a penalty kick, and a 15-yarder.

ABA ROUNDUP

Gilmore Giveth But Taketh Away

Artis Gilmore, the Kentucky Colonels' exciting 7-2 rookie, is still young enough to be charitable — but only to a point.

Gilmore handed New York 10 points Sunday night when he was called for goal-tending on five occasions, but he scored 23 points of his own and pulled down 24 rebounds to help the Colonels edge the nets, 108-106, in overtime.

The victory was the 11th in its last 13 games for Kentucky, which increased its first place lead in the Eastern Division of the American Basketball Association to 2½ games over idle Virginia.

Only one other game was played in the ABA Sunday night, and in that one the Dallas Chaparrals beat the Floridians, 106-98.

Dan Issel's basket with two minutes left to play in overtime put Kentucky ahead at 107-106 and Cincy Powell doubled the margin with a foul shot. The nets, who lost their fourth consecutive game, had a chance to tie but Bill Melchionni missed a 10-foot jumper in the closing seconds.

Simmie Hill, who played for the Floridians two years ago, scored 24 points for Dallas against this former teammates. Joe Hamilton added 23 points for the Chaps, who led from start to finish, while Warren Jabali paced the Floridians with 22 points.

Irwin Takes Heritage Golf By 1

HILTON HEAD, S.C. (UPI)—Hale Irwin has known pressure on the football field but the former Big Eight safety says it's nothing compared to trying to hang on to a shaky lead in a big-time golf tournament.

Irwin, who starred in football for Colorado back in the mid 60s, won his first professional golf tournament in his four years on the PGA tour Sunday when he beat Bob Lunn by one stroke and Jack Nicklaus and Ralph Beard by two in the Heritage Classic.

"When you are out there on the football field, you know that if you make a mistake that there are 10 other people to take up the slack," said Irwin. "On the golf course, there's just 14 clubs, you and the ball."

The 26-year-old Irwin held a seemingly commanding three stroke lead by the time Sunday's round was only five holes old as he sank birdie putts at Nos. 2, 3 and 5. But that was destined to be his last birdie of the day and bogeys at Nos. 10 and 14 left him in a precarious position for the final four holes.

Nicklaus, who helped design the Harbour Town course, had a last-round 70 and Beard tied him at 281 by shooting a 67— the day's best round. The tie for third was worth $6,515 and closed him to less than $16,000 behind front-running Lee Trevino in the race for this year's money title.

Lee Trevino, who started with a 78 Thursday when he went into the water four times, had a 69 Sunday for a 290 that was good for 12th-place money of $2,310 and raised his record winnings to $229,552.

Arnold Palmer became the third $200,000 winner of the year when he got $4,500 for finishing fifth with a 74-286. Deane Beman, George Knudson and Mac McLendon tied for sixth at 287.

Mays Gets Married; Leaves For Acapulco

MEXICO CITY (UPI) —San Francisco Giants outfielder Willie Mays was married for the third time Sunday in a civil ceremony.

Cavs Turn To Tigers; Tip 76ers

Fitch, who used to mask his team's losses with fast quips, now bears a real victory smile. his Cavaliers won their fourth straight, 124-120, night over the more experienced Philadelphia 76ers behind the 31-point effort of rookie Austin Carr.

CAVS HOT

While The Cavs' winning streak is monumental for the expansion club, Los Angeles took its 14th straight victory in stride as the Lakers downed Seattle 138-121, to equal an all-time Laker winning streak.

Boston regained first place in the Atlantic Division with a 130-108 triumph over Atlanta and Phoenix downed Houston, 116-110, in the only other NBA action.

Carr, playing his third game in as many nights, pumped in 16 of the Cavs' 33 third quarter points to lead Cleveland away from a 65-65 tie with Philadelphia.

"I didn't think I'd make it this morning after we got back from Atlanta, said the former Notre Dame All America who missed a portion of the season because of an injury. "I never played that much in such a short space of time in college. This is a rough league physically and I'm learning to get that ball away fast."

WINNING WONDERFUL

Fitch, wearing the same clothes since last Tuesday when the Cavs beat Baltimore to start the winning skein, said "winning is wonderful. I knew when I drafted Carr that he would be a success. He's a finished player."

GETS 19

Jerry West netted 19 points in the second quarter after a scoreless first period as Los Angeles ran away from the Sonics. He finished the game with 25 points. The victory tied the mark originally set by the club in 1950 when it played out of Minneapolis.

Seattle, led by Spencer Haywood's 29 points, held a 33-29 first quarter lead, but the Lakers scored 44 points in the second quarter for a 73-59 halftime lead.

Jo Jo White scored 25 points, John Havlicek netted 22 and Dave Cowens 21 as Boston displayed a balanced attack against Atlanta. The victory put the Celtics a half-game ahead of New York in the Atlantic sector. Walt Bellamy and Lou Hudson led the Hawks with 15 points apiece.

McDowell Deal 'Likely' —Aspromonte

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—Ken Aspromonte, the new manager of the Cleveland Indians, said today it is "more than likely" star pitcher Sam McDowell will be traded.

"It's more than likely at the moment he will be traded. We need a centerfielder and shortstop, so if the right players come along he'll be traded," said Aspromonte, former manager of the California League Reno Silver Sox.

"I hate to lose a player the caliber of McDowell, but it's part of the game of baseball. If you can better your team you make the trade," he said.

McDowell posted a record of 13 wins and 17 losses last year after winning 20 games in 1970.

Aspromonte said if VcDowell goes, he will probably use mike Paul as his replacement in the starting rotation.

Aspromonte said he doesn't expect any problems with controversial Alex Johnson, received in a trade for Vada Pinson. Johnson won the league batting title as a California Angel in 1970 but was suspended during the 1971 season for "lack of proper participation."

"He's thrilled pink and he's going to show the people of Cleveland that he's going to do the job, and I'm all for him," Aspromonte said. "I'm thrilled to have him. He's the right hitter for us and he can run very well. He's going to be a great asset to the club."

NHL ROUNDUP

Red Wings Surprise Habs, 4-2

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

All of a sudden the Detroit Wings are emerging as giant killers.

After winning only five of their first 21 games, and losing a coach in the process, the Red Wings knocked off two first-place clubs in as many nights during the weekend. On Saturday night, they beat the New York Rangers, 3-1, and followed that up with a 4-2 surprise over the Montreal Canadiens Sunday night.

RANGERS WIN

The Rangers, who were forced back into a three-way tie for first place with Montreal and Boston in the National Hockey League's East Division following their loss to Detroit, bounced back with a 4-2 triumph over the Philadelphia Flyers Sunday night to reclaim undisputed possession of the top spot.

The Chicago Black Hawks climbed back to within one point of idle Minnesota in the West Division race by belting the Toronto Maple Leafs, 4-1, and in the only other game Sunday the California Seals beat the Buffalo Sabres 5-3.

DETROIT CLUSTER

Alex Delvecchio and Bill Collins scored 33 seconds apart in the first period to give Detroit a 2-0 lead over Montreal and the Red Wings picked up another pair in the second period on goals by Al Karlander and Mickey Redmond.

Montreal was ineffective all night, taking only 20 shots on goalie Joe Daley, as its 11-game unbeaten string came to an end. Jacques Lemaire and Pete Mahovlich scored for the Canadiens.

NETS PAIR

Vic Hadfield scored two goals for the Rangers, his 16th and 17th of the season, and Rod Seiling and Bruce MacGregor collected the others. It was New York's first victory at the Spectrum since Jan. 9, 1969.

Chicago rallied for three goals in the final period to break away from Toronto after the teams had skated to a 1-1 tie in the first two periods. Bryan Campbell scored what proved to be the winner with 11:32 remaining in the game

Pep Pill Use Gets Views

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A noted sports physician says the use of pep pills by athletes seeking extra performance may actually work the other way and degrade their output.

Dr. Donald L. Cooper said at the American Medical Association's annual conference on sports medicine Sunday there is very little scientific evidence to indicate that the drugs known as amphetamines give athletes any extra energy or strength.

"There is evidence in some well done studies that when all of the participants in certain events are tested, losers are more prone to dabble in the area of drug gimmicks than the winners," he said.

Cooper, team physician for Oklahoma State University and the U.S. Olympic team in 1968, said there appears to be a correlation between drug use and losing.

CYCLISTS TESTED

He said cyclists were tested for drugs after racing in Winnipeg in 1967 and it wasn't until authorities got to the 7th, 11th, 14th, 18th, 20th and 32nd place finishers that they found evidence of drug use. Similar results were reported in more recent testing in France and Italy.

"I personally do not believe the amphetamines or the amphetamine-barbiturate combinations can make any athlete perform better than he could drug-free," Cooper said. "In fact, in many instances, the drugs may very well be detrimental to an athlete's performance."

Besides being called pep pills, amphetamines are sometimes known by such names as bennies, wake-ups, eye-openers, lid-poppers, cartwheels, greenies, dexies and footballs. They make a person feel better and usually give him an unrealistic picture of hi ability.

PILLS IMPAIR

Cooper said tests have shown that pep pills in many cases impair a person's problem-solving ability. But he said when this is pointed out to the user, he says he actually felt much more capable.

Cooper said amphetamines also mask normal fatigue symptons and this could account for the few deaths that have been reporting among athletes over the years using drugs.

"The brain is so pleasured by the effect of the drug that it doesn't feel the signals being sent of severe physiological stress and circulatory collapse and death occurs," he said.

Whether an athlete's ankles should be wrapped with tape to prevent injuries caused disagreement between two authorities at the convention.

Dr. Albert B. Ferguson Jr., professor of orthopedic surgery at the University of Pittsburgh and consultant to the Pittsburgh Pirates, said he believed taping ankles was a waste of tape and trainers time and possibly a cause of more knee injuries.

But Dr. Allen J. Ryan, team physician for the University of Wisconsin and past chairman of the AMA sports committee, said there is much evidence taping does protect ankles from injury without endangering knees.

SAFETY REMOVED

"If taping really works, and I'm very doubtful that it does, it removes a safety valve for the knee, making it more susceptible to injury," said Ferguson.

Harris Rakes In Honors After Calgary's Victory

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

VANCOUVER — In addition to the two personal awards Wayne Harris brings home with him to Calgary today, the outstanding middle linebacker can take large credit for securing the victory cup he shares with the Calgary Stampeders as champions of the Canadian Football League.

The 10-year football veteran played the game of his life yesterday and was named the outstanding player for his part in Calgary's 14-11 Grey Cup victory over the Toronto Argonauts.

The 33-year-old all-star was awarded the prestigious Schenley Award as lineman of the year during Grey Cup week for the fourth time and is also the recipient of several other awards.

Harris called the defensive signals which enabled Calgary to snuff out a Toronto drive late in the game when the Argonauts had moved to Calgary's 11-yard line.

"I thought they'd be going to (halfback Leo) McQuay. He's their big running threat and we all figured they would want to move the ball to the center of the field," Harris said.

"McQuay's their big threat outside so we watched him and when he did get the ball, we were all there to meet him."

Cross Country

SAN DIEGO — For the second year in a row, ex-Yale distance standout Frank Shorter has captured the national Amateur Athletic Union cross country title. He led the Florida track club to the team championship Saturday, finishing 200 yards in front of Steve Stageberg over the 10,000-meter UC San Diego course.

Shorter was clocked in 29 minutes and 19 seconds while Stageberg, of the Georgetown (Va.) Athletic Association, was 21 seconds back.

World mile record holder Jim Ryun dropped out after two miles of the 6.2-mile grind with an upset stomach. It was his first race since July.

Water Polo

LONG BEACH — For the second time in three years, UCLA has the National Collegiate Athletic Association water polo championship, capturing the title Saturday night on a 5-3 victory over previously undefeated San Jose State.

Eric Lindroth led the Bruins to their win over the Spartans with three goals while Kevin Craig provided tight goaltending as he blocked 13 San Jose shots.

UCLA won the national championship two years ago and last year finished second to UC Irvine. The win ended the season for the Bruins with an 18-1 record while San Jose State was 20-1.

Boat Racing

LAKE HAVASU CITY, Ariz. — Florida's Bill Sirois captured the $60,000 eight-hour world outboard championship for the second straight time yesterday.

Sirois bettered the marks for both speed and mileage covered in the two-day endurance-type competition. The Fort Lauderdale, Fla. driver averaged 82.5 miles an hour compared with his mark of 79.62 mph last year and he covered 660 miles as compared with the previous mark of 640.

Reggie Fountain Jr., Tarboro, N.C., finished second while Harold Eis, Topeka, Kan., the winner in 1964 and 1965, was third. I fourth place was Renato Molinari of Como, Italy, whose father designed most of the boats that participated in the race on the Colorado River.

Auto Racing

GAINESVILLE, Ga. — In the three days of the American Road Race of Champions, Sports Car Club of America champions were crowned in 22 classes and records were strewn from the esses to the bridge turn on the treacherous Road Atlanta course.

If any single star emerged from the circus, it was Jerry Hansen, the Minneapolis stockbroker who won two races to become the SCCA's first five-time national champion, and strove manfully to win a sixth and become the first ever to hold three crowns at once.

Jurgensen Lost In Redskins' Win

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Washington Redskins may have gained a triumph and lost the war.

Coach George Allen's "Over the Hill" gang recorded a rugged 20-13 win Sunday over vastly improved Philadelphia to stay in the thick of National Football Conference's East Division pennant chase. However, the 'Skins again lost aging quarterback standout Sonny Jurgensen to an injury.

In other football action, Cleveland defeated Houston, 37-24; Minnesota rapped Atlanta 24-7; Buffalo downed New England, 27-20; St. Louis whipped the New Yyrk Giants 24-7; Cincinnati shut out San Diego, 31-0; Denver clipped Pittsburgh 22-10; and New Orleans won over Green Bay, 29-21.

Cleveland regained the Central Division lead in the American Football League Conference as Leroy Kelly rushed for 107 yards and one touchdown and quarterback Bill Nelsen passed for 162 yards against Houston. Bo Scott scored twice for the Browns. Kelly's rushing total moved him into sixth place on the all-time list with 5,784 career yards.

Clint Jones raced 73 yards for one TD and Bill Brown scored on runs of 23 and one yard in Minnesota's victory over Atlanta. Jones' 155 yards rushing tied Dave Osborn's single game record for the Vikings.

The Buffalo Bills snapped a 15-game losing streak as J. D. Hill caught scoring passes of 11 and 47 yards in his first pro start and O. J. Simpson ran seven yards for another score against the Patriots. It was Buffalo's first win since beating the Pats on Nov. 1, 1970.

St. Louis grabbed a 17-0 lead in the first seven minutes against the Giants as the Cards intercepted three of New York's first five passes. John Gilliam caught TD passes of 18 and 13 from Jim Hart in the rout.

Cincinnati recorded its first shut-out since entering the league and chalked up a club record of six pass interceptions. Linebacker Al Beauchamp and cornerback Ken Riley each stole the ball twice and Beauchamp converted one of his thefts into an 18-yard TD run.

Floyd Little's TD runs of 3 and 16 yards helped Denver beat Pittsburgh and spoil the Steeler's chance of holding the AFC Central lead. Jim Turner booted field goals of 32 and 12 yards to help the Broncs.

Charlie Durkee booted five field goals, three of them coming after Green Bay fumbles to provide the margin of New Orleans' win over the Packers. The three-pointers travelled 35, 26, 11 and 12 and 12 yards.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Nebraska, Alabama Finish Year Unbeaten; Vie In Orange Bowl

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

College football fans who had to wait until the end of 1971 to see the "Game of the Year" won't have to be nearly as patient come 1972.

In fact, just a few hours after the new year is rung in, college football will present another classic confrontation when Nebraska meets Alabama in the Orange Bowl. The chances are very good that the two unbeaten powers will rank as the No. 1 and 2 teams in the nation when they take the field on New Year's night.

Nebraska, which currently heads the ratings, already has taken care of one pretender by beating second-ranked Oklahoma, 35-31, Thanksgiving day in the 1971 "Game of the Year." Now, Alabama figures to replace Oklahoma in the No. 2 spot in the new ratings after walloping fourth-ranked Auburn, 31-7, on Saturday.

"Our defense has gotten better and better through the year," said Bear Bryant, the Alabama coach. And now I think it's a great defense. We didn't think too much about Nebraska before the game. We thought only about Auburn. But now we'll concentrate on Nebraska."

Johnny Musso, although bothered by a sore toe, scored two touchdowns for Alabama while rushing for 167 yards on 33 carries. The Crimson Tide thoroughly dominated the game against Auburn, controlling the ball for 83 plays and all but 15 minutes, 51 seconds of the contest.

While a disappointed Auburn coach, Shug Jordan, could only express his admiration for the Tide, saying, "Alabama had a much better team," the feelings weren't nearly as warm in Miami after Florida quarterback John Reaves overtook Jim Plunkett of Sanford as college football's all-time top passer in guiding the Gators to a 45-16 pasting of Miami Saturday night.

Reaves enjoyed a truly sensational night in his final collegiate game, hitting on 33 of 50 passes for 348 yards and four touchdowns, while catching one touchdown pass himself. Reaves wound up with a career passing total of 7,549 yards, surpassing by five yards the record set by Plunkett from 1968-70.

However, Miami coach Fran Curci chastised Florida coach Doug Dickey for allowing his team to literally fall down on defense with 1:10 left to play so that the Hurricanes could score a touchdown and give Reaves his chance to break the record.

"It was the worst thing I have ever seen in football," Curci said. "I used to admire Doug Dickey as a coach—his record speaks for itself—but tonight I lost reupect for him as a coach and as a man. What he did shows absolutely no class."

After Florida allowed John Hornibrook to score from eight yards out, the Gators took possession on the ensuing kickoff and Reaves achieved his record with a 15-yard pass to Carlos Alvarez.

"I would rather not have had to do it that way," Dickey explained, "but certain records are worth going after, I guess. I did not mean to embarrass the Miami football team in any way. I certainly did not give our kids instructions to fall down like that. I was a little disappointed they did."

In other major games Saturday, Army squeezed past Navy, 24-23, in one of the more exciting renewals of their long and bitter rivalry, Louisiana State walloped Tulane, 36-7, Tennessee tripped Vanderbilt, 19-7, Arizona State whitewashed Arizona, 31-0, Houston beat Utah, 42-16, Florida State defeated Pittsburgh, 31-13, and Iowa State turned back San Diego State, 48-31.

San Jose State, which overcame a poor start by winning four of its last five games, including a 13-12 decision over Rose Bowl-bound Stanford, was selected Sunday to represent the Pacific Coast Athletic Association in the Pasadena Bowl

Marin Hockey Teams Win 2 Over Weekend

The Squirts blanked Eastridge of San Jose, 3-0 in Corte Madera, the second shutout for goalie Charles Dotson, and Pee Wees defeated Eastridge, 5-3 at San Jose, with Chris Bonbright scoring a three-point hat trick for Marin.

On the losing side, the Bantams lost to San Francisco, 8-4, in Corte Madera, Mike O'Hara scoring a hat trick, and the Mites were bombed by Santa Rosa, 13-0, in Santa Rosa.

CAGERS

Nixon To Assure Allied Leaders

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon will assure free world leaders at five summit sessions that "we are not going to sacrifice allied unity to a relaxation of tensions" during his historic visits to Peking and Moscow, a White House official said today.

The purpose of the blitz of talks with heads of state was disclosed as the White House confirmed that Canada's Prime Minister Pieere Trudeau will travel to Washington at the end of December to meet with Nixon. The date has not been set.

Before flying back to Washington Sunday from a four-day Thanksgiving holiday at his San Clemente, Calif. villa, the President also announced his revolving door sessions with allied leaders will include West German Chancellor Willy Brandt in Key Biscayne, Fla. Dec. 28-29.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said "no other meetings are being planned or discussed" with other leaders in advance of Nixon's travels to China and the Soviet Union.

Nixon was expected to announce the date of his trip to Peking, possibly Tuesday. Speculation centered on late February, following the Chinese new year's.

The high White House official said the sessions with allied leaders, including British Prime Minister Edward Heath, French President Georges Pompidou and Japan's Prime Minister Eisaku Santo, is to promote understanding of Nixon's objectives and to clear up uncertainty as to his motivies.

"I think there is understanding of our general purposes, but I think there is also a degree of uncertainty as to what our moves mean," the official said. "The purpose of these meetings is to remove as much of that uncertainty as possible."

Dockers At Work, Except In New York

NEW YORK (UPI)—Longshoremen, complying with federal court orders, returned to work in force today at major Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports except New York—where the dockworkers strike began 59 days ago.

Most of the 45,000 members of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) responded to restraining orders issued Friday and Saturday after President Nixon moved to invoke the provision for an 80-day cooling off period in the Taft-Hartley Act. Negotiations would continue during the period.

But the Waterfront Commission in New York, the nation's largest port, reported that employers requested only 39 workgangs today, compared to a normal 250, and only 29 gangs agreed to work. Each gang usually has 18 members.

A spokesman for the New York Shipping Association said shippers could not order more men on the job because of difficulty in preparing work orders and organizing the piers on short notice.

Eleven of the 39 gangs refused to work on Brooklyn piers when told there was no room to park their cars on Pier 8 because of the accumulation of cargo, according to Jesse Langston, director of employment centers for the commission.

Langston said officials of the shipping association had assured him "they expect a full work scheduled for tomorrow" in the port where 69 vessels waited for unloading.

Longshoremen were on hand to unload baggage from three passengers liners, the Homeric, Olympia and Victoria and also were at work on docks on Staten Island and at Hoboken, Jersey City and Bayonne, N.J.

One worker complained of "being kind of stiff" from the long idleness. Another said, "Nixon should have called us back to work five days after the strike began. I never wanted to go on strike in the first place, especially before the holidays."

Longshoremen began work Saturday in Mobile, Ala., unloading soybeans and Sunday in Philadelphia. In North Carolina and at Charleston, S.C., they had been back on the job for at least a week under court orders antedating Nixon's action.

Fire Destroys Customs Post At Irish Border

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A sniper shot and wounded a British soldier in Belfast today and fire destroyed a customs post on the Irish Republic border which extremists attacked several times previously, the British army said.

An army spokesman said the sniper shot the soldier when he was standing with a group of troops beside a disabled military vehicle in the Northern Ireland capital.

The sniper escaped and the soldier's wound was not serious, the spokesman said.

Fire touched off by an incendiary device damaged the British customs post at Killea, a border town three miles from Londonderry, an army spokesman said.

The spokesman did not say who set the Killea fire, but extremists have attacked the post a number of times in the past.

In London, political sources said Irish Republic Premier Jack Lynch planned to visit London privaoely next Monday and they thought it probable he would use the occasion, a lunch address to British parliamentary newsmen, to talk on Ulster with Prime Minister Edward Heath.

In a weekend series of shootings, bombings and burning touched off by what the army called an offensive by the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA), gunfire caught Brendan Rafferty 100 yards from the old brick building housing his home and the candy store he runs.

Paralyzed most of his 26 years by polio, he was unable to get out from behind the wheel of his specially-outfitted manual control automobile Sunday to take cover.

"For God's sake man, get out of the way!" a British army officer yelled at him as gunmen hidden off the Antrim Road in the heavily Roman Catholic Duncairn area of North Belfast opened fire.

"It was clear he couldn't move," an army spokesman said today. "When our men finally got to him they found he'd taken a couple of rounds in the back. We got an ambulance as soon as we could."

Rafferty was taken to Royal Victoria Hospital, where his condition today was described as "improving."

Seven Die In Capital Crash

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A near head-on collision on the South Sacramento Freeway Saturday night took seven lives including those of a Seattle, Wash., man, his wife, and their three small children.

The dead included Merritt Dickson, 28, the apparent driver of one of the cars, his wife, Lulu, 26, and their three children, Mondo, 1; Mone, 2; and Daphne, 5.

Also killed in the two-car crash on highway 99 were Mrs. Bernice Dickson, 48, also of Seattle, and Samuel Fong, 29, Sacramento, driver of the second car.

The California Highway Patrol said Fong's southbound car either hit or swerved to avoid a tire that had spun off a truck, crossed the divider and crashed into the oncoming Dickson car.

Capitol Bombing Cost $118,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The March 1 bombing of the U.S. Capitol cost the taxpayers $118,139 repair—a price $81,861 lower than expected, it was revealed today.

In testimony made public by the House Appropriations Committee, acting Capitol Architect Mario E. Camploli said the building was put back in shape more cheaply than was expected.

Congress had appropriated $200,000 for the repair of several small Senate-side rooms badly damaged by the bombing which occurred on a Sunday night. There were no injuries and the case has not been solved, although a grand jury reportedly is still investigating.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Eye's Conjunctival Membrane Easily Injured By Overexposure

A thin membrane (conjunctiva) lines the eyelids and covers the exposed part of the eyeball. It is so sensitive, the smallest particle or slightest irritation is felt immediately and brings tears to the eyes.

This membrane is easily injured by overexposure to light, wind, or smoke. It is affected also by overuse or abuse of the eyes, refractive errors, faulty glasses, a speck of dust or steel, or a turned-in lash. Overindulgence in alcohol makes the eyes bloodshot and watery. All of these conditions are temporary and disappear, as a rule, when the cause is removed.

A MORE disabling form of conjunctivitis develops when the delicate membrane is invaded by microorganisms. In such instances, the lids swell and become brilliant red. A discharge oozes from between the lids. Its consistency depends upon the causative organism and the excretion varies from a clear watery substance to pus. During sleep, the secretions accumulate and dry on the edges of the lids, which itch, burn, and feel sandy.

There are many variations of conjunctivitis. The reflection from sunlight on snow may induce severe irritation (snow blindness) similar to that produced by exposure to an ultraviolet lamp. The welder who does not wear a protective shield may encounter a similar reaction.

VARIOUS infections may spread to the eye through contaminated droplets, fingers, towels, and handkerchiefs. Pink-eye, an extremely contagious form of acute conjunctivitis, occurs most often in the spring and summer. This type of inflammation may accompany coryza of the nose, hay fever, flu, and measles.

Never neglect conjunctivitis. The ophthalmologist may test the secretions to determine the cause and prescribe a specific remedy. Ice compresses are soothing and the eyes may be irrigated several times a day with a dilute saline solution. Ointments containing a sulfonamide may prove helpful. Antibiotics may be needed but are best administered orally or hypodermically.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

'DREAM' DIETER

A reader writes: I dream about how nice I would look if I were slim, but I have no willpower. Have I some kind of mental block?

REPLY

I don't know, but whatever the problem is you are not alone. Perhaps you need sympathy and guidance to help you follow a diet restricted in total calories.

SERIOUS IN BABIES

REPLY

Measles is most dangerous in the very young, especially infants and children under the age of 3. Complications, such as pneumonia, are likely to develop in this group.

HYPNOSIS IN CANCER

Y. V. writes: Has hypnosis ever been used in the treatment of cancer?

REPLY

No, but it has been used in an attempt to relieve the pain of cancer. And perhaps as an anesthetic for surgery.

EARLY PREGNANCY

Alien Report Denied By Mrs. Banuelos

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Romana Acosta Banuelos insisted today she did not knowingly permit illegal Mexican aliens to work in her Southern California food plant --which was raided shortly after she was nominated by President Nixon for U. S. Treasurer.

Mrs. Banuelos, testifying before the Senate Finance Committee, also denied a report by the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service that there had been five raids prior to the one on Oct. 5 for illegal aliens at her taco and tortilla factory in Gardena. She said the immigration service found eight to 11 aliens during one raid in the spring of 1968.

The Senate committee is considering Mrs. Banuelos' appointment to the largely cereyears has traditionally gone to monial position, which in recent a woman.

Thirty-six Mexicans were arrested when Mrs. Banuelos' firm, Ramona's Food Products Co., was raided Oct. 5 —15 days after her appointment was announced —by federal agents. The workers lacked the "green card" which permits holders to take employment in the United States.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., introduced Mrs. Banuelos to the committee with praise for her business acumen and civic interests. He stressed that at the time of the raid it was not illegal in California to hire illegal aliens.

Cranston said he had been "very impressed by her and by her responses to questions I asked her about the incident."

Mrs. Banuelos, 46, a native of Miami, Ariz., is a self-made businesswoman. She started with a food stand selling spicy snacks 24 years ago.

She founded and is chairman of the Pan American Bank of East Los Angeles.

Everything Rosy At U.N. As Thant Voted Raise

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The United Nations today put aside the cold war—now a triangular Sino-Soviet-American affair —and in a rare spirit of unanimity voted Secretary General Thant a $12,500 raise.

The Soviet proposal for a world disarmament conference which brought two sharp clashes last week between Soviet and Chinese deputy foreign ministers, with sideswipes at the United States was shelved until at least Wednesday.

The world parliament devoted itself today to budgetary questions, South Africa's racial separation policy of apartheid, international cooperation in space and preparation of a moon treaty.

By a 95-0 vote, with 8 abstentions, the assembly increased the salary of secretaries general, beginning with Thant, from $50,000 to $62,500 gross. His net salary after various deductions, went up from $31,600 to $37,850 annually. The same resolution set the Secretary General's pension at half his gross salary, instead of half the net, as at present.

The disarmament conference proposal brought changes scarcely paralleled since the chilliest days of the Moscow-Washington freeze of the 1950s and 1960s.

Capp Morals Trial Ruling

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. (UPI)—The trial of cartoonist Al Capp on three morals charges was expected to occur next March after Eau Claire County Judge Thomas Barland ordered the case bound over to circuit court Friday.

The judge's decision was prompted by the unexpected appearance of Capp last Monday in which he waived preliminary hearing and asked for the transfer of the case from county court.

First Woman Governor Is 95

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The first woman governor in the United States, Nellie Ross, celebrates her 95th birthday today, although her exact birth date is not known.

Mrs. Ross, governor of Wyoming for two years beginning Jan. 5, 1925, was also the first woman director of the U.S. Mint.

She was born near St. Joseph, Mo., and went to Wyoming in 1902. Mrs. Ross was elected governor in November of 1924. Her husband, William Bradford Ross, had been elected governor two years earlier but died in office just before the 1924 election.

Supervisors May Rule On Squabble

The Marin County Board of Supervisors will be asked tomorrow to settle a squabble over fire protection at Muir Beach.

County Administrator John F. Barrows has recommended that the board tell the recently-formed Bello Beach Volunteer Fire Department it must turn over its fire truck to the Muir Beach Community Service District. The vehicle was loaned to the volunteers by the Marin County Fire Department, which previously had to send its truck on a 20-minute run over twisting mountain roads to reach Muir Beach.

On Nov. 2, Muir Beach voters approved enlarging the power of the community services district to include firefighting, thus providing at least one full-time paid man, alarm equipment and training facilities the volunteers lacked.

Barrows said Muir Beach has had two structural fires in the past two months, but the Bello Beach company was unable to respond due to lack of manpower and other problems.

"The continuing hostility between various segments of the community apparently necessitates the intervention by your board," Barrows advised.

The supervisors' meeting tomorrow will be the third of their experimental "swing-shift" sessions, beginning at 1:30 p.m. and running into the evening after a dinner break. Also on the agenda will be:

COURTHOUSE — The board will appoint representatives to negotiate sale of the old courthouse property in downtown San Rafael to the city.

RICHARDSON BAY — Bay Conservation and Development Commission officials and county marina inspector Richard L. Larson will report at 8 p.m. on the status of marina enlargement applications and houseboat owners' complaince with antipollution orders.

MENTAL HEALTH — The Mental Health Advisory board will submit a list of priorities and proposed new programs, for approval subject to later budget reviews.

GRADING ORDINANCE — Discussion of a proposed grading ordinance, as drafted by public works department staff.

Novatan Injured In Cable Crash

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A San Francisco fireman who lives in Novato was one of nine persons hurt Saturday night when a cable car collided with a fire truck on Taylor and Washington Streets.

Lt. Conrad A. Bremner of 39 Leland Drive, received a sprained back and bruises when he was thrown from the fire truck, he reported.

Fireman Bob Jones, along with Bremner, was treated at Harbor Emergency Hospital for cuts and bruises.

Seven cable car passengers also were taken to the hospital.

The cable car was going down Washington Street when it collided with the fire truck, which was backing into position at Taylor and Washington Streets. Firemen found that there was no fire in an electric oven explosion at 1250 Clay Street.

Panama Dope Shipping Cited

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A confidential Justice Department report calls Panama one of the "most significant countries for the trans-shipment of narcotics ... to the United States."

The six-page report, obtained by UPI Friday, said Panamanian officials were not paying sufficient attention to narcotics enforcement activities. It added that, "this may be due to high level apathy, ignorance and-or collusion."

During the past 12 months, American authorities have intercepted 614 pounds of heroin which came from Europe via Panama, the report said.

Two Blazes At School Held Arson

A fire, apparently intentionally set, destroyed two debris boxes Friday night, at Vallecito School on 50 Albion Way, San Rafael, police and fire officials have reported.

According to police the 9:15 p.m. blaze was set as a mischievous prank.

Parolee Picked Up In Marinwood

California Highway Patrol officers have impounded a stolen car filled with a San Quentin parolee's paintings, and booked the artist into Marin County Jail on car theft and parole violation charges, the Patrol has reported today.

Officers Donald George and Kenneth Parker stopped Kenneth Harvey Hicks, 39, of San Francisco on Highway 101 in Marinwood, after observing his car weaving Wednesday. The car was traced as having been stolen from a San Francisco owner.

Hicks, officers said, has been living at a half way house for ex-inmates in San Francisco since he was paroled in September.

He reported having a family quarrel, said he loaded the paintings he had done in seven years of prison life into the car — but could not explain its possession — and drove north through Marin until he was stopped.

He was being held without bail, for action by his parole officer.

Watch Out For Watch Chiseler

You can buy an Omega brand watch for prices starting something over $100, or you can buy an Ornega brand watch for something like $7.95.

But, whatever you do, be careful if you're offered either for $15 or $20.

San Anselmo Police Lt. G. Albert Howenstein warned that a man has been hitting the San Anselmo area selling "Omega" watches for $15 or $20, saying he is offering the terrific bargain because he "needs the money."

Examination of the watches reveals they are actually Ornega brand, Howenstein said.

He said the man, described only as white and in his 40s, has been approaching service station operators with his offer.

Buses Will Be Discussed

Local and commuter bus services to be operated by the Golden Gate Bridge District will be discussed by its transportation committee at 8 p.m. Thursday in the supervisors chambers of the Marin County Civic Center.

Routes, schedules and fares will be presented for public comment.

Present plans by the district call for local Marin service to start Dec. 13 and commuter service to San Francisco on Jan. 3.

Petaluma Burglary Suspect Arrested

George G. Boyden, 18, no known address, was arrested Thursday in Petaluma on suspicion of burglary.

Police said he was arrested shortly after $40 was taken from a cash register at the Petaluma Plaza Arco station, 101 North McDowell Boulevard. He was booked into Sonoma County Jail for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Two Held After A Free-For-All

RICHMOND (UPI) —Two teen-agers were in police custody today in connection with a house party that turned into a free-for-all with five persons shot, stabbed or beaten.

Claude Baughan, and Stanley A. Smith, both of San Pablo, were charged with assault with intent to commit murder. Two juveniles, whose names were withheld, were charged with leaving the scene with illegal weapons and released in the custody of their parents.

The fight started Saturday night, police said, after members of a social club arrived at a party hosted by the Velintes club. A helicopter and detectives were sent to the scene.

The brawl was probably an outbreak of past differences between the Valintes and its guests, the Ravens of Oakland and the Brethren of Santa Clara, police said.

He'll Get To Sleep At Night

PARIS (UPI) —Roger Rossignol hasn't slept at night in 30 years. But today Rossignol, the night custodian at one of Paris' plushest hotels, arose from a bed slept in by such millionaires as Stavros Niarchos and Henry Ford.

After announcing his retirment from the night watch of the Plaza Athenee, Rossignol, 65, was given the royal treatment for one weekend at the Paris Hotel near the Champs Elysees.

"I stayed in the royal suite, and was served champagne and flowers by the very men I've worked with for all these years," said Rossignol.

Asked what he plans to do now with his free time, Rossignol said he wanted "lots of sunshine and sleeping night."

Jewelry Worth $15,000 Missing

A Tiburon woman has reported the disappearance of more than $15,000 worth of jewelry from her home, sheriff's deputies have reported.

Deputies said that Frances F. Lichtenberg of 2311 Spanish Trail Road told them three pieces of antique jewelry disappeared from a jewelry chest sometime between Nov. 14 and Nov. 16.

The most valuable piece she described as a gold rectangular brooch with five sapphires, valued at $15,000. Also missing are another brooch, valued at $175, and a pair of earrings, valued at $130, deputies said.

Nurse Falls To A Promotion

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (UPI) —Army Nurse Barbara G. Tlush fell 5,000 feet into a promotion Friday on the golf course of the Valley Forge General Hospital.

Mrs. Tlush, 24, a native of Bradenton, Fla., bypassed the normal pinning ceremonies when promoted to captain and arranged to be pinned while free-falling over the course's first tee.

She was pinned by her husband, Jan, 25, Meadowbrook, Pa., also in the Navy and also a parachutist.

Hearing Is Set In Burglary Case

George Theodore Gerhardt, 19, of Kent Woodlands, accused of burglarizing a San Rafael home, faces a preliminary hearing on Dec. 7 in Marin Municipal Court.

He pleaded innocent to the charge on Wednesday before Judge Robert A. Smallman. Gerhardt was arrested by San Rafael police on suspicion of breaking into a home on C Street on Oct. 21.
